Energy bill veto expected to stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears to be unable to overturn President Ford's veto of a crucial energy bill, assuring higher prices for fuel, food and most manufactured goods.

Failing to pick up the votes of three or four eastern Republicans, the Senate's Democratic majority virtually threw in the towel even before Ford on Tuesday announced his long-expected veto of a bill extending controls on oil prices for six months.

Thus, it appeared Ford loyalists and oil-state senators would have about 36 votes—two more than needed to sustain the veto today.

The next step by the Ford administration would be to ask Congress for a 45-day extension of price controls. During that period, Congress would be expected to adopt a gradual phase-out of controls along the lines of the 39-month proposal offered by Ford.

The end result of such a move would be that U.S. oil prices would rise to the level set by the oil-exporting nations, currently about $13.50 a barrel. U.S. oil now sells for an average of $9.50.

All sides agree that such an increase in oil prices would raise the price of gasoline, food, clothing and most other goods. But since the energy battle between Congress and the White House began eight months ago, there has been little agreement on the size of the increases.

The Library of Congress has estimated Ford's plan to end price controls on oil would mean an increase of up to 15 cents in the price of a gallon of gasoline, raise the cost of living by nearly 2 per cent and throw 600,000 Americans out of jobs.

The Ford administration predicts that gasoline prices will rise no more than 6 cents a gallon, and inflation will increase by .8 per cent. The Agriculture Department calculates that retail food prices would rise by about .7 per cent over the next 27 months because of decontrol.

Almost immediately after Ford announced his veto of the six-month price-control bill, the debate resumed in Congress.

"If the veto is not upheld, the nation is not likely to have a comprehensive energy policy for a couple of more years," said Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr., R-Md.

City sales tax cut

Citizens protest rate for water

CHARLESTON---The City Council Tuesday night heard complaints on water rates, voted to lower the city tax rate, approved recommendations for park improvements and passed ordinances relating to the Community Development Program.

The city's present tax levy of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation was reduced to $1.40 in order to comply with a state law which requires the rates to be reduced when county assessments are increased 10 per cent or more. Mississippi County's assessed valuation was increased 12.12 per cent.

A number of residents attended the meeting to protest the flat rate of $6.25 per month for water consumption. Most of the complaints were from owners of multi-family units, many occupied by elderly who do not use much water, who must pay the flat rate for each unit even though some of the units are vacant at times.

Most people attending the meeting apparently agreed that installation of water meters throughout the city would be the fairest way to solve the problem.

Council members assured the group that the decision to go with the flat rate was made after all aspects of the problem were thoroughly discussed. While they were in agreement that there are inequities in the flat rate, the council explained that the cost of installing the meters at the city's expense is prohibitive.

City Manager Willis Downs explained that one reason the city continues to bill a multi-family unit for water even though the unit is vacant is because some property owners who call to report a vacant apartment wait several months before calling again to inform the city the unit has been rented again.

The council agreed to seek projected cost estimates for the installation of meters and to explore the possibility of using community development funds for the project.

Following a lengthy discussion, the council adopted ordinances—by a vote of four to one, with Councilman Lowell Nicholas opposing the motion—authorizing Mayor Bill Knight to sign an application for the second Community Development Program year funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Land Clearance for Redevelopment Agency was designated in the second ordinance as the authority to administer community development funds, with the city to be consulted by the agency on proposed use of funds. The

Another step for education

By RICK MOREIN

There is a quiet, educational innovation going on at Sikeston's Lee Hunter Elementary School. Exceptional children, long placed in special school districts, or forgotten, are being taught within the scope of the public school system.

Five days a week, children like Patrick Hewett, 6, and Mike Shelton, also 6, look forward to going to school with "regular kids", an innovation made possible by the passage of Title 6-B of Public Law 89-313, which provides for the establishment of new programs for exceptional children. Patrick is the son of Mrs. Vonda Hewett, 117 Baker Lane. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shelton, 730 N. Ranney St.

Working with these youngsters at Lee Hunter is Mrs. Joy Guthrie, a recent gfraduate of Southeast Missouri State University, who believes that "the most important thing for these kids is to be recognized as children, not anything else." 2 robbery suspects given change of venue

NEW MADRID---Daniel Griffith and Joseph Gulley of Cape Girardeau, charged with an Aug. 21 armed robbery at the Farmer's State Bank facility in Parma, were granted a change of venue to Mississippi County Circuit Court Tuesday by New madrid County Circuit Judge William L. Ragland.

The men, who remained in custody under bonds of $25,000 each, will be transferred to the Mississippi County jail in Charleston.

Approximately $7,000 was taken in the holdup by a man dressed as a woman who entered the bank with a handgun about the same time an alleged accomplice in a yellow truck asked for change of a $20 bill at the drive-in-window.

At a preliminary hearing on Aug. 29, Mrs. Joyce Presley, the bank teller, identified Griffith as the man who entered the bank and stated Gulley was the man in the truck.

Gulley was arrested in Cape Girardeau on the night of Aug. and Griffith was taken into custody the following day by Cape Girardeau police. An around-the-clock investigation, conducted by the New Madrid County Sheriff's Department, highway patrol officers and Parma Marshal Larry Gee who were aided by information received from Parma residents, led to the men's arrest.

Evidence and testimony at the preliminary hearing indicated that serial numbers on eight $20 bills in Gulley's possession at the time of his arrest matched serial numbers on a list kept by the bank.

Juvenile held as an adult

NEW MADRID--A 15-year-old Portageville boy, Victor Paul Anderson, Tuesday was ordered released from juvenile custody and held as an adult in the Aug. 24 shooting death of his father, David L. Williams, 50, of Tiptonville, Tenn., following a Juvenile Court hearing before Judge William L. Ragland.

Williams died instantly after being struck by three .22-caliber bullets allegedly fired by the youth when the two were engaed in a dispute outside Partee's Place, located east of Bay Ditch on Highway 162 East in Portageville.

A murder charge was expected to be filed today in magistrate Court against Anderson, who was ordered held without bail pending arraignment on the charge.

Cooking school Thursday

Economy-minded cooks, who are looking for new, tasty recipes for their families will probably find just what they are seeking at The Southern Kitchen's Cooking School scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Sikeston High School Fieldhouse.

The cooking demonstration is being cosponsored by Progressive Farmer and The Daily Standard.

Included in today's edition is a special tabloid supplement with information about the school, along with some recipes and cooking hints.

Paving improvements on Luther Street between North and Washington streets will cost $4.50 per foot for the 24-foot wide street, not $24 as stated in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard.

Sunday edition starts Sept. 28

The Daily Standard will begin publication of a Sunday edition on Sept. 28, it was announced today by C. L. Blanton Jr., publisher.

The Sunday edition will include color comics, area and statewide features, a stock market page and business section, complete weekend sports coverage, a farming section, Scope magazine, a complete television schedule and women's section, in addition to complete and up-to-date coverage of the news.

The single-copy price of the Sunday edition will be 30 cents. For those who have home delivery or take the paper by mail there will be no increase in circulation prices. Beginning Sept. 27, the Saturday edition will be published in the afternoon and the Monday edition will be discontinued.

The Sunday edition will provide Daily Standard advertisers with the opportunity to attract more business during the first part of the week, normally a slow period.

Color comics to be added to the Sunday paper will be Prince Valiant, Blondie, Beetle Bailey, Snuffy, Hi and Lois, Archie, Bringing up Father, Steve Canyon, Pony Tail, Peanuts, Little Iodine, Tiger, Let's Sew, Henry and Jen's World.

New deadline for display advertising, local and classified, will be: Saturday noon for Tuesday's paper, Monday at 5

School opening 'smooth'

The opening of school for the 1975-76 school year went smoothly, the Sikeston R-6 School District Board of Education was told Tuesday afternoon.

Robert Miller, director of elementary education, said a minimum number of problems arose on opening day and no trouble was experienced in balancing the number of students to the classrooms.

The student- teacher ratio this year averages 25 to 26 students per classroom throughout the system. A total of 4,927 students are enrolled in the district.

Enrollment in the elementary schools is almost the same as last year, Miller said. Another 10 or 12 students will probably enroll in the next few weeks, he said.

A slight increase in student enrollment was recorded in the secondary system, according to Roger Sherman, director of secondary education.

The major increase in enrollment is in the high school where 1,043 students are enrolled this year.

A total of 645 Sikeston students are taking some area of vocational training, including home economics, business education and distributive education courses.

The district's 24 buses are traveling about 1,000 miles daily, an increase of 100 miles daily over last year, according to Tony Statler, director of transportation.

The mileage traveled yearly totals about 200,000 miles on the daily routes and about 50,000 or more for field trips.

Statler said some of the buses are still a little crowded, but his office is working out solutions to the problems.

Opening day went smoothly, he said, except for the usual mix-ups.

Cline Ables, superintendent of maintenance, reported school facilities are in good shape.

Ables said it cost the district $431 to repair damage caused by vandalism Aug. 10 to the new junior high school.

Police arested three juveniles for spraying paint over walls, carpets, doors, restrooms, a television set and books. Also, 15 ceiling tiles were broken and fiber wall panels were pulled out.

A driver training range north of Public School Stadium on the high school grounds has been paved and needs only to have the markings completed, according to Supt. Sam Harbin.

The district received a $10,000 state grant to build the range. It will pay the additional $5,000 cost of the range out of its own money.

The driving range will allow more students to be given driver training each year at a lower cost per student, according to Harbin.

In addition, it will allow the training of tractor-trailer drivers if the district should decide to conduct truck driver classes.

MASW to discuss health planning act

The National Health Planning and Resources Development Act will be the topic of discussion at the annual dinner meeting of the Southeast Division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Ramada Inn.

William C. Mitchell of Jefferson City, director of special services, department of social services, will discuss the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act and its implication for Missouri citizens. This is one of the most far-reaching pieces of health legislation ever to emerge from Congress. It is designed to improve the nation's health care delivery system by reducing unnecessary and duplicative costs through an adequate planning system.

The law, in effect, creates five mandatory health planning agencies in Missouri which are responsible for preparing an area-wide health plan and reviewing and approving all area spent federal health funds.

The Southeast Division meeting is open to the public.

Robbers take $700

DEXTER - About $700 was taken in an armed robbery about 10:40 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Jack Barker, five miles southwest of Dexter, the Stoddard County Sheriff's office said today.

Barker told the sheriff's department that a man came to the door asking for jumper cables and when he opened the door, two other men came up with paper bags on their heads. One had a pistol.

Barker said the men did not ramsack the house, but demanded his billfold, which contained seven $100 bills.

A television and fan were on, Barker said, so he did not hear a car drive up or drive away.

A burglary was reported about noon Tuesday at the home of Eldon Rogers, on Highway 25, south of town.

Mrs. Rogers said she had gone to a grocery store. When she returned home she saw the house ramsacked and thought she heard the back door slam.

She got back in her car, went back to the store and called Dexter police, who notified Stoddard County Sheriff's Department.

A search of the area was made but no one was found.

Items taken included a radio, watches, a coin bank, earrings, tape players and tapes, rifles, shotguns, shells and drinking glasses.

Sheriff Ralph Mouser said the burglars must have had a car at the home earlier to get away with that many items. He said he doubted they could have gotten away with the property on foot.

The house was not locked at the time of the burglary.

Bernie approves bond issue

BERNIE - Voters Tuesday approved a $135,000 bond issue proposal for extension and improvements to the city's water and sewer systems.

Final returns showed 67 for the issue and 28 against. City Clerk Maxine Foster said the turnout was light. The city has about 800 registered voters.

The issue required two-thirds majority approval and was passed by a slim 11 vote margin, Mrs. Foster said.

School opening 'smooth'

The opening of school for the 1975-76 school year went smoothly, the Sikeston R-6 School District Board of Education was told Tuesday afternoon.

Robert Miller, director of elementary education, said a minimum number of problems arose on opening day and no trouble was experienced in balancing the number of students to the classrooms.

The student- teacher ratio this year averages 25 to 26 students per classroom throughout the system. A total of 4,927 students are enrolled in the district.

Enrollment in the elementary schools is almost the same as last year, Miller said. Another 10 or 12 students will probably enroll in the next few weeks, he said.

A slight increase in student enrollment was recorded in the secondary system, according to Roger Sherman, director of secondary education.

The major increase in enrollment is in the high school where 1,043 students are enrolled this year.

Sherman said 106 students from other area schools are taking vocational courses at the high school, a decrease of eight from last year.

The district's 24 buses are traveling about 1,000 miles daily, an increase of 100 miles daily over last year, according to Tony Statler, director of transportation.

The mileage traveled yearly totals about 200,000 miles on the daily routes and about 50,000 or more for field trips.

KISSINGER ON PORTUGAL

The ink has hardly dried on the Helsinki agreement on European Security and already Secretary of State Kissinger is forced to complain publicly that the Soviets are violating its principles by aiding the Portuguese Communist effort to subvert democracy and take over that country.

We say "forced" because Kissinger knew very well that the Soviets were involving themselves in Portugal before he and President Ford went to Helsinki. The CIA warned, weeks ahead of time, that Russia was providing massive financial assistance to the Portuguese comrades. Yet Kissinger made no protest and the State Department played down the reports. Nothing, obviously, was going to be allowed to disturb the "friendly atmosphere" of detente. But now Kissinger comes out with a public warning to Moscow that "the Soviet Union should not assume that it has the option , either directly or indirectly, to influence events contrary to the right of the Portuguese people to determine their own future."

Well, these are nice words, but why shouldn't Russia make that assumption.. What is the U. S. going to do about it.. Kissinger had an answer of sorts; "The Portuguese people should know that we and all the democratic peoples of the West are deeply concerned about their future and stand ready to help a democratic Portugal."

That sounds a little better, perhaps. We hope, frankly, that in translation it means that the U. S. is already giving some kind of help to the anti- communist forces in Portugal and that if matters come to civil war, the U. S. will prevent any outright military intervention by the Soviets on the side of the Communists.

The Portuguese drama is unfolding against an ominous backdrop. A recent article in the Soviet Communist party newspaper, Pravda, suggests that Moscow has dropped the theme of cooperation with other parties, such as the socialists, as the road to power, and now believes the time is ripe for "direct revolutionary activity by the masses." Portugal is evidently going to be a test case for this new line which Moscow is now urging on the other Communist parties of Western Europe.

We're glad Dr. Kissinger finally spoke out. Better late than never. It is simply more proof, if any is needed, than the fine words at Helsinki were nothing more than another idealistic- sounding fraud, having nothing in common with reality. The reality is that the Soviets think the time has come to push for world revolution more aggressively, not less so.

DESTROYING INDIA IN ORDER TO SAVE IT

The Indian Embassy in Washington has released the text of a reply by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to Dr. Benjamin Spock, who sent her a cable urging her "to free Mr. J.P.Narayan and restore democratic liberty that the whole world has previously admired."

"I know that you are deeply committed to pacifist causes," said Mrs. Gandhi. "But I am not sure that you have been properly informed of what has been happening here.

"Mr. Jayaprakash Narayan has, for a long time, carried on a campaign against the government and against me personally but we did not do anything to curb his movements or his free speech. More recently he aligned himself with RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh), the organization which instituted Mahatma Handhi's murder and which is fanatically Hindu, preaching discrimination against Muslim and Christian minorities. At the same time he encouraged the extreme left. Neither of these groups has ever claimed a be belief in democracy. In his extreme anger and frustration at lack of popular support he called upon the army and the police to disobey orders.

"This is what compelled me to take the unpleasant decision. Democratic liberty in India is not jeopardized by the action that has been taken, but it would have been if we had permitted the country to drift."

Even in a democracy, of course, there have to be limits on dissent and civil disobedience. But there is also supposed to be something called due process, a subject about which Dr. Spock, who has had his own run-ins with government authority, could instruct Mrs. Gandhi.

This is precisely what is so disturbing about what has been happening in India. Mrs. Gandhi has not only stifled the press and jailed many hundreds of alleged radicals and menaces to public order, she has done so without going through the bother of bringing formal charges against them and according them the right to defend themselves in a court of law. She has, in effect, set herself up as judge, jury and executioner of indeterminate sentences meted out to her political opponents.

A notorious phrase from the Vietnam war which Dr. Spock so ardently opposed is an apt epitaph for democratic liberty in India; " We had to destroy the villagea in order to save it."

DENY THE ULTIMATE WEAPON

Last year it was Baltimore, last month it was New York City, now it is San Francisco. In increasing numbers, public employees responsible for providing services necessary to the health and safety of cities are using—often illegally—the ultimate weapon of labor; the strike. The Michigan Highway Patrol recently took the first step toward joining—of all things—the Teamsters Union!

With the piled garbage, the threats of unchecked crime, the prospect of cities gone bankrupt comes the surety that something must be done. Some way must be found to stem those strikes which threaten essential public services while still protecting the rights of government employees. Most likely it will have to come through federal legislation.

There are two reasons why public employees often have been more assertive than some other labor groups: they are exempted from the National Labor Relations Act which gives employees of private firms collective bargaining and strike rights; and for many years they were generally underpaid when compared with those in the private sector.

But many public employees, especially in large cities, now are unionized. And, for the most part, the lot of the public employee has improved to the point where he has reached parity with—in some cases surpassed—those holding similar jobs in private industry. Policemen in San Francisco now start at over $16,000 a year and as a result of their strike have been granted a 13 percent increase (compared with an average 8 percent increase in private contracts signed throughout the country this year).

Some states and cities have local laws prohibiting public employees from striking, but they are often broken. The Taylor law in New York, for instance, didn't prevent then Gov. Nelson Rockefeller from bowing to the demands of striking garbagemen in 1967, or policemen from walking off the job and blocking traffic this year.

The fact that the NLRA does not apply to public employees, coupled with the patchwork of widely differing laws around the United States, creates a confusing situation for employees, unions, and public officials.

Now before Congress are several bills which would grant all public employees collective bargaining rights and set up a mechanism for settling disputes. One would simply bring such employees under the blanket of the NLRA. Another would set up a separate public Employee Relations Board, patterned after the NLRB.

We believe that a compromise solution protecting both cities and their employees must include the following: The right of all public employees to organize and collectively bargain for wages and benefits. Those employees whose jobs are not immediately essential to health and safety should have the right to strike.

But police, fire, sanitation, and hospital workers, because of the special nature of their jobs, should be denied the ultimate labor weapon. Instead, unions representing such workers and the governments for which they work should be required to submit to binding arbitration in cases where negotiations fail.

Legislation to effect this must come at the federal level to ensure equity throughout the United States. And it must come soon.

PLENTY OF WARNING!

Today's energy shortage embodies a chronological record of public and official apathy to known facts that can only be described as incredible. Consider a few quotations from the remarks that have been made over the years by leaders in public and private life relative to tax and regulatory policies of government that began undermining our energy-based society more than 20 years ago.

Most of the following comments relate to the folly of imposing public utility regulation on natural gas producers. In 1953, the vice chairman of the Committee on Mineral Law for the state of Texas warned of this type of regulation: "Imposing utility rate base will offer inadequate incentive to producers...the consumer as well as the producer will profit from the absence of federal regulation and both will suffer from its imposition." Shortly after the Supreme Court decision that imposed this type of regulation on gas producers, the president of a major oil company noted that: "With demand increasing and the rate of discovery decreasing, after a time a definite shortage of gas occurs...the net result to the consumer is a shortage of supply and an increase in rates." The warnings continued to come through the years. In 1957, President Eisenhower, in a Budget Message to Congress, said: "Legislation freeing gas producers from public utility type regulation is essential if the incentives to find and develop new supplies of gas are to be preserved...."

In 1961, the chairman of the Federal Power Commission stated: "We cannot expect him (the gas producer) to continue risking his money exploring for gas at the pace which the national interest requires...." A Houston, Texas, consulting geologist in 1960 said: "I can safely predict that between now and 1975 we will have an energy crisis in this country. Then the people will say 'The industry is to blame, why weren't we told?' Well, I'm telling them now."

The energy crisis is no mystery. Its cause and its cure have been known for two decades by competent energy authorities. Their recommendations have been ignored.

"Chain Store Age," one of the country's largest trade publications, has featured a discussion of trading stamps under the title, "Are Trading Stamps A Fair Trade?" The piece dealt mainly with the giving of stamps in chain drug stores; however, it also pointe d up the fact that promotion and advertising, including the trading stamp form of promotion are very much alive in the U.S. free market, mass retail distribution system.

The article notes that, '...some 225,000 retailers across the country (are) convinced that the traffic generating power of stamps and the loyalty of stamp-saving consumers more than offset the expense of offering and advertising them. Fact is, "continues Chain Store Age, "a recent survey found that 70 percent of all U.S. households are stamp-saving households. Of these, most have been saving stamps for five years or longer, and an overwhelming majority plan to continue to do so in the future. Finally, these same consumers indicated that they would be disappointed, or consider buying less or shopping elsewhere, if their primary stamp outlet dropped stamps." All promotion and advertising have been criticized by the shortsighted as needless frills in an age of inflation and shortages. Nothing could be further from the truth. The American system of competitive enterprise and mass-production distribution in a free-choice market where the consumer is king is fundamental to the perpetuation of broadly-based high living standards.

The longevity and stability of trading stamps as one of the promotional techniques of business was indicated not long ago by an industry spokesman. In answer to a question of whether temporary setbacks in the trading stamp industry might affect the redeemability of partially-filled books, he said, "We are still redeeming stamps today issued in 1902." This remark illustrates the fundamental nature of promotion in the American scheme of things.

Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Hit Man's Lament

with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Once you become a trigger man for the Mafia, it's dangerous to change your ways.

This has been the experience of John Patrick Tully, an admitted "hit" man for the murderous Campisi Family of the New Jersey underworld.

The repentant Tully became a witness for the state. Now he is locked in solitary confinement for his own protection. There has already been an attempt upon his life.

Meanwhile, the men he helped put behind bars got off with lighter sentences than he did. And another government informer, whose testimony was less crucial, has been provided a new identity and turned loose to seek a new life.

We were caught up in the Tully case a year ago. He called us and asked us to help arrange his peaceful surrender. He read to us from his wanted poster and told of his flight to Venezuela in 1971 to avoid a multiple mob murder charge.

The FBI reached Tully's hideout a couple hours ahead of our associate, Jack Cloherty. Since Tully has been in custody, we have kept in continuing contact with him.

We encouraged him to cooperate with the prosecutors. Within a week after his decision to testify, all nine of the Campisi mobsters pleaded guilty in return for reduced sentences.

The cooperative Tully was promised a sentence lighter than those given to the mobsters he helped to convict. Yet he was sentenced to 15 years, while two of the Campisis got off with three-year terms.

Another informant, Ira Pecznick, a three-time killer, walked away from the courthouse a free man. Pecznick was the first to sing for the state. But it was Tully who gave the charges credibility and, therefore, is credited with breaking the case.

Pecznick is described by federal prosecutors as "a dangerous psychotic." Yet he is out on the street, complete with a new identity arranged by the Justice Department, in return for his testimony.

In contrast, Tully has been described by federal probation officials as "a new man" who has undergone "a complete metamorphosis."

We have held wide-ranging discussions with Tully during the past year, and we have noticed a dramatic change in him. In his first call, he was a hard-bitten tough. But slowly, he began to change.

Now he speaks convincingly of serving his time and starting a new life. This former gunman, once regarded as the most brutal of the Campisi mob, wept openly when a federal judge gave him a sentence that allows for immediate parole.

The judge acted upon the report of parole officials. But it won't help Tully unless his state sentence is reduced.

Meanwhile, the only safe place for him is in solitary. He is marked as a "stool pigeon," and the mob is out to get him.

There is no way to wipe out Tully's past. He murdered for hire. For this, he owes a debt to society. But in light of the treatment of Pecznick and the Campisis, the state is demanding a curiously high price from John Patrick Tully.

CANCER CONTROVERSY: The Chicago chemical company, Velsicol, is conducting an undercover campaign to discredit Environmental Protection Agency chief Russell Train. His offense: he banned two of the firm's pesticides, heptachlor and chlordane, as cancer agents. The company insists its pesticides don't cause cancer. Meanwhile, letters have gone out from Velsicol to 120,000 corn farmers urging them to deluge Congress with letters and telegrams attacking Train.

KIDNAP PLOT: Supporters of the Greek junta scoffed at our story last April that the military dictatorship plotted to kidnap a prominent Greek exile, Elias Demetracopolous, and return him to Greece to be killed. We now have a copy of a confidential government memo, dated Oct. 24, 1973, describing how Greek information official Dimetrios Petrounakos was supposed to "undertake a special mission of extermination of the reactionary, Elias Demetracopoulos, active in the USA." According to another startling memo, the junta expected "the cooperation of the various agencies of the U.S. government" to help kidnap the exile.

CONGRESSIONAL COMPUTERS: For years, tradition has held out against technology on Capitol Hill. But now the Senate is installing computers to provide instant data on legislative matters. Personalized computer terminals are available to each Senator, providing direct contact with the computers, for a monthly $262 fee. Perhaps because the taxpayers pay the fee, 73 Senators already have signed up.

FLUORIDATION REPORT: The National Cancer Institute, in response to question raised by Rep. James Delaney, D-N.Y., is doing a broad statistical study of cancer and fluoridation. Though it is still confidential, we have learned its tentative conclusion: no link. The study pokes holes in the allegations of a dissident medical group, the National Health Foundation.

Inside Labor
By Victor Riesel

Not so instant Replay: Ford to fly to hard hats' Parley; new intimacy will help in '76

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford may have played football without a helmet but he' s not playing President or politics without a hard hat. The powerful 3.5-million-member construction trade union chiefs swung in early for the Republicans in 1972 and Mr. Ford wants them to do it again in 1976 despite word from labor's national headquarters that he is to be purged.

So, it can be reported that, barring an earthquake, Prsident Ford plans to jet to San Francisco to address the national AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department convention there on Sept. 22.

There's considerably significant political, industrial and economic news in Mr. Ford's decision to speak to the construction trades and not to the national AFL-CIO convention opening in the same city the following week. He was invited by both groups -- the hard hats having some 400 delegates, the parent body drawing over 2,000 delegates, alternates and world-famed visitors.

First, it is Jerry Ford's fashion not to confront or deliberately anger old friends. He knows that affiliates of COPE, the national AFL-CIO political machine, are zeroing in on him, so why chance embarrassing the labor federation's leaders with some undue incident in the mammoth Civic Auditorium? So the White Houe dispatched word to the national labor chiefs there would be visiting royalty and some tough scheduling in the East during the national AFL-CIO convention itself. So, President Ford politely declined.

Further, Jrry Ford has developed an almost fraternal, first-name rapport with "young" 43-year-old Bob Georgine (he looks 25), comparatively new president of the Building and Construction Trades Department -- which is made up of the nation's 17 national construction unions working closely with the Teamsters.

"Bob" and "Mr. President" have had several previously unreported confidential conversations in the Oval Office. These have been candid talks. Both men have said they "trust" -- and have "faith " in -- each other. The President, with his perpetual-motion brain machine, known as Prof. John Dunlop, Secretary of Labor, at this side, has been eager to cut the chaos in the $122 billion-a-year construction industry. And for many reasons:

Hundreds of powerful local construction unions bargain as though there were no tomorrow, or no community 50 miles up the road or no one million jobless in the field. Not to mention the millions who need low-cost housing. And, next year will be the make or break recession recovery stretch. Some 3,500 building and construction contracts expire in the spring. Bargaining then will run parallel to the Teamsters national master freight agreement covering 500,000 drivers.

If the locals hit hard -- such as the construction unions which have struck the Beaumont, Tex., area since April 3 -- they could trigger the wildest inflationary set of negotiations since Hannibal hired elephants. In many other industries some of the nation's biggest labor contracts are up in '76. They will follow the pace set by the construction and teamsters unions.

And Georgine, speaking for the 17 construction union "general presidents," has talked frankly of the need for some national machinery which could cool the local chiefs and yet keep the government from distasteful official intervention.

Prof. Dunlop whipped up some of his collective bargaining souffles. He blueprinted a 23-man construction industry collective bargaining committee. The President would appoint 10 labor, 10 construction industry and three neutral members. Its operation is simple: they would watch the field. The field would watch itself. Then if the national committee saw trouble coming somewhere -- such as the old Kansas City strike which delayed some $2 billion worth of construction -- the committee would move in to soothe matters if possible.

If the local bargainers saw trouble looming they would notify the national group. There will have to be a 60-day early warning of a possible strike. And then a 30-day cooling off period. And actually, the local union would need approval of its own international organization here in Washington for a walkout.

In effect, this is a takeoff on the old Construction Industry Stabililzation Committee which had wage control powers.

At the same time that the 23-man peacemaking machinery was being prepared for the Hill, labor has been pushing for a law giving construction unions the right to picket and thus shut down a whole project even if there are 50 contractors on the site and the dispute is with but one of them. Such a bill has passed the House. So there has been a lot of bargaining. Now these are considered twin bills – a Ford-Georgine package.

And in the course of this long up-Hill fight, Jerry Ford and Bob Georgine got to know each other well. That's why Vice President Rockefeller will be throwing housewarming parties in Washington and the President will be donning an honorary hard hat in San Francisco shortly -- barring some local or international earthquake.

When socialism was a dirty word?

When the flag was a sacred symbol?

When you weren't afraid to go out at night?

When taxes were only a necessary nuisance?

When a boy was a boy, and dressed like one?

When a girl was a girl, and dressed like one?

When the poor were too proud to take charity?

When the clergy actually talked religion?

When clerks and repairmen tried to please you?

When songs had a tune and the words made sense?

When young fellows tried to join the Army and Navy?

When people knew what the Fourth of July stood for?

When a Sunday drive was a pleasant trip, not an ordeal?

When our Government stood up for Americans anywhere in the world?

When you knew that the law would be enforced and that your safety would be protected?

When the law meant justice, and you felt a shiver of awe at the sight of a policeman?

DENY THE ULTIMATE WEAPON

Last year it was Baltimore, last month it was New York City, now it is San Francisco. In increasing numbers, public employees responsible for providing services necessary to the health and safety of cities are using—often illegally—the ultimate weapon of labor; the strike. The Michigan Highway Patrol recently took the first step toward joining—of all things—the Teamsters Union!

With the piled garbage, the threats of unchecked crime, the prospect of cities gone bankrupt comes the surety that something must be done. Some way must be found to stem those strikes which threaten essential public services while still protecting the rights of government employees. Most likely it will have to come through federal legislation.

There are two reasons why public employees often have been more assertive than some other labor groups: they are exempted from the National Labor Relations Act which gives employees of private firms collective bargaining and strike rights; and for many years they were generally underpaid when compared with those in the private sector.

But many public employees, especially in large cities, now are unionized. And, for the most part, the lot of the public employee has improved to the point where he has reached parity with—in some cases surpassed—those holding similar jobs in private industry. Policemen in San Francisco now start at over $16,000 a year and as a result of their strike have been granted a 13 percent increase (compared with an average 8 percent increase in private contracts signed throughout the country this year).

Some states and cities have local laws prohibiting public employees from striking, but they are often broken. The Taylor law in New York, for instance, didn't prevent then Gov. Nelson Rockefeller from bowing to the demands of striking garbagemen in 1967, or policemen from walking off the job and blocking traffic this year.

The fact that the NLRA does not apply to public employees, coupled with the patchwork of widely differing laws around the United States, creates a confusing situation for employees, unions, and public officials.

Now before Congress are several bills which would grant all public employees collective bargaining rights and set up a mechanism for settling disputes. One would simply bring such employees under the blanket of the NLRA. Another would set up a separate public Employee Relations Board, patterned after the NLRB.

We believe that a compromise solution protecting both cities and their employees must include the following: The right of all public employees to organize and collectively bargain for wages and benefits. Those employees whose jobs are not immediately essential to health and safety should have the right to strike.

But police, fire, sanitation, and hospital workers, because of the special nature of their jobs, should be denied the ultimate labor weapon. Instead, unions representing such workers and the governments for which they work should be required to submit to binding arbitration in cases where negotiations fail.

Legislation to effect this must come at the federal level to ensure equity throughout the United States. And it must come soon.

PLENTY OF WARNING!

Today's energy shortage embodies a chronological record of public and official apathy to known facts that can only be described as incredible. Consider a few quotations from the remarks that have been made over the years by leaders in public and private life relative to tax and regulatory policies of government that began undermining our energy-based society more than 20 years ago.

Most of the following comments relate to the folly of imposing public utility regulation on natural gas producers. In 1953, the vice chairman of the Committee on Mineral Law for the state of Texas warned of this type of regulation: "Imposing utility rate base will offer inadequate incentive to producers...the consumer as well as the producer will profit from the absence of federal regulation and both will suffer from its imposition." Shortly after the Supreme Court decision that imposed this type of regulation on gas producers, the president of a major oil company noted that: "With demand increasing and the rate of discovery decreasing, after a time a definite shortage of gas occurs...the net result to the consumer is a shortage of supply and an increase in rates." The warnings continued to come through the years. In 1957, President Eisenhower, in a Budget Message to Congress, said: "Legislation freeing gas producers from public utility type regulation is essential if the incentives to find and develop new supplies of gas are to be preserved...."

In 1961, the chairman of the Federal Power Commission stated: "We cannot expect him (the gas producer) to continue risking his money exploring for gas at the pace which the national interest requires...." A Houston, Texas, consulting geologist in 1960 said: "I can safely predict that between now and 1975 we will have an energy crisis in this country. Then the people will say 'The industry is to blame, why weren't we told?' Well, I'm telling them now."

The energy crisis is no mystery. Its cause and its cure have been known for two decades by competent energy authorities. Their recommendations have been ignored.

"Chain Store Age," one of the country's largest trade publications, has featured a discussion of trading stamps under the title, "Are Trading Stamps A Fair Trade?" The piece dealt mainly with the giving of stamps in chain drug stores; however, it also pointed up the fact that promotion and advertising, including the trading stamp form of promotion are very much alive in the U.S. free market, mass retail distribution system.

The article notes that, '...some 225,000 retailers across the country (are) convinced that the traffic generating power of stamps and the loyalty of stamp-saving consumers more than offset the expense of offering and advertising them. Fact is, "continues Chain Store Age, "a recent survey found that 70 percent of all U.S. households are stamp-saving households. Of these, most have been saving stamps for five years or longer, and an overwhelming majority plan to continue to do so in the future. Finally, these same consumers indicated that they would be disappointed, or consider buying less or shopping elsewhere, if their primary stamp outlet dropped stamps." All promotion and advertising have been criticized by the shortsighted as needless frills in an age of inflation and shortages. Nothing could be further from the truth. The American system of competitive enterprise and mass-production distribution in a free-choice market where the consumer is king is fundamental to the perpetuation of broadly-based high living standards.

The longevity and stability of trading stamps as one of the promotional techniques of business was indicated not long ago by an industry spokesman. In answer to a question of whether temporary setbacks in the trading stamp industry might affect the redeemability of partially-filled books, he said, "We are still redeeming stamps today issued in 1902." This remark illustrates the fundamental nature of promotion in the American scheme of things.

Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Hit Man's Lament
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Once you become a trigger man for the Mafia, it's dangerous to change your ways.

This has been the experience of John Patrick Tully, an admitted "hit" man for the murderous Campisi Family of the New Jersey underworld.

The repentant Tully became a witness for the state. Now he is locked in solitary confinement for his own protection. There has already been an attempt upon his life.

Meanwhile, the men he helped put behind bars got off with lighter sentences than he did. And another government informer, whose testimony was less crucial, has been provided a new identity and turned loose to seek a new life.

We were caught up in the Tully case a year ago. He called us and asked us to help arrange his peaceful surrender. He read to us from his wanted poster and told of his flight to Venezuela in 1971 to avoid a multiple mob murder charge.

The FBI reached Tully's hideout a couple hours ahead of our associate, Jack Cloherty. Since Tully has been in custody, we have kept in continuing contact with him.

We encouraged him to cooperate with the prosecutors. Within a week after his decision to testify, all nine of the Campisi mobsters pleaded guilty in return for reduced sentences.

The cooperative Tully was promised a sentence lighter than those given to the mobsters he helped to convict. Yet he was sentenced to 15 years, while two of the Campisis got off with three-year terms.

Another informant, Ira Pecznick, a three-time killer, walked away from the courthouse a free man. Pecznick was the first to sing for the state. But it was Tully who gave the charges credibility and, therefore, is credited with breaking the case.

Pecznick is described by federal prosecutors as "a dangerous psychotic." Yet he is out on the street, complete with a new identity arranged by the Justice Department, in return for his testimony.

In contrast, Tully has been described by federal probation officials as "a new man" who has undergone "a complete metamorphosis."

We have held wide-ranging discussions with Tully during the past year, and we have noticed a dramatic change in him. In his first call, he was a hard-bitten tough. But slowly, he began to change.

Now he speaks convincingly of serving his time and starting a new life. This former gunman, once regarded as the most brutal of the Campisi mob, wept openly when a federal judge gave him a sentence that allows for immediate parole.

The judge acted upon the report of parole officials. But it won't help Tully unless his state sentence is reduced.

Meanwhile, the only safe place for him is in solitary. He is marked as a "stool pigeon," and the mob is out to get him.

There is no way to wipe out Tully's past. He murdered for hire. For this, he owes a debt to society. But in light of the treatment of Pecznick and the Campisis, the state is demanding a curiously high price from John Patrick Tully.

CANCER CONTROVERSY: The Chicago chemical company, Velsicol, is conducting an undercover campaign to discredit Environmental Protection Agency chief Russell Train. His offense: he banned two of the firm's pesticides, heptachlor and chlordane, as cancer agents. The company insists its pesticides don't cause cancer. Meanwhile, letters have gone out from Velsicol to 120,000 corn farmers urging them to deluge Congress with letters and telegrams attacking Train.

KIDNAP PLOT: Supporters of the Greek junta scoffed at our story last April that the military dictatorship plotted to kidnap a prominent Greek exile, Elias Demetracopolous, and return him to Greece to be killed. We now have a copy of a confidential government memo, dated Oct. 24, 1973, describing how Greek information official Dimetrios Petrounakos was supposed to "undertake a special mission of extermination of the reactionary, Elias Demetracopoulos, active in the USA." According to another startling memo, the junta expected "the cooperation of the various agencies of the U.S. government" to help kidnap the exile.

CONGRESSIONAL COMPUTERS: For years, tradition has held out against technology on Capitol Hill. But now the Senate is installing computers to provide instant data on legislative matters. Personalized computer terminals are available to each Senator, providing direct contact with the computers, for a monthly $262 fee. Perhaps because the taxpayers pay the fee, 73 Senators already have signed up.

FLUORIDATION REPORT: The National Cancer Institute, in response to question raised by Rep. James Delaney, D-N.Y., is doing a broad statistical study of cancer and fluoridation. Though it is still confidential, we have learned its tentative conclusion: no link. The study pokes holes in the allegations of a dissident medical group, the National Health Foundation.

Inside Labor

Not so instant Replay: Ford to fly to hard hats' Parley; new intimacy will help in '76

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford may have played football without a helmet but he' s not playing President or politics without a hard hat. The powerful 3.5-million-member construction trade union chiefs swung in early for the Republicans in 1972 and Mr. Ford wants them to do it again in 1976 despite word from labor's national headquarters that he is to be purged.

So, it can be reported that, barring an earthquake, Prsident Ford plans to jet to San Francisco to address the national AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department convention there on Sept. 22.

There's considerably significant political, industrial and economic news in Mr. Ford's decision to speak to the construction trades and not to the national AFL-CIO convention opening in the same city the following week. He was invited by both groups -- the hard hats having some 400 delegates, the parent body drawing over 2,000 delegates, alternates and world-famed visitors.

First, it is Jerry Ford's fashion not to confront or deliberately anger old friends. He knows that affiliates of COPE, the national AFL-CIO political machine, are zeroing in on him, so why chance embarrassing the labor federation's leaders with some undue incident in the mammoth Civic Auditorium? So the White Houe dispatched word to the national labor chiefs there would be visiting royalty and some tough scheduling in the East during the national AFL-CIO convention itself. So, President Ford politely declined.

Further, Jrry Ford has developed an almost fraternal, first-name rapport with "young" 43-year-old Bob Georgine (he looks 25), comparatively new president of the Building and Construction Trades Department -- which is made up of the nation's 17 national construction unions working closely with the Teamsters.

"Bob" and "Mr. President" have had several previously unreported confidential conversations in the Oval Office. These have been candid talks. Both men have said they "trust" -- and have "faith " in -- each other. The President, with his perpetual-motion brain machine, known as Prof. John Dunlop, Secretary of Labor, at this side, has been eager to cut the chaos in the $122 billion-a-year construction industry. And for many reasons:

Hundreds of powerful local construction unions bargain as though there were no tomorrow, or no community 50 miles up the road or no one million jobless in the field. Not to mention the millions who need low-cost housing. And, next year will be the make or break recession recovery stretch. Some 3,500 building and construction contracts expire in the spring. Bargaining then will run parallel to the Teamsters national master freight agreement covering 500,000 drivers.

If the locals hit hard -- such as the construction unions which have struck the Beaumont, Tex., area since April 3 -- they could trigger the wildest inflationary set of negotiations since Hannibal hired elephants. In many other industries some of the nation's biggest labor contracts are up in '76. They will follow the pace set by the construction and teamsters unions.

And Georgine, speaking for the 17 construction union "general presidents," has talked frankly of the need for some national machinery which could cool the local chiefs and yet keep the government from distasteful official intervention.

Prof. Dunlop whipped up some of his collective bargaining souffles. He blueprinted a 23-man construction industry collective bargaining committee. The President would appoint 10 labor, 10 construction industry and three neutral members. Its operation is simple: they would watch the field. The field would watch itself. Then if the national committee saw trouble coming somewhere -- such as the old Kansas City strike which delayed some $2 billion worth of construction -- the committee would move in to soothe matters if possible.

If the local bargainers saw trouble looming they would notify the national group. There will have to be a 60-day early warning of a possible strike. And then a 30-day cooling off period. And actually, the local union would need approval of its own international organization here in Washington for a walkout.

In effect, this is a takeoff on the old Construction Industry Stabililzation Committee which had wage control powers.

At the same time that the 23-man peacemaking machinery was being prepared for the Hill, labor has been pushing for a law giving construction unions the right to picket and thus shut down a whole project even if there are 50 contractors on the site and the dispute is with but one of them. Such a bill has passed the House. So there has been a lot of bargaining. Now these are considered twin bills -- a Ford-Georgine package.

And in the course of this long up-Hill fight, Jerry Ford and Bob Georgine got to know each other well. That's why Vice President Rockefeller will be throwing housewarming parties in Washington and the President will be donning an honorary hard hat in San Francisco shortly -- barring some local or international earthquake.

FIRES

EAST PRAIRIE - Two fire calls were answered by the fire department Tuesday.

At 6:30 a.m., firemen responded to a call to the Kenneth Counts home South Grand Street. Faulty electrical wiring is believed to have been the cause of a fire which broke out in the walls between the kitchen and bathroom. Only minor damage was reported.

Firemen had been called to the same home about 2 a.m. Monday. Faulty wiring also was thought to have started the first fire, which caused minor damage.

At 10:15 a.m. Tuesday, firemen were called to the Mt. Level Farms office on Highway 105. Dust in a corn crib had ignited and caused minor damage to the floor of the crib.

Tax reduced

DEXTER — The tax rate for the Dexter School District was reduced from $4.10 to $3.69 per $100 assessed valuation by the board of education Tuesday night to comply with state laws requiring a reduction when property assessments within the county increase more than 10 per cent.

Stoddard County assessments this year were increased more than 10 per cent over 1974 under a reassessment ordered by the Missouri State Tax Commission.

Also, a special education handbook was adopted by the board to be used throughout the district.

Supt. Thurston Hill said the manual details responsibilities of the local school board and teachers in regard to handicapped children, defines how to identify such children and procedures to develop programs for them.

Hoche & Barklege Co., and auditing firm from Cape Girardeau, reported to the board that the annual audit of the district's books has been completed and all was in order.

Hill reported tha four tennis courts at the high school have been completed and will be open for use this week. He also said a new roof on the junior high school is nearly finished.

Bridge construction to close Route J

Route J will be temporarily closed three miles north of Highway 60-62 in Mississippi County for construction of a bridge, according to C.R. Simpson, resident engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department.

Simpson said the route will be closed while a bridge is being built over Interstate 57.

The road is located about one mile north of Charleston Country Club. Traffic will be rerouted over either Route AB or Route K, Simpson said.

Port Authority to discuss

Finances for ports

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority Monday discussed a letter received from John Browley, director of Missouri Transportation, calling for a discussion by port authorities at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 23 at Jefferson City on the procedures for the sale of revenue bonds to finance port developments in Missouri.

A method to obtain a Supreme Court decision on the legality of the bonds will also be discussed.

An annual low water inspection tour by the lower Missouri River Commission of Vicksburg, Miss. will be conducted Oct. 13 and the port commissioners hope to arrange a public hearing concerning a river port.

The commission also learned that lettes from industries expressing interest in the port are being submitted to the Army Corps of Engineers at St. Louis and will be included with the preliminary reconnaissance study that will be submitted to Vicksburg. The study, approved under section 107 of the 1960 River and Harbor Act, must be approved by Vicksburg and the chief of the corps in Washington D.C. before any additional planning can be done.

A shortrange committee of Maurice T. Dunklin, Raymond Roth, Linder Deimund and E. Mike Pfefferkorn will go to Arnold to talk with Walter Taliaferro, chairman of Jefferson County Port Authority, and see the operation the port authority now has.

The shortrange committee will compare this operation with the existing site the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority has available.

The firm of Allen Hoschall, Engineers, Inc., of Memphis, Tenn. has experessed an interest in being hired to aid in planning and development of the port. The commission has taken this under advisement. A similar request by Clark, Dietz ane Associates Engineer, Inc. was tabled.

The Congo River is the only major African waterway that crosses the Equator twice.

New Madrid County to develop zoning plan

NEW MADRID---The New Madrid County Court Monday adopted a resolution for the county to enter a contract with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission for the development of a comprehensive zoning plan at a cost of $13,000.

The zoning plan is necessary for implementation of a county zoning program approved by voters in the general election last November.

A county zoning program to conserve and protect property is mandatory in order for citizens living in unincorporated portions of the county to be eligible for flood insurance.

FIRES

EAST PRAIRIE - Two fire calls were answered by the fire department Tuesday.

At 6:30 a.m., firemen responded to a call to the Kenneth Counts home South Grand Street. Faulty electrical wiring is believed to have been the cause of a fire which broke out in the walls between the kitchen and bathroom. Only minor damage was reported.

Firemen had been called to the same home about 2 a.m. Monday. Faulty wiring also was thought to have started the first fire, which caused minor damage.

At 10:15 a.m. Tuesday, firemen were called to the Mt. Level Farms office on Highway 105. Dust in a corn crib had ignited and caused minor damage to the floor of the crib.

Tax reduced

DEXTER — The tax rate for the Dexter School District was reduced from $4.10 to $3.69 per $100 assessed valuation by the board of education Tuesday night to comply with state laws requiring a reduction when property assessments within the county increase more than 10 per cent.

Stoddard County assessments this year were increased more than 10 per cent over 1974 under a reassessment ordered by the Missouri State Tax Commission.

Also, a special education handbook was adopted by the board to be used throughout the district.

Supt. Thurston Hill said the manual details responsibilities of the local school board and teachers in regard to handicapped children, defines how to identify such children and procedures to develop programs for them.

Hoche & Barklege Co., and auditing firm from Cape Girardeau, reported to the board that the annual audit of the district's books has been completed and all was in order.

Hill reported tha four tennis courts at the high school have been completed and will be open for use this week. He also said a new roof on the junior high school is nearly finished.

Bridge construction to close Route J

Route J will be temporarily closed three miles north of Highway 60-62 in Mississippi County for construction of a bridge, according to C.R. Simpson, resident engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department.

Simpson said the route will be closed while a bridge is being built over Interstate 57.

The road is located about one mile north of Charleston Country Club. Traffic will be rerouted over either Route AB or Route K, Simpson said.

Port Authority to discuss

Finances for ports

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority Monday discussed a letter received from John Browley, director of Missouri Transportation, calling for a discussion by port authorities at 1:30 p.m. Sept. 23 at Jefferson City on the procedures for the sale of revenue bonds to finance port developments in Missouri.

A method to obtain a Supreme Court decision on the legality of the bonds will also be discussed.

An annual low water inspection tour by the lower Missouri River Commission of Vicksburg, Miss. will be conducted Oct. 13 and the port commissioners hope to arrange a public hearing concerning a river port.

The commission also learned that lettes from industries expressing interest in the port are being submitted to the Army Corps of Engineers at St. Louis and will be included with the preliminary reconnaissance study that will be submitted to Vicksburg. The study, approved under section 107 of the 1960 River and Harbor Act, must be approved by Vicksburg and the chief of the corps in Washington D.C. before any additional planning can be done.

A shortrange committee of Maurice T. Dunklin, Raymond Roth, Linder Deimund and E. Mike Pfefferkorn will go to Arnold to talk with Walter Taliaferro, chairman of Jefferson County Port Authority, and see the operation the port authority now has.

The shortrange committee will compare this operation with the existing site the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority has available.

The firm of Allen Hoschall, Engineers, Inc., of Memphis, Tenn. has experessed an interest in being hired to aid in planning and development of the port. The commission has taken this under advisement. A similar request by Clark, Dietz ane Associates Engineer, Inc. was tabled.

The Congo River is the only major African waterway that crosses the Equator twice.

New Madrid County to develop zoning plan

NEW MADRID---The New Madrid County Court Monday adopted a resolution for the county to enter a contract with the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission for the development of a comprehensive zoning plan at a cost of $13,000.

The zoning plan is necessary for implementation of a county zoning program approved by voters in the general election last November.

A county zoning program to conserve and protect property is mandatory in order for citizens living in unincorporated portions of the county to be eligible for flood insurance.

New grocery store

Construction will begin soon on Storey's Food Giant Store on land next to Two-Tony's Smorgasbord on West Malone Avenue. The structure for the new grocery store is expected to be completed by spring, according to Kenneth Storey of Sikeston, owner.

Ironing center available

Getting out the ironing board and iron and putting it away again is often more of a chore to the homemaker than the ironing itself. The Handi-Press ironing center solves this problem and adds much more by providing a convenient caddy for sewing necessities when installed in a sewing or utility room.

The new product is now available in Sikeston through Taylor Cabinet Shop, 304 Rodgers St. For more information on the ironing center, telephone the new distributors at 472-0295 or go by the shop and see the product.

The ironing center, by Iron-A-Way Inc. of Morton, Ill., features a 42-inch fold-down ironing board housed in a compact cabinet that can be either recessed or surface mounted.

Handi-Press is completely electrified and prewired, with an automatic timer that shuts off at the end of the preset time period. Therefore, if the homemaker sets the timer and then is called to the phone, the unit will automatically shut off the iron after a specified period, thus conserving electricity and acting as a safety factor.

The iron is included as optional equipment and after use may be stored in a special heat-resistant holder provided in the cabinet. Because of the special holder, the iron may be put away hot, thus eliminating the waiting period while the iron cools.

When the door to the unit is closed, a second switch is activated, turning off all current at the engrance to the unit, thus eliminating the hazard of fire.

The unit also has an optional work spotlight and sleeveboard for making the ironing chore even quicker and easier.

The cabinet comes in unfinished seasoned woods which is suitable for either stain or paint to match the rest of the woodwork in the house.

Malone & Hyde increase dividend

MEMPHIS, Tenn. - The board of directors of Malone & Hyde Inc., have approved an increase in the annual dividend payment for the 14th consecutive year, according to J.R. Hyde III, the firm's president.

On Aug. 29, the board declared a quarterly cash dividend of 14 cents per share, payable Oct. 15, to stockholders of record on Sept. 23. The increase of three cents per share is 27.3 per cent higher than the previous quarterly dividend of 11 cents per share.

The northern boundary of Manitoba was extended to Hudson Bay by the Canadian government.

Gas bills to reflect lower annual rate

BLYTHEVILLE — Monthly bills being sent to 54,000 customers of Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. and Associated Natural Gas Co. for natural gas in September will reflect a rarity for the 1970s: lower rates.

John Germain, vice president in charge of gas operations for the utilities, confirmed that the bills will show a reduction that -- on an annual basis -- would mean a savings of about $8 a year for the average residential customer.

If the lower rates remain in effect, he said, it would result in a $365,000 annual savings to residential customers and more than a $364,000 annual savings to the utilities' other customers, commercial, industrial and municipal.

The reduction stems from recent Federal Power Commission action. Four interstate pipeline suppliers of Ark-Mo and Associated had raised their rates, pending final action by the FPC. The commission disallowed the increases, resulting in a reduction to Ark-Mo and Associated and their customeers.

Under Arkansas and Missouri Public Service Commission regulations, utilities are empowered to pass on to their customers increased costs charged by pipelines. Conversely, any reduction in costs are passed on to consumers.

Because of the FPC action, Germain said, beginning in September, the pipeline charges to Ark-Mo and Associated will be lowered about 7¼ cents per thousand cubic feet of natural gas.

When applied to the more than 10 billion cubic feet of gas consumed annually by the utilities' customers, he said, "That's an annual reduction in revenues of about three quartes of a million dollars."

The lower bills average about 65 cents a month to the utilities' residential customers and about $2.16 a month to commercial customers.

The lower bills will continue, Germain said, until such time as new rates are imposed by the pipelines who supply Ark-Mo and Associated.

Railroad declares dividend

ST. LOUIS-Directors of the Missouri Pacific Railroad have declared a dividend for the third quarter of 1975 of 25 cents per share on the company's preferred stock and a quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common, both payable Sept. 30, to stockholders of record Sept. 16.

Free gas pilot lighting service is announced

Officials at Associated Natural Gas Company have announced that their free pilot lighting service is now in effect.

From now until Sept. 15, service crews will light the pilot on natural gas heating equipment free.

After Sept. 15, there will be a fee charged to the customers of the utility for this service.

To take advantage of this free pilot light-up, just call the local office of Associated, today if possible.

Women priests disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four women who defied their church's hierarchy to take vows as Episcopal priests hav been warned by one who preceded them: "You will suffer and you will hurt."

But, added the Rev. Alison Cheek Sunday in an ordination ceremony not recognized as valid by the bishop of Washington: "You will have joy and you will have peace."

The ordination ceremony at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation attended by some 1,000 persons also was marked by protest.

The Rt. Rev. William Creighton, bishop of Washington, had issued a pastoral letter read to Episcopalian congregations Sunday asking them to boycott the ceremony.

He also asked that the ordained women not be allowed to function as priests in churches of the Washington area.

And at a time in the ceremony allotted for voicing objections, two men came to the front of the church to do so. Speaking of resigned Bishop George Barrett of Rochester, N.Y., who performed the ordinations, Dr. Emile Oberholzer asserted: "This bishop is without jurisdiction over the candidates."

He added: "These ordinations will compound the difficulty of opening ordinations to women and will endanger the unity of this branch of Christ's church."

In a brief response, Bishop Barrett said those participating in the ceremony "do not take the order of the church lightly, but there are times when overriding considerations must supplant canons and rules."

Then he addressed the four women: "My sisters, do you believe that you are truly called by God and His church to this priesthood?"

"I believe I am so called," they answered in unison.

About 50 priests, more than half of them in clerical garb, joined in the traditional laying on of hands that marks initiation into the priesthood.

They included the Rev. Cheek, who was one of 11 women ordained July 29, 1974, in a Philadelphia ceremony late ruled invalid, the Rev. William A. Wendt of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church and the Rev. L. Peter Beebe of Oberlin, Ohio.

The Rev. Mr. Wendt and the Rev. Mr. Beebe have been brought to trial in church courts for permitting women ordained in Philadelphia to function as priests. Guilty verdicts in both cases are under appeal.

The church's House of Bishops has twice voted approval of the principle of women priests but has said the ordinations should not proceed until the General Convention has a chance to act on the question at its next meeting in Sptember, 1976.

The four women ordained Sunday, all of whom were deacons, are the Rev. Alison Palmer, who also is director of the Office of International Labor Affairs for the State Department; the Rev. Lee McGee, a chaplain at American University in Washington; the Rev. Dr. Betty Rosenberg of Arlington, Va., a pastoral counselor; and the Rev. Diane Tickell of Anchorage, Alaska.

Household hints

Give sandwich meals additional appeal by varying the bread you use. You'll be amazed at the different kinds of bread available at your grocery store or bakery. Here are a few to start: Oatmeal, pumpernickel, Swedish limpe, Kaiser rolls, sesame seed rolls, French bread, Vienna bread or rolls, different types of rye, whole wheat, cracked wheat and English muffins.

Once in a while

Where did all the picnic baskets go?

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN
Women's Editor

Looking back on the summer, I have one regret. Try hunting down a picnic basket. Your feet get sore and you end up feeling like a relic of the past.

Discount stores banished them, department stores never heard of such a thing, sporting goods stores put thumbs down and your small, out-of-the-way hardware store sold their last one just the other day.

Worse yet are the sales clerks. Men smile with wry disdain (Who goes on picnics anymore?); women answer your query with "You mean a 'picnic table,' don't you?"; and most disappointing are the grandmotherly saleswomen who do not even remember what a picnic basket is. Instead they steer you to rotund coolers or insulated cases with large vacuum bottles fraternity boys love.

I finally zeroed in on one in Poplar Bluff. It cost me $20. Twenty dollars worth of flimsy cardboard. Oh well, I sighed deeply and swore I'd treat it with tender-loving care. With it were six sickly yellow plastic plates with high centers and sloping sides. This allows your baked beans to form unpleasant molehills that gradually develop into waterfalls trickling into your lap. And the tin silverware, well . . . . it's fine if you hav been sentenced to the "slammer" forlife.

It's enough to make Little Red Riding Hood turn in her hood.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — How does one remove brown stains from that popular white porcelain-like cookware? My teapot is badly discolored and scouring pads and abrasive cleaners do not help.

My husband fastens narrow strips of self-adhesive foam weather stripping to his trouser hangers because the grooves in the hangers are not enough to hold his slacks. — MRS.L.R.H.

DEAR MRS.L.R.H. — I have an electric coffee pot made of the same porcelain-like cookware. When the inside becomes stained I fill it with very hot water, add a teaspoon or so of automatic dishwasher detergent, let it stand for about 15 minutes and then scrub the inside with the long-handled brush I use to remove food from dishes to go in the dishwasher. This cleans the brush and the inside of the pot is gleaming white. Rinse thoroughly with very hot water. — POLLY.

Civic Club installs officers

EAST PRAIRIE--New officers of the Junior Civic Club were installed Monday night at the home of Mrs. Betty Heavin.

New officers include: Mrs. Bill Bryant, president; Mrs. Jim Duke, vice-president; Mrs. Danny Childress, secretary; Mrs. Joe Sturgeon, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Adkisson, reporter; Mrs. Jim Winchester, chaplain; Mrs. Betty Heavin, parlimentarian; and Mrs. Alex Homra, historian.

A brief summary for the coming year's projects were discussed and committees were named for the annual homecoming celebration.

Oct. 9 was selected as the date for the club's annual Little Mr. and Miss East Prairie contest to be held in conjunction with high school homecoming. Boys and girls, ages three to six, living in the R-2 School District are eligible to enter the contest.

Ann Landers

Mother dies, daughter is a vulture

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the gal whose sisters, aunts and cousins descended on her mother's house like a pack of vultures and picked the place clean hit very close to home. The writer signed herself "Can't Stand Grabbers." Well – I hope your advice "MAKE A WILL" was heeded by all those nice people out there who just assume their belongings will go to the people they want to have them.

When my husband's darling mother died, his sister arrived first. She was grief-stricken. For about fifteen minutes. Then she pulled herself together and went through the house like a streak of lightning. When I walked into the bedroom to use the phone I saw drawers open and boxes strewn everywhere. The place looked as if it had been burglarized. I couldn't believe it.

When "sis" left she had all the jewelry, silver and every piece of art worth owning. She also had her name taped on the best pieces of furniture. "I'll send you some of Mother's nice things," Sis promised as she left.

After the funeral, I received a dozen plastic hangers, a jar of cotton balls, some old clothes and a moth-eaten fur piece.

My husband adored his mother and so did our children. They don't have one thing worth keeping as a memento. Of course the poor darling never wrote a will – and she'd turn over in her grave if she knew what has happened. -- Heartsick In Boston

Dear Heartsick: Your letter says it far better than I could -- but I'll make another attempt. MAKE A WILL. It's the only way to be sure your money and personal belongings will go to those you want to have them. Otherwise "The Grabbers" will move in fast.

Also, the attorney in charge of the estate should make certain nothing is removed from the house of the deceased until the will has been read.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't be alone in my misery. Please help us all.

My mother-in-law, for the third time this year, is coming to visit for two weeks. I could put up with her if she'd just be a guest. But the minute she arrives she begins to clean the house, rearrange the furniture and make suggestions on how to improve the looks of the place. ("Your kitchen needs new curtains. The bathrooms could use a coat of paint," etc.) She starts every sentence with, "Why don't you?"

Now she has started to interfere with the way I feed and dress our child. "He's not getting enough roughage. He needs vitamins. His room is too hot. His play clothes are tacky . . ."

I find myself getting nervous before each visit. By the time she leaves, I'm on tranquilizers and my husband and I aren't speaking. He says, "She's just trying to help." Get the picture? -- Sign Me Berserk

Dear B.: One thing is certain -- you will never change your mother-in-law, but you can change a few other things.

First: the frequency of her visits. Ask your doctor to inform your husband that his mother' visits are too taxing and should be cut to twice a year.

Second: when your M.I.L. makes suggestions, smile and say, "You're probably right. I'll think about it . . ." Then develop amnesia.

Third: if she wants to clean your house and rearrange the furniture -- let her. Maybe she'll get a hernia.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Red the booklet, "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, ,stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Lamb

Blood fats are his problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About five years ago I had a heart attack, so my doctor said that I should lose weight. At that time my weight was 220 pounds.

I went on a high protein, low fat diet, and my weight came down to 175 pounds. This made me very weak, and I tired easily with no pep or energy to do anything.

So, I brought my weight to 185 pounds, and I could do most anything, play golf, cut grass, work on my car, etc., but I had added to my eating angel food cake and some candy (chocolate). Well, my triglycerides came up to 145 and cholesterol to 220.

I am having a hard time trying to bring my triglycerides down below 100. I've changed my eating habits and eat mostly chicken breast, chop suey, very little boiled potato, also at least two slices of Italian bread with Egg Beaters for breakfast. Also all the orange and grapefruit juice is half juice half water.

Can you help me with a book on what to eat to bring down the triglycerides? What substitute can I have for breakfast which is the toughest meal to prepare? I cannot eat only Egg Beaters every day!

Can you tell me how many grams of carbohydrates it takes to get into the blood? Is the carbohydrate burnt up by body energy physically? Is there any cereal recommendation that I could substitute for breakfast?

DEAR READER — Yours is a common problem. The knowledge that one should be on a low-fat, low-calorie diet is widespread, but the specifics of how to do it are not well communicated to the public.

That is exactly why I prepared a fairly large book on this subject. You should be able to get it at your library rather than buy it, but if you want your own copy get your bookstore to order it. It's called, "What You Need To Know About Food & Cooking for Health," (Viking).

You are doing pretty well, and your cholesterol level is okay. It would be better if you can lower your triglycerides, the fats in your blood. To do that you need to lose weight. Rapid loss of weight leads to fatigue and the symptoms you describe. Also overly enthusiastic restriction of carbohydrates will cause this in some people. I note you felt better after adding sweets.

I'd like to see a greater portion of your diet from vegetables, particularly the leafy ones in salads, fresh fruits and cereal products. Use the whole grain cereals, such as bran, shredded wheat products and whole oats. These will give you needed bulk and are low in calories for the volume you would eat. Breakfast is discussed in detail in my book; recipes and calorie contents of foods.

Breakfast is a good place to get your cereal to start the day off right. You could use fish for breakfast if you want more protein and a low-fat breakfast.

I'd also like to suggest that you start an exercise program. Start by walking a little every day and gradually increase your walking until you can and do walk three miles a day. There are good studies that show that exercise will lower triglyceride levels. Once you are walking regularly an hour a day you can check your status with your doctor to see if you can do anything more vigorous or not.

DAEOC has recreational trip to museum

NEW MADRID — Twenty-two children and four adult supervisors from New Madrid County went on a recreational trip to Call of the Wild Museum in Poplar Bluff recently. The trip was one of many taken by low-income children between the ages of 8 and 13 through a summer youth recreation program sponsored by Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

The first stop in Poplar Bluff was for lunch, and the supervisors ordered a box of chicken, drink and dessert for everyone, plus two extra buckets of chicken.

Then came the highlight of the day, the Call of the Wild Museum, where tickets for the movie and tour of the museum were purchased. As the tour began, each supervisor gave the children in their care $3 to spend on souvenirs, etc., and that was taken care of just about as easily as the chicken.

With the tour over, and everyone present and accounted for, the group boarded the bus again. They made one stop on the way home in Malden for dinner, then arrived back in New Madrid around 7 p.m.

Cooking Up

By CHERIE BLANTON

Here is an excellent salad I tried the other day. It would really complement a dinner of steak or roasts.

SPINACH, BACON AND MUSHROOM SALAD

Clean and cut off stems up to leaf of one pound fresh spinach. Wash and drain well. Place in salad bowl and add one-fourth pound of thinly sliced fresh mushrooms and six slices of bacon, cooked and crumbled, and one hard-boiled egg, chopped.

Combine:
2 Tbsp. red wine vinegar
¼ cup salad oil
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper

Toss salad with above dressing and serve.

I tried this recipe that came with those crescent rolls and the boys really gobbled it up.

CHEESE AND BEEF PIE

1 ½ pounds ground chuck
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 package taco seasoning mix
6-ounce can tomato paste
¾ cup water
8 ounce can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
½ cup grated parmesan cheese
4 slices natural mozzarella cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In skillet, brown beef and pepper and drain. Stir in mix, paste and water and simmer 10 minutes. Place in ungreased nine-inch pie pan the crescent dough you have separated. Place over pan and up the sides to form a crust. Sprinkle one-fourth cup of parmesan cheese over crust and spoon half of meat mixture in pan. Top with two slices of mozzarella cheese; repeat. Sprinkle the rest of the parmesan cheese and bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

CHEESE-COATED BAKED POTATOES

6 medium size potatoes
1 beaten egg yolk
½ cup grated Swiss cheese
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
salt and white pepper

Butter a baking dish just large enough for the potatoes. Scrub, peel and dry them; then dip into the beaten egg yolk. Roll in grated cheese and then in the bread crumbs. Bake at 400 degrees for one hour or until crisp and golden on the outside and soft inside. Serve at once but melt a little butter and drizzle over them first.

Here is a cheesy and crisp finger food.

PICKUP STICKS

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. paprika
One sixteenth tsp. cayenne pepper
1 slightly beaten egg
¼ cup milk

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, paprika and pepper; stir in cheese. Combine egg and milk and sprinkle over flour-cheese mixture until dough is just moist enough to hold together. Roll out on well-floured surface to a 12 x 12 rectangle. Cut in four by one-half inch strips. Sprinkle lightly with salt and place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about eight dozen sticks.

All's Well From Cornwall

This meal will not only give you a new way to beef up your ground beef, it'll also encourage the men to eat their vegetables!

CORNISH PASTIES

Crust
1 package pie crust mix (for 2-crust pie)
3 tablespoons Bourbon
Water

Filling
1/2 pound ground beef
1 small onion, diced
1 medium potato, diced
1 medium carrot, diced
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons Bourbon

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions, substituting 3 tablespoons Bourbon for 3 tablespoons water. Combine filling ingredients and mix well. Divide pastry dough into 8 portions. Roll out each portion into a 5-inch round. Place about 1/4 cup of filling mixture in the center of each round. Moisten edges with cold water. Fold dough over filling. Press edges together firmly with fork. Place on greased baking sheets, cut 2 slits in the top of each pastry. Bake in preheated 400°F. oven 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350°F. Bake 30 minutes longer. Makes 8.

Homespun Shoppe expands merchandise

DEXTER - Mrs. JoAnn Bussey, owner and operator of the American Homespun Shoppe, announces that the shop has been expanded to include a new line of Daleware products, both finished and unfinished.

Enrollment for fall classes in finishing the Daleware -- plaster – items is now under way.

Mrs. Bussey also announced that plans for a new party system is available for groups at the shop or at club meetings.

The Homespun Shoppe also now has available to any church, civic or scout group a courtesy discount card to be used in fund-raising projects.

Among its other retail items, the store features some homemade gifts, "collectibles" and a complete furniture refinishing service.

The shop is located at the junction of AD Road on Highway 60 West and is open 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, except Friday when it remains open until 7 p.m.

The political leader who controls his party in a city, district, or state is a boss, from the Dutch "baas" which originally meant uncle but later came to mean chief or overseer. The boss can be traced back to the Dutch politics of New Amsterdam.

Creative products available

Mrs. JoAnn Bussey, owner-operator of the American Homespun Shoppe in Dexter, displays some of the Daleware products added to the store's stock. The products may be purchased finished or unfinished. The shop is located at the junction of AD Road on Highway 60 West.

Senators urge deletion of subsidy on lunch bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a school-lunch bill already delayed past many school openings, pressure is mounting for House Education Chairman Carl D. Perkins to drop his insistence on a 3-cent subsidy for middle-class children.

In an unusual unanimous vote, the Senate sent the bill back to a House-Senate conference last week with many senators urging that the subsidy feature be deleted.

Last July, the Senate passed the $5.5 billion bill by an 81-8 vote.

Sixty-five national labor, religious, medical, political and childrens' organizations also asked Perkins to end his fight for the subsidy. The organizations warned that the entire children's nutrition measure was endangered because of the stalemate over the subsidy.

The bill would extend and liberalize school breakfast and lunch programs and expand special feeding programs for pregnant women and their children and infants.

The delay over the subsidy issue has left many cafeteria managers uncertain about how much to charge for lunches because they don't know what they'll get from the government.

Federal funds already provide for free lunches to children from families with incomes of $4,500 or less. Schools are required to offer these lunches to anyone eligible.

Additional subsidies are available for schools to charge only 20 cents for lunches to children whose parents earn between $4,500 and $9,600 a year. However, many schools don't take part in this voluntary program.

Local school districts now get a basic 23.25 cents from the government for every school lunch served, plus an additional 21 cents for each reduced-price lunch and 31 cents additional for each free lunch served.

24 millionaires avoided paying any tax one year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four American millionaires managed to avoid paying a penny in federal taxes in one recent year, according to Internal Revenue Service data released by a member of Congress.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said in a House speech Tuesday that seven of the millionaires had a total adjusted gross income of $17,783,008, an average of $2.54 million per person.

"There were also 17 (other) millionaires who avoided any tax after calculating their tax deductions and credits," according to IRS information for 1973, Vanik said. He did not identify the millionaires or explain the tactics they had used.

In addition, there were "54 individuals with adjusted gross incomes of between $500,000 and $1 million who paid no federal income tax and 292 individuals with adjusted gross income of between $200,000 and $500,000 who paid no individual income tax."

Vanik, a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, also said that 15 major oil companies paid foreign governments about eight times as much tax as they did to the United States in 1974.

He said "it is appalling to note" that the companies listed payments of $9,554,112,000 to foreign countries, but only a reported $1,309,136,000 in U.S. federal income taxes.

Vanik identified the 15 oil companies as Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Standard of Ohio, Getty, Ashland, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Union of California, Sun, Phillips, Continental and Cities Service.

He said two other firms, Exxon and Shell, were omitted from the survey "because information provided to the SEC (Securities Exchange Commission) made computations impossible."

Vanik spoke as the Ways and Means Committee moved Tuesday to end farm tax shelters used by wealthy city dwellers to virtually escape paying taxes.

The panel voted 23 to 10 to end such benefits, under which the wealthy use packaged investments in cattle breeding and feeding, tree crops, vegetable and field crops and other farm items to build up accounting losses that they can apply against their tax liability.

Committee tax specialists estimated that elimination of this device could bring $110 million more in taxes to the government next year.

The committee, however, moved to give a small tax break to those persons whose only investment in farming is a home vegetable garden. It agreed by voice vote on a plan to allow a $7 tax credit for any taxpayer buying up to $100 worth of gardening tools.

Without capital, no expansion

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"In the presence of eternity, the mountains are as transient as the clouds."

Robert Green Ingersoll

Traders like current markets; but long-term investors have turned pretty bearish.

The former move in on the dip, out on the upturn and pocket their profits to pounce again on oversold shares.

Investors, however, are cowed to considerable degree by the apparent lack of congressional concern (and the Ford Administration is suspect too) for balancing the budget.

Borrowing by the federal government just to pay off the interest due each year on our monstrous and unprecedented debt and continually rising deficit acts to dry up available capital for business and industrial loans.

And if this money is not available at reasonable interest rates, long-term investors, the outlook for our industrial and business establishment is bleak indeed.

For without capital there can be no expansion of plant and equipment, obsolescence and an inferior product will prevail and America's once mighty industrial establishment could become history.

Near term, however, there is a ray of hope -- the Presidential election. The Ford Administration can be expected to "exert" some influence on Dr. Burns and the Federal Reserve Board to make more money available through lowering of bank reserves and open market operations such as buying securities.

But these moves are temporary and expedient.

Interest rates backed off during the market week ending Aug. 29. And the stock market spurted, though volume was low on up days, a technical indicator that more down days are in the offing.

If the Federal Reserve Board "goes along" with the administration (and it may already have begun) by acting, to lower interest rates for a time, the stock market well could move into a substantial rally, and nimble traders doubtless would make money.

Such is the view of a great many SEC- registered equity analysts up and down the Mississippi Valley.

However, more money begets higher prices (the more cash there is chasing available goods, the more the vendor can charge for same); and eventually the price of money (interest) goes up, too.

A real cure for inflation and rising interest rates would of course be a balancing of the budget; and the beginning of a payoff of the national debt. In a welfare state, however, such a move would be heretical. And the seasoned equity investor knows this fact better than most.

Of course, there are exceptions in the stock market; and the true student of equities can be expected to search for the exception -- the undervalued equity; to buy it in and to hold it for at least a few points' gain.

Astute investors and traders can be expected to make money on the short side, too. Oftentimes they will ride a stock up; cash it in and then sell it short, riding the equity down and closing it out or buying it in several points lower than the short-sale price.

In Kansas City, various SEC-registered equity analysts counsel their accounts to look for volatility in a stock, if they have had any experience as a trader. And, of course, most traders identify "volatility" as the name of the game.

In this category a favored stock of a great many professionals is Polaroid. If the market gains strength in succeeding days, they look for Polaroid to do well over the near term.

Another stock the Kansas City professionals look at with interest is Fairchild Camera. Your SEC- registered representative could check out both.

Unemployment figures criticized as inaccurate view of job problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Does that 8.4 per cent unemployment rate depict the real state of affairs in the job market today or is it another of those statistics that seem to float, unanchored to reality?

Criticism of labor statistics isn't uncommon. Academics, labor leaders, businessmen and others maintain there are defects of definition, concept and technique that result in an inaccurate picture.

A bit surprising is the position taken by Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The debate, he says, is healthy. By inference he suggests the criticisms might possibly have some validity.

Conceding there are "widespread points of view" on the accuracy of government jobless surveys, Shiskin said in an interview that he has recommended that a blue ribbon committee be appointed to review concepts.

If Labor Secretary John Dunlop agrees, Shiskin said he hopes the committee will be formed before the year is out. Existing concepts are the product of a similar committee's work 13 years ago.

The call for a re-examination comes at a critical time. The government relies on at least two surveys for its figures, a survey of households and one of employers. During the summer the two surveys varied on the number of jobless.

Shiskin minimizes the differences in the two sets of figures, both of which he said are used in the final compilations. "Quite often there is a divergence," he said. "It's a natural kind of thing. We were not alarmed."

The differences, he said, are usually short-lived. In fact, the August jobless figures showed the divergence was cut sharply. But, the critics ask, why should differences exist at all if the concepts are correct?

Asked if the household survey might have found fewer jobless individuals than would be the case because unemployed workers were away on vacations, Shisken answered that the possibility was taken into consideration.

But one critic, Albert Sindlinger of Sindlinger & Co., which compiles its own jobless figures from surveys of 1,125 households a week, currently has one million fewer employed and one million more unemployed than the government.

Sindlinger is critical of government techniques. "When they find nobody home they go next door until they do. And the reason that family is home is because the breadwinner has a job and can't be away on vacation."

This, he said, distorts the employed figures upward, the unemployed downward.

The very definition of unemployment, it seems, is itself the cause of further confusion. Shiskin points to one: a student who cannot find a summer job is considered jobless in the same sense as a head of household.

Film on energy crisis available to organizations

JEFFERSON CITY - The Missouri Department of Natural Resources Energy Agency has received a new film from the Federal Energy Administration for public loan titled, "When the Circuit Breaks," Wes Fisher, energy program director, announced.

The 27½-minute film describes America's energy crisis, how it developed and how to meet the challenge it poses.

Interested civic or social organizations should contact the Missouri Energy Agency, P.O.Box 1309, Jefferson City, Mo., telephone number 751-4000.

Tabac Original's fragrance is smokey, and very masculine. But certainly unassuming.

Because of this subtlety, and because the fragrance stays with you an inordinately long time, it has become the most sought-after-men's cologne in Europe and the rest of the world.

But we worried about how such an under stated cologne would do in America. And we worried about our Tabac Orignial After-Shave, Soap, Hair Tabac and Spray Deodorant.

We worried for nothing. Tabac Original has become as sought-after as it is in the rest of the world. Which leads us to believe it isn't how loud a cologne speaks, it's what it has to say.

Homespun Shoppe expands merchandise

DEXTER - Mrs. JoAnn Bussey, owner and operator of the American Homespun Shoppe, announces that the shop has been expanded to include a new line of Daleware products, both finished and unfinished.

Enrollment for fall classes in finishing the Daleware -- plaster -- items is now under way.

Mrs. Bussey also announced that plans for a new party system is available for groups at the shop or at club meetings.

The Homespun Shoppe also now has available to any church, civic or scout group a courtesy discount card to be used in fund-raising projects.

Among its other retail items, the store features some homemade gifts, "collectibles" and a complete furniture refinishing service.

The shop is located at the junction of AD Road on Highway 60 West and is open 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, except Friday when it remains open until 7 p.m.

The political leader who controls his party in a city, district, or state is a boss, from the Dutch "baas" which originally meant uncle but later came to mean chief or overseer. The boss can be traced back to the Dutch politics of New Amsterdam.

Creative products available

Mrs. JoAnn Bussey, owner-operator of the American Homespun Shoppe in Dexter, displays some of the Daleware products added to the store's stock. The products may be purchased finished or unfinished. The shop is located at the junction of AD Road on Highway 60 West.

Senators urge deletion of subsidy on lunch bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a school-lunch bill already delayed past many school openings, pressure is mounting for House Education Chairman Carl D. Perkins to drop his insistence on a 3-cent subsidy for middle-class children.

In an unusual unanimous vote, the Senate sent the bill back to a House-Senate conference last week with many senators urging that the subsidy feature be deleted.

Last July, the Senate passed the $5.5 billion bill by an 81-8 vote.

Sixty-five national labor, religious, medical, political and childrens' organizations also asked Perkins to end his fight for the subsidy. The organizations warned that the entire children's nutrition measure was endangered because of the stalemate over the subsidy.

The bill would extend and liberalize school breakfast and lunch programs and expand special feeding programs for pregnant women and their children and infants.

The delay over the subsidy issue has left many cafeteria managers uncertain about how much to charge for lunches because they don't know what they'll get from the government.

Federal funds already provide for free lunches to children from families with incomes of $4,500 or less. Schools are required to offer these lunches to anyone eligible.

Additional subsidies are available for schools to charge only 20 cents for lunches to children whose parents earn between $4,500 and $9,600 a year. However, many schools don't take part in this voluntary program.

Local school districts now get a basic 23.25 cents from the government for every school lunch served, plus an additional 21 cents for each reduced-price lunch and 31 cents additional for each free lunch served.

Without capital, no expansion

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"In the presence of eternity, the mountains are as transient as the clouds."

Robert Green Ingersoll

Traders like current markets; but long-term investors have turned pretty bearish.

The former move in on the dip, out on the upturn and pocket their profits to pounce again on oversold shares.

Investors, however, are cowed to considerable degree by the apparent lack of congressional concern (and the Ford Administration is suspect too) for balancing the budget.

Borrowing by the federal government just to pay off the interest due each year on our monstrous and unprecedented debt and continually rising deficit acts to dry up available capital for business and industrial loans.

And if this money is not available at reasonable interest rates, long-term investors, the outlook for our industrial and business establishment is bleak indeed.

For without capital there can be no expansion of plant and equipment, obsolescence and an inferior product will prevail and America's once mighty industrial establishment could become history.

Near term, however, there is a ray of hope --- the Presidential election. The Ford Administration can be expected to "exert" some influence on Dr. Burns and the Federal Reserve Board to make more money available through lowering of bank reserves .nd open market operations such as buying securities.

But these moves are temporary and expedient.

Interest rates backed off during the market week ending Aug. 29. And the stock market spurted, though volume was low on up days, a technical indicator that more down days are in the offing.

If the Federal Reserve Board "goes along" with the administration (and it may already have begun) by acting, to lower interest rates for a time, the stock market well could move into a substantial rally, and nimble traders doubtless would make money.

Such is the view of a great many SEC- registered equity analysts up and down the Mississippi Valley.

However, more money begets higher prices (the more cash there is chasing available goods, the more the vendor can charge for same); and eventually the price of money (interest) goes up, too.

A real cure for inflation and rising interest rates would of course be a balancing of the budget; and the beginning of a payoff of the national debt. In a welfare state, however, such a move would be heretical. And the seasoned equity investor knows this fact better than most.

Of course, there are exceptions in the stock market; and the true student of equities can be expected to search for the exception -- the undervalued equity; to buy it in and to hold it for at least a few points' gain.

Astute investors and traders can be expected to make money on the short side, too. Oftentimes they will ride a stock up; cash it in and then sell it short, riding the equity down and closing it out or buying it in several points lower than the short-sale price.

In Kansas City, various SEC-registered equity analysts counsel their accounts to look for volatility in a stock, if they have had any experience as a trader. And, of course, most traders identify "volatility" as the name of the game.

In this category a favored stock of a great many professionals is Polaroid. If themarket gains strength in succeeding days, they look for Polaroid to do well over the near term.

Another stock the Kansas City professionals look at with interest is Fairchild Camera. Your SEC- registered representative could check out both.

24 millionaires avoided paying any tax one year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four American millionaires managed to avoid paying a penny in federal taxes in one recent year, according to Internal Revenue Service data released by a member of Congress.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said in a House speech Tuesday that seven of the millionaires had a total adjusted gross income of $17,783,008, an average of $2.54 million per person.

"There were also 17 (other) millionaires who avoided any tax after calculating their tax deductions and credits," according to IRS information for 1973, Vanik said. He did not identify the millionaires or explain the tactics they had used.

In addition, there were "54 individuals with adjusted gross incomes of between $500,000 and $1 million who paid no federal income tax and 292 individuals with adjusted gross income of between $200,000 and $500,000 who paid no individual income tax."

Vanik, a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, also said that 15 major oil companies paid foreign governments about eight times as much tax as they did to the United States in 1974.

He said "it is appalling to note" that the companies listed payments of $9,554,112,000 to foreign countries, but only a reported $1,309,136,000 in U.S. federal income taxes.

Vanik identified the 15 oil companies as Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Standard of Ohio, Getty, Ashland, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Union of California, Sun, Phillips, Continental and Cities Service.

He said two other firms, Exxon and Shell, were omitted from the survey "because information provided to the SEC (Securities Exchange Commission) made computations impossible."

Vanik spoke as the Ways and Means Committee moved Tuesday to end farm tax shelters used by wealthy city dwellers to virtually escape paying taxes.

The panel voted 23 to 10 to end such benefits, under which the wealthy use packaged investments in cattle breeding and feeding, tree crops, vegetable and field crops and other farm items to build up accounting losses that they can apply against their tax liability.

Committee tax specialists estimated that elimination of this device could bring $110 million more in taxes to the government next year.

The committee, however, moved to give a small tax break to those persons whose only investment in farming is a home vegetable garden. It agreed by voice vote on a plan to allow a $7 tax credit for any taxpayer buying up to $100 worth of gardening tools.

Unemployment figures criticized as inaccurate view of job problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Does that 8.4 per cent unemployment rate depict the real state of affairs in the job market today or is it another of those statistics that seem to float, unanchored to reality?

Criticism of labor statistics isn't uncommon. Academics, labor leaders, businessmen and others maintain there are defects of definition, concept and technique that result in an inaccurate picture.

A bit surprising is the position taken by Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The debate, he says, is healthy. By inference he suggests the criticisms might possibly have some validity.

Conceding there are "widespread points of view" on the accuracy of government jobless surveys, Shiskin said in an interview that he has recommended that a blue ribbon committee be appointed to review concepts.

If Labor Secretary John Dunlop agrees, Shiskin said he hopes the committee will be formed before the year is out. Existing concepts are the product of a similar committee's work 13 years ago.

The call for a re-examination comes at a critical time. The government relies on at least two surveys for its figures, a survey of households and one of employers. During the summer the two surveys varied on the number of jobless.

Shiskin minimizes the differences in the two sets of figures, both of which he said are used in the final compilations. "Quite often there is a divergence," he said. "It's a natural kind of thing. We were not alarmed."

The Goddess

Wow!

In the great national tradition of reigning wowers-Lillian Russell, Clara Bow, Jean Harlow, Rita Hayworth—now it is Marilyn Monroe's turn to wear the uneasy crown.

Besides the basic ingredients, there is the invitational walk, the wet-lipped giggle, the breathless whisper, the ingenous response, all that it takes to make a sex queen.

The cameras roll for a scene in "The Seven Year Itch" on a street in Manhattan. The star moves over the subway grating. Updraft. Squel. Skirts up. Gorgeous symmetry. Like a lovely big luna moth. Perfect, baby, perfect. They'll love it.

In just a few years, the scene would be regarded as a case of over-dressing. But now, September 9, 1954, it is the squealy epitome of female dare. And Marilyn Monroe is perfect in the part. There may even be a hint that she can act.

"Is it true you had nothing on when you posed for that calendar portrait?"

"I had the radio on."

Marilyn Monroe had all the right answers for the press, few for herself in a private life that defied answers. Both her maternal grandparents and her mother were committed to mental institutions. Her uncle killed himself. Her father died in a motorcycle accident three years after her birth. The girl was in and out of foster homes, as later the woman would be in and out of psychiatric hospitals, followed by photographers. Her three marriages ended in divorce, the last two, to Joe DiMaggio and Arthur Miller, screamingly recorded by photographers relentlessly chronicling the life of a sex queen.

By the time she was 36, eight years later, she had starred in movies that had grossed $200,000,000 and in a life that ended, alone, on a bed in a small Hollywood bungalow, one hand hanging limply to a phone, near an empty bottle of sleeping pills.

A few days later, someone remembered, someone always remembers, that she used to say, "Isn't it a terrible thing about life, that there always must be something we have to live up to?"

During 1974

1 out of 4 in Scott County on Social Security under 60

Social Security benefits were being paid to residents of Scott County at a rate of $859,000 a month at the close of 1974; according to Don Hart, manager of the Social Security Administration office in Sikeston.

Of the Social Security beneficiaries living in Scott County, 3,645 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,510 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 1,085 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Unemployment benefits paid drops $1.4 million

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Unemployment benefits paid out to jobless Missourians under state and federal programs dropped by more than $1.4 million from July to August, the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations announced Tuesday.

While the $34.2 million paid out to the unemployed during August was somewhat lower than July's figure of $35.6 million, it was five times the $6.9 million paid in August of last year.

The August 1975 amount includes payments for extended benefits, federal supplemental benefits and benefits for special unemployment assistance, which are all administered by the Division of Employment Security.

The division said that during August, 140,600 workers were claiming some kind of benefits, and weeks compensated for unemployment were four times as great as the nujber a year ago. The average weekly benefit paid during the month was $64.60.

St. Louis led all cities in the amount of compensation its citizens received—$10.1 million, followed by Kansas City's $6.5 million.

Other cities and the amount of benefits received were: Cape Girardeau, $544,824; Columbia, $440,004; Hannibal, $334,452; Jefferson City, $688,340; Joplin, $971,440; Kennett, $294,561; Kirksville, $164,794; Maryville, $111,517; Mexico, $182,162; Moberly, $197,791; Nevada, $258,301; Poplar Bluff, $539,001; St. Charles, $1,066,881; St. Joseph, $644,893; Sedalia, $519,369; Sikeston, $542,793; Springfield, $1,637,207; Washington, $788,478; West Plains, $593,263.

Bernie tax rate reduced

BERNIE --The property tax rate for the city was reduced from $2.22 to $2.05 per $100 assessed valuation by the City Council Tuesday night due to an increase in county property valuation assessments.

The city had been informed in a letter from Stoddard County Clerk John Marvin Capps that county assessments have been increased more than 10 per cent over 1974 assessments, which means county taxing bodies must lower their rates so as not to take in any additional money as a result of the assessment increase.

The increase in county assessments was ordered by the Missouri State Tax Commission.

Mayor R.B. Woods and City Attorney Claude Arnold were authorized by the council Tuesday night to request the Missouri Public Service Commission to hold a separate public hearing in Bernie on a rate increase proposed by Missouri Utilities Co. of Cape Girardeau.

The city has gone on record as being opposed to the increase, and Woods testified against the increase at a public hearing conducted by the PSC Aug. 26 in Dexter.

A public hearing was set by the council for 7 p.m. Sept. 30 at the city hall to discuss railroad crossings in the city. The city is considering whether or not to have more signal lights and crossing gates installed and where the installations should be made. The hearing is to allow citizens to give their views, Mrs. Foster said.

Another public hearing was set at 7 p.m. Thursday in the city hall to discuss several proposed zoning changes, Mrs. Foster said.

The resignation as dog catcher and street sweeper by J.C. Whitehead, due to ill health, was accepted by the council. Roy Fuwell was hired to replace Whitehead.

Woods, with the approval of the council, reappointed Norman Swafford and Harold Stafford to the park board, Robert Clark to the housing authority board and William Rushing as a volunteer fireman.

Larry Hampton was hired as a police officer, and the council agreed to purchase an engraving tool for the police department to use for registration purposes.

Illmo-Scott City board appoints part-time teacher

SCOTT CITY — The Illmo-Scott City Board of Education Monday night appointed Janet Koch as a parttime teacher in the high school. She will teach one commercial class and perform some study hall duties.

An application to participate in the federal Title III program was approved.

A program for adults to complete a high school education was also approved.

Courses will mainly be held in the evenings. This is a federally sponsored program at no cost to the school, except for providing classrooms.

The new year's attendance was discussed.

A total of 1,248 students are enrolled in kindergarten through grade 12 this year. A breakdown is as follows: Kindergarten to sixth, 600; seventh and eighth grades, 187; ninth through twelfth, 461. This is a total of 20 students over last year.

The board also heard minutes of a special meeting held Sept. 2 concerning the lowering of the tax levy from $4.50 to $4.25, which was approved.

PIN AWARDS LEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third straight year, bowling leads the presidential sports awards, according to figures released by the president's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. The award gives adults across the nation a chance to take part in any of 39 sports in the physical fitness program.

Bowling is the leader in earned chevrons, pins and certificates since the program began in 1972. Jogging continues in second place with bicycling third.

The Goddess

Wow!

In the great national tradition of reigning wowers–Lillian Russell, Clara Bow, Jean Harlow, Rita Hayworth—now it is Marilyn Monroe's turn to wear the uneasy crown.

Besides the basic ingredients, there is the invitational walk, the wet-lipped giggle, the breathless whisper, the ingenous response, all that it takes to make a sex queen.

The cameras roll for a scene in "The Seven Year Itch" on a street in Manhattan. The star moves over the subway grating. Updraft. Squel. Skirts up. Gorgeous symmetry. Like a lovely big luna moth. Perfect, baby, perfect. They'll love it.

In just a few years, the scene would be regarded as a case of over-dressing. But now, September 9, 1954, it is the squealy epitome of female dare. And Marilyn Monroe is perfect in the part. There may even be a hint that she can act.

"Is it true you had nothing on when you posed for that calendar portrait?"

"I had the radio on."

Marilyn Monroe had all the right answers for the press, few for herself in a private life that defied answers. Both her maternal grandparents and her mother were committed to mental institutions. Her uncle killed himself. Her father died in a motorcycle accident three years after her birth. The girl was in and out of foster homes, as later the woman would be in and out of psychiatric hospitals, followed by photographers. Her three marriages ended in divorce, the last two, to Joe DiMaggio and Arthur Miller, screamingly recorded by photographers relentlessly chronicling the life of a sex queen.

By the time she was 36, eight years later, she had starred in movies that had grossed $200,000,000 and in a life that ended, alone, on a bed in a small Hollywood bungalow, one hand hanging limply to a phone, near an empty bottle of sleeping pills.

A few days later, someone remembered, someone always remembers, that she used to say, "Isn't it a terrible thing about life, that there always must be something we have to live up to?"

During 1974

1 out of 4 in Scott County on Social Security under 60

Social Security benefits were being paid to residents of Scott County at a rate of $859,000 a month at the close of 1974; according to Don Hart, manager of the Social Security Administration office in Sikeston.

Of the Social Security beneficiaries living in Scott County, 3,645 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,510 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 1,085 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Unemployment benefits paid drops $1.4 million

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Unemployment benefits paid out to jobless Missourians under state and federal programs dropped by more than $1.4 million from July to August, the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations announced Tuesday.

While the $34.2 million paid out to the unemployed during August was somewhat lower than July's figure of $35.6 million, it was five times the $6.9 million paid in August of last year.

The August 1975 amount includes payments for extended benefits, federal supplemental benefits and benefits for special unemployment assistance, which are all administered by the Division of Employment Security.

The division said that during August, 140,600 workers were claiming some kind of benefits, and weeks compensated for unemployment were four times as great as the nujber a year ago. The average weekly benefit paid during the month was $64.60.

St. Louis led all cities in the amount of compensation its citizens received—$10.1 million, followed by Kansas City's $6.5 million.

Other cities and the amount of benefits received were: Cape Girardeau, $544,824; Columbia, $440,004; Hannibal, $334,452; Jefferson City, $688,340; Joplin, $971,440; Kennett, $294,561; Kirksville, $164,794; Maryville, $111,517; Mexico, $182,162; Moberly, $197,791; Nevada, $258,301; Poplar Bluff, $539,001; St. Charles, $1,066,881; St. Joseph, $644,893; Sedalia, $519,369; Sikeston, $542,793; Springfield, $1,637,207; Washington, $788,478; West Plains, $593,263.

Bernie tax rate reduced

BERNIE --The property tax rate for the city was reduced from $2.22 to $2.05 per $100 assessed valuation by the City Council Tuesday night due to an increase in county property valuation assessments.

The city had been informed in a letter from Stoddard County Clerk John Marvin Capps that county assessments have been increased more than 10 per cent over 1974 assessments, which means county taxing bodies must lower their rates so as not to take in any additional money as a result of the assessment increase.

The increase in county assessments was ordered by the Missouri State Tax Commission.

Mayor R.B. Woods and City Attorney Claude Arnold were authorized by the council Tuesday night to request the Missouri Public Service Commission to hold a separate public hearing in Bernie on a rate increase proposed by Missouri Utilities Co. of Cape Girardeau.

The city has gone on record as being opposed to the increase, and Woods testified against the increase at a public hearing conducted by the PSC Aug. 26 in Dexter.

A public hearing was set by the council for 7 p.m. Sept. 30 at the city hall to discuss railroad crossings in the city. The city is considering whether or not to have more signal lights and crossing gates installed and where the installations should be made. The hearing is to allow citizens to give their views, Mrs. Foster said.

Another public hearing was set at 7 p.m. Thursday in the city hall to discuss several proposed zoning changes, Mrs. Foster said.

The resignation as dog catcher and street sweeper by J.C. Whitehead, due to ill health, was accepted by the council. Roy Fuwell was hired to replace Whitehead.

Woods, with the approval of the council, reappointed Norman Swafford and Harold Stafford to the park board, Robert Clark to the housing authority board and William Rushing as a volunteer fireman.

Larry Hampton was hired as a police officer, and the council agreed to purchase an engraving tool for the police department to use for registration purposes.

Illmo-Scott City board appoints part-time teacher

SCOTT CITY — The Illmo-Scott City Board of Education Monday night appointed Janet Koch as a parttime teacher in the high school. She will teach one commercial class and perform some study hall duties.

An application to participate in the federal Title III program was approved.

A program for adults to complete a high school education was also approved.

Courses will mainly be held in the evenings. This is a federally sponsored program at no cost to the school, except for providing classrooms.

The new year's attendance was discussed.

A total of 1,248 students are enrolled in kindergarten through grade 12 this year. A breakdown is as follows: Kindergarten to sixth, 600; seventh and eighth grades, 187; ninth through twelfth, 461. This is a total of 20 students over last year.

The board also heard minutes of a special meeting held Sept. 2 concerning the lowering of the tax levy from $4.50 to $4.25, which was approved.

PIN AWARDS LEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third straight year, bowling leads the presidential sports awards, according to figures released by the president's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. The award gives adults across the nation a chance to take part in any of 39 sports in the physical fitness program.

Bowling is the leader in earned chevrons, pins and certificates since the program began in 1972. Jogging continues in second place with bicycling third.

Woman Is Head Grower at Big Greenhouse

By CHARLOTTE BLACK
Albuquerque Tribune Writer

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Edna De Los Santos A. works in a growing business.

Literally.

The pretty, dark-eyed young woman is head grower for El Cid Greenhouses at Tome, in the lush farming land south of Los Lunas, N.M. She's as rare as an exotic blossom. Few head growers in the country are women.

In the various bays at El Cid Greenhouses are literally thousands upon thousands of chrysanthemums, begonias and ferns.

"There really is a demand for them. I guess that's why we're doing so well," says Miss De Los Santos, who adds an A to her name because of her marriage this spring to a young court reporter named Albert Alvarez.

"We think we're being liberal in our ordering and then we sell out. Maybe it's the recession. I'm told that during the Depression, people bought more house plants than ever before."

Miss De Los Santos's love affair with plants began many years ago. "I was always interested in science, particularly in plant physiology. But I didn't think I'd be a good teacher. I had to find another way to apply my interests."

She entered Texas A & M in the fall of 1971. With the help of various scholarships she emerged in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in horticulture.

During summers she worked in greenhouses in her home town of Corpus Christi. Last fall she began work on her master's degree.

When she graduated from Texas A &M — three years after she entered — it was summa cum laude. Each yea. she was there she was designated a "distinguished student."

Her present life began shortly after Albuquerque businessman Jim Cox decided to convert his El Cid greenhouse operations from tomatoes to flowers. He called Dr. J.C. Raulston, one of Miss De Los Santos's professors and a highly respected authority in the field.

"Dr. Raulston recommended me. I was very pleased. Not everyone felt the way he did. Many of the other professors only told me about the teaching jobs. Discrimination against women is so subtle."

Cox flew Miss De Los Santos to Albuquerque for an interview, hired her and she has been working for him since January.

The most challenging thing about her job as El Cid's head grower is "juggling all the details."

"You could so easily get so caught up in the mums that you would forget to prune the begonias, pinch the gloxinias or repot the ferns.

"That's what makes it so interesting. It's always changing."

It has another aspect that Miss De Los Santos enjoys. There is a connection, she points out, between things of the soil and life itself. "I feel like I'm part of it. When our first gloxinia bloomed, I went around showing everybody."

She regularly works a five-and-a-half-day week. Monday through Friday she sees that all the planting, repotting and disbudding is done. Care through the weekend is simply to "maintain" the plants. They are watered, the light and temperature monitored.

"I also walk around and just look at everything. If I catch the problems — disease, bugs — early they're much easier to control."

The first thing she does each day is start her crews out on what they are to do.

"My goal eventually is to have someone in charge of each of the growing areas, someone for the mums, someone else for the begonias.

"I'm always teaching. I know I enjoy something more when I understand it. And the more my workers know the more they can bring things to my attention, things that might be wrong.

"I always try to employ people who are interested in plants to begin with. Then we're on common ground."

In numbers alone, El Cid's operation is awe-inspiring.

"Each time we order pots we increase the order. We buy just thousands and thousands and thousands."

Each plant has its own special requirements. "There's so much to learn. Some people devote their whole lives to one species, like chrysanthemums."

HER GARDEN GROWS—Edna De Los Santos A., head grower at El Cid Greenhouses in Tome, N.M., casts an appraising eye over one of the plants in her care. Miss De Los Santos, who holds a degree in horticulture from Texas A & M, is one of the few women in the country in full charge of managing a large greenhouse operation.

"WE AIM TO SATISFY"
"Your Home Is REALLY Your ESTATE"

Woman Is Head Grower at Big Greenhouse

By CHARLOTTE BLACK
Albuquerque Tribune Writer

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Edna De Los Santos A. works in a growing business.

Literally.

The pretty, dark-eyed young woman is head grower for El Cid Greenhouses at Tome, in the lush farming land south of Los Lunas, N.M. She's as rare as an exotic blossom. Few head growers in the country are women.

In the various bays at El Cid Greenhouses are literally thousands upon thousands of chrysanthemums, begonias and ferns.

"There really is a demand for them. I guess that's why we're doing so well," says Miss De Los Santos, who adds an A to her name because of her marriage this spring to a young court reporter named Albert Alvarez.

"We think we're being liberal in our ordering and then we sell out. Maybe it's the recession. I'm told that during the Depression, people bought more house plants than ever before."

Miss De Los Santos's love affair with plants began many years ago. "I was always interested in science, particularly in plant physiology. But I didn't think I'd be a good teacher. I had to find another way to apply my interests."

She entered Texas A & M in the fall of 1971. With the help of various scholarships she emerged in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in horticulture.

During summers she worked in greenhouses in her home town of Corpus Christi. Last fall she began work on her master's degree.

When she graduated from Texas A &M — three years after she entered — it was summa cum laude. Each yea. she was there she was designated a "distinguished student."

Her present life began shortly after Albuquerque businessman Jim Cox decided to convert his El Cid greenhouse operations from tomatoes to flowers. He called Dr. J.C. Raulston, one of Miss De Los Santos's professors and a highly respected authority in the field.

"Dr. Raulston recommended me. I was very pleased. Not everyone felt the way he did. Many of the other professors only told me about the teaching jobs. Discrimination against women is so subtle."

Cox flew Miss De Los Santos to Albuquerque for an interview, hired her and she has been working for him since January.

The most challenging thing about her job as El Cid's head grower is "juggling all the details."

"You could so easily get so caught up in the mums that you would forget to prune the begonias, pinch the gloxinias or repot the ferns.

"That's what makes it so interesting. It's always changing."

It has another aspect that Miss De Los Santos enjoys. There is a connection, she points out, between things of the soil and life itself. "I feel like I'm part of it. When our first gloxinia bloomed, I went around showing everybody."

She regularly works a five-and-a-half-day week. Monday through Friday she sees that all the planting, repotting and disbudding is done. Care through the weekend is simply to "maintain" the plants. They are watered, the light and temperature monitored.

"I also walk around and just look at everything. If I catch the problems — disease, bugs — early they're much easier to control."

The first thing she does each day is start her crews out on what they are to do.

"My goal eventually is to have someone in charge of each of the growing areas, someone for the mums, someone else for the begonias.

"I'm always teaching. I know I enjoy something more when I understand it. And the more my workers know the more they can bring things to my attention, things that might be wrong.

"I always try to employ people who are interested in plants to begin with. Then we're on common ground."

In numbers alone, El Cid's operation is awe-inspiring.

"Each time we order pots we increase the order. We buy just thousands and thousands and thousands."

Each plant has its own special requirements. "There's so much to learn. Some people devote their whole lives to one species, like chrysanthemums."

HER GARDEN GROWS—Edna De Los Santos A., head grower at El Cid Greenhouses in Tome, N.M., casts an appraising eye over one of the plants in her care. Miss De Los Santos, who holds a degree in horticulture from Texas A & M, is one of the few women in the country in full charge of managing a large greenhouse operation.

Area accidents injure five

Five persons were injured in four area traffic accidents Tuesday, the highway patrol reported today.

The death of Eleneor Alice Mann, 28, of Parma was added to patrol records Tuesday, raising the fatality toll on Southeast Missouri roads this year to 78, compared with 82 at the same time last year. Mrs. Mann died Saturday of injuries received Friday in a traffic accident on a gravel road one mile south of Risco.

A Sedgewickville man was seriously injured in a one-vehicle accident at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday on Route JJ two miles west of Mayfield in Bollinger County.

The accident occurred when a westbound truck driven by John Bill Roe, 66, of Sedgewickville ran off the road into a ditch, then overturned on the highway when the driver tried to regain control.

He was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau for treatment.

Two persons received minor injuries in a one-car accident at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday on Highway 51 in Bollinger County five miles north of Patton.

The accident occurred when a northbound pickup truck driven by Vickie Kay Yount, 18, of Marquand ran off the road and skidded about 200 feet into a deep ravine.

Injured were passengers Wilma C. Yount, 59, and Emmett Young, 62, of Marquand. They were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

One person was injured at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday in a two-vehicle accident on Route U in Pemiscot County four miles west of Caruthersville.

The accident occurred when a westbound truck driven by Homer Hinklin, 51, of Cooter stopped to make a left turn and was struck from behind by another westbound pickup driven by Earl Gordon Jr., 51, of Leadington.

Gordon was taken to Pemiscot County Medical Center in Hayti for treatment of cuts and a broken nose.

A Lutesville resident received minor injuries in a one-car accident at 6:30 p.m. Monday on Route A two miles west of Marquand.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Aveard W. Mitchell, 37, of Lutesville ran off the road on a curve and traveled about 300 feet, rolling over at least once.

TORONTO (AP) — Jarrold Organ, a university student with a job at Toronto's Greenway Raceway, was working the $10 parimutual window when a customer asked for an exactor ticket on the last race.

Organ punched the ticket but made a mistake on the horses' numbers. The customer asked him for a new ticket and Organ was stuck with the original.

council must also approve proposed projects.

J.T. Holder, executive director of Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation; Mrs. Millie lane, coordinator of the Charleston DAEOC center; and other staff members attended Tuesday night's meeting to request that the city continue to assist in paying rent on the building housing the local center.

The council had indicated at an earlier meeting that it had reservations about paying the rent, which has been increased from $100 to $150 per month by the Odd Fellows Lodge, which owns the building on Commercial Street.

The Chamber of Commerce, which pays 25 per cent of the rent, had also indicated it was not in favor of paying the increased amount and another point of concern for the two groups was the importance of having the local center and the amount of benefits gained by residents through the program.

Various programs provided by the center were outlined by Holder and Mrs. Lane, including Head Start, family planning, emergency food programs, senior citizen activities, general education development classes, youth programs, housing assistance and family services for handicapped and shut-in persons.

The local center has seven full-time staff members, four part-time employes and two additional employes who also work in another county.

The council agreed to negotiate with the lodge for a lower rental charge and to work with the center in an attempt to seek other quarters with ample space should the rent not be lowered.

A resolution setting Oct. 14, the next regular meeting of the council, as the date for a public hearing on the proposed replatting of block 6 in East Gate Addition, owned by Dewey Heppe, was approved.

Also approved was an ordinance naming Ed DeField to replace Wilda DeField as city assessor.

Recommendations from the park and Recreation board for development of Lincoln and Mark Twain parks were presented by Tanna Parish. The council approved the recommendations, which will include construction of shelter, installation of bleachers, gates and fences and playground equipment.

The estimated cost for Lincoln Park, without a baseball diamond, was approximately $19,972, and the estimate at Mark Twain Park, without tennis courts, was $15,860. The estimated costs do not include discounts which may be available and community development funds to be used for the project.

Bob Flory of R.W. Booker & Associates of St. Louis, presented a report on his firm's engineering study of the two open drainage ditches within the city. Flory offered two recommendations for improvements and gave a cost estimate of $350,000 for the proposed programs.

Approximately $325,000 in 1975 community development funds will be available for the project until February 1975.

The council members tabled action on the matter and indicated they are more in favor of installing pipe and enclosing the ditches than following Flory's recommendations. Cost estimates for the pipe will be collected for presentation at a special meeting of the council.

A request by the Business and professional Women's Club for permission to use the old city hall building for its meetings was granted after Downs reported that the city does have liability insurance on the building.

Rural fire contracts were approved for Flora Cooper of Charleston Route Two and Mable Moit of Bertrand.

Ticket Lock

Discouraged because fewer than half of parking offenders bothered to pay their tickets, Japanese police began to use a ticket on a metal loop that locks on car doors or side mirrors. Since the system was instituted in Japan's six largest cities, most motorists tagged have come to police stations to pay their fines and have the tickets removed.

Radio, motorcycle reported stolen

A citizens band radio was taken from a car belonging to Jerry Greenlee, 412 Illinois Ave., between midnight and 6 a.m. Tuesday while the car was parked at his home.

A 750cc motorcycle was taken from Albert Field Jones Jr., 330 Dona Street, between Friday and Tuesday. The cycle was taken from the yard of the home.

A purse belonging to Janet Dixon, 1622 E. Matthews Ave., was taken from her car about 12:30 a.m. today while it was parked in 400 block of Flether Street.

The purse contained $2.50 in cash, $110 in food stamps and a $1.37 check from the Department of Revenue.

T. A. Noles, 219 Watson St., told police two fishing rods worth $32 each, an electric motor valued at $70 and a lawnmower valued at $75 were taken from his home between Saturday and Tuesday.

Sikeston schools enrollment increases

The average enrollment in Sikeston R-6 District schools this year is 4,927, an increase of about 75 students over the 1974-75 school year, Charles Simpson, business manager of the Sikeston school system, told Kiwanians Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Simpson said the Sikeston district employs more than 500 people and has a payroll exceeding $3,850,000 and a budget exceeding $5,500,000.

Three new buses are purchased each year and the district now has 24 buses which transport about 4,000 students each day, Simpson said. The buses travel 1,059 miles every day and average over 150,000 miles a year. Buses travel 30,000 miles each year transporting football teams, bands and other organizations.

The fleet of buses represents an investment of over $250,000, Simpson stated.

The state has agreed to help the district buy a special bus to accommodate wheelchair students, Simpson said.

New Kiwanis Club officers will be installed Oct. 7 at the Ramada Inn when the club meets for its annual Ladies Night banquet.

Balloonist entertains Sikeston residents

That blue and white balloon, known as the Mississippi Delta Queen, was piloted by H.G. "Sonny" Presley of Sikeston.

Presley, who has taken up the sport of ballooning, recently purchased the hot air balloon and has already become one of the top balloonists in the United States after winning the Mississippi race and placing ninth in a field of 192 entries in the Indianola, Iowa, national event.

Tuesday's flight was centered around Sikeston. The balloon soared as high as 2,000 feet and was in flight for almost an hour and a half.

Presley departed from Sonny Presley Chevrolet, the automobile agency he owns, where the balloon is on display, and landed in the Green Meadows area in the north part of town.

"We had trouble getting to the balloon after it landed because of the bicycles, cars and motorcycles following it," said Dixie Leonberger, who was in the chase vehicle "Sonny plans another flight this weekend if weather permits," she added.

Fire destroys milo

DEXTER---About 125,000 bushels of milo were destroyed by fire at Monarch Feed Mill Tuesday afternoon and the bin in which the grain was stored received moderate damage.

The fire department was called at 12:05 p.m. Tuesday. Three trucks with 18 men fought the fire for five hours and were able to contain it to the bin.

Lehman Godwin, chairman of the board of Monarch Feed Mill, said an estimate of the damage was not available and declined to make a guess.

The bin was new, and this was the first time it had been filled.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the cause of the fire is undetermined, but it probably started in the grain dryer.

Another possibility, he said, was that the fire was spontaneously generated within the grain itself.

Godwin said insurance officials are checking the damage this morning and that it will probably be several days before the amount of damage is assessed.

Work continued as usual this morning, Godwin said.

Matthews voters elect Anglin and Carlisle

MATTHEWS — Clyde Anglin was elected city marshal and Robert Carlisle was named police judge in a special city election Tuesday.

Anglin polled 99 votes to edge Hubert Bewley, who received 85 votes, in the marshal race.

Carlisle tallied 98 ballots to defeat Charles Beard, who received 49 votes, and F. E. Story, who collected 36 votes.

Anglin, who has been serving as marshall by appointment, replaces Gen "Pete" Burch, who resigned in may.

The police judge office, which previously had been an appointive position, had been changed to an elective office by the City Council. Tommy Romine, he appointive judge, did not seek the office.

Both terms expire next April.

A Lutesville resident received minor injuries in a one-car accident at 6:30 p.m. Monday on Route A two miles west of Marquand.

The accident occurred when a westbound car driven by Aveard W. Mitchell, 37, of Lutesville ran off the road on a curve and traveled about 300 feet, rolling over at least once.

TORONTO (AP) — Jarroid Organ, a university student with a job at Toronto's Greenway Raceway, was working the $10 parimutual window when a customer asked for an exactor ticket on the last race.

Organ punched the ticket but made a mistake on the horses' numbers. The customer asked him for a new ticket and Organ was stuck with the original.

council must also approve proposed projects.

J.T. Holder, executive director of Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation; Mrs. Millie lane, coordinator of the Charleston DAEOC center; and other staff members attended Tuesday night's meeting to request that the city continue to assist in paying rent on the building housing the local center.

The council had indicated at an earlier meeting that it had reservations about paying the rent, which has been increased from $100 to $150 per month by the Odd Fellows Lodge, which owns the building on Commercial Street.

The Chamber of Commerce, which pays 25 per cent of the rent, had also indicated it was not in favor of paying the increased amount and another point of concern for the two groups was the importance of having the local center and the amount of benefits gained by residents through the program.

Various programs provided by the center were outlined by Holder and Mrs. Lane, including Head Start, family planning, emergency food programs, senior citizen activities, general education development classes, youth programs, housing assistance and family services for handicapped and shut-in persons.

The local center has seven full-time staff members, four part-time employes and two additional employes who also work in another county.

The council agreed to negotiate with the lodge for a lower rental charge and to work with the center in an attempt to seek other quarters with ample space should the rent not be lowered.

A resolution setting Oct. 14, the next regular meeting of the council, as the date for a public hearing on the proposed replatting of block 6 in East Gate Addition, owned by Dewey Heppe, was approved.

Also approved was an ordinance naming Ed DeField to replace Wilda DeField as city assessor.

Recommendations from the park and Recreation board for development of Lincoln and Mark Twain parks were presented by Tanna Parish. The council approved the recommendations, which will include construction of shelter, installation of bleachers, gates and fences and playground equipment.

The estimated cost for Lincoln Park, without a baseball diamond, was approximately $19,972, and the estimate at Mark Twain Park, without tennis courts, was $15,860. The estimated costs do not include discounts which may be available and community development funds to be used for the project.

Bob Flory of R.W. Booker & Associates of St. Louis, presented a report on his firm's engineering study of the two open drainage ditches within the city. Flory offered two recommendations for improvements and gave a cost estimate of $350,000 for the proposed programs.

Approximately $325,000 in 1975 community development funds will be available for the project until February 1975.

The council members tabled action on the matter and indicated they are more in favor of installing pipe and enclosing the ditches than following Flory's recommendations. Cost estimates for the pipe will be collected for presentation at a special meeting of the council.

A request by the Business and professional Women's Club for permission to use the old city hall building for its meetings was granted after Downs reported that the city does have liability insurance on the building.

Rural fire contracts were approved for Flora Cooper of Charleston Route Two and Mable Moit of Bertrand.

Ticket Lock

Discouraged because fewer than half of parking offenders bothered to pay their tickets, Japanese police began to use a ticket on a metal loop that locks on car doors or side mirrors. Since the system was instituted in Japan's six largest cities, most motorists tagged have come to police stations to pay their fines and have the tickets removed.

Radio, motorcycle reported stolen

A citizens band radio was taken from a car belonging to Jerry Greenlee, 412 Illinois Ave., between midnight and 6 a.m. Tuesday while the car was parked at his home.

A 750cc motorcycle was taken from Albert Field Jones Jr., 330 Dona Street, between Friday and Tuesday. The cycle was taken from the yard of the home.

A purse belonging to Janet Dixon, 1622 E. Matthews Ave., was taken from her car about 12:30 a.m. today while it was parked in 400 block of Flether Street.

The purse contained $2.50 in cash, $110 in food stamps and a $1.37 check from the Department of Revenue.

T. A. Noles, 219 Watson St., told police two fishing rods worth $32 each, an electric motor valued at $70 and a lawnmower valued at $75 were taken from his home between Saturday and Tuesday.

Sikeston schools enrollment increases

The average enrollment in Sikeston R-6 District schools this year is 4,927, an increase of about 75 students over the 1974-75 school year, Charles Simpson, business manager of the Sikeston school system, told Kiwanians Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Simpson said the Sikeston district employs more than 500 people and has a payroll exceeding $3,850,000 and a budget exceeding $5,500,000.

Three new buses are purchased each year and the district now has 24 buses which transport about 4,000 students each day, Simpson said. The buses travel 1,059 miles every day and average over 150,000 miles a year. Buses travel 30,000 miles each year transporting football teams, bands and other organizations.

The fleet of buses represents an investment of over $250,000, Simpson stated.

The state has agreed to help the district buy a special bus to accommodate wheelchair students, Simpson said.

New Kiwanis Club officers will be installed Oct. 7 at the Ramada Inn when the club meets for its annual Ladies Night banquet.

Balloonist entertains Sikeston residents

That blue and white balloon, known as the Mississippi Delta Queen, was piloted by H.G. "Sonny" Presley of Sikeston.

Presley, who has taken up the sport of ballooning, recently purchased the hot air balloon and has already become one of the top balloonists in the United States after winning the Mississippi race and placing ninth in a field of 192 entries in the Indianola, Iowa, national event.

Tuesday's flight was centered around Sikeston. The balloon soared as high as 2,000 feet and was in flight for almost an hour and a half.

Presley departed from Sonny Presley Chevrolet, the automobile agency he owns, where the balloon is on display, and landed in the Green Meadows area in the north part of town.

"We had trouble getting to the balloon after it landed because of the bicycles, cars and motorcycles following it," said Dixie Leonberger, who was in the chase vehicle "Sonny plans another flight this weekend if weather permits," she added.

Fire destroys milo

DEXTER---About 125,000 bushels of milo were destroyed by fire at Monarch Feed Mill Tuesday afternoon and the bin in which the grain was stored received moderate damage.

The fire department was called at 12:05 p.m. Tuesday. Three trucks with 18 men fought the fire for five hours and were able to contain it to the bin.

Lehman Godwin, chairman of the board of Monarch Feed Mill, said an estimate of the damage was not available and declined to make a guess.

The bin was new, and this was the first time it had been filled.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the cause of the fire is undetermined, but it probably started in the grain dryer.

Another possibility, he said, was that the fire was spontaneously generated within the grain itself.

Godwin said insurance officials are checking the damage this morning and that it will probably be several days before the amount of damage is assessed.

Work continued as usual this morning, Godwin said.

Matthews voters elect Anglin and Carlisle

MATTHEWS — Clyde Anglin was elected city marshal and Robert Carlisle was named police judge in a special city election Tuesday.

Anglin polled 99 votes to edge Hubert Bewley, who received 85 votes, in the marshal race.

Carlisle tallied 98 ballots to defeat Charles Beard, who received 49 votes, and F. E. Story, who collected 36 votes.

Anglin, who has been serving as marshall by appointment, replaces Gen "Pete" Burch, who resigned in may.

The police judge office, which previously had been an appointive position, had been changed to an elective office by the City Council. Tommy Romine, he appointive judge, did not seek the office.

Both terms expire next April.

Bear praises Tony G.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Tony Galbreath, a 225-pound Missouri tailback who tore up Alabama's proud defense Monday night, claims he'd rather be playing basketball than football.

"I would be playing basketball if I was eight inches taller," he said.

But at 6-foot-1, the Fulton, Mo., slasher looked big enough to Alabama dy grabbing 120 yards and one touchdown on 32 runs in Missouri's 20-7 upset of the second-ranked Crimson Tide.

He also caught Alabama by surprise by passing from his running back spot. The losing coach, Paul "Bear" Bryant, said Galbreath "is a good one." Bryant had said before the game that Galbreath was one reason he was scared of Missouri.

Of his preference for basketball, Galbreath said: "It's not that I don't enjoy football. I just don't like to get hit. I don't have a lot of speed. I'd rather run around people."

He ran around a lot of Crimson Tide defenders before they hit him, gaining 89 yards in the first half while Missouri was grabbing a 20-0 lead.

Galbreath, 10th among 11 children in his family, was a junior college All+American at Centerville Community College in Iowa before going to Missouri.

He ran for 870 yards last season, most of it in the final five games after becoming the No. 1 tailback, and against Alabama he set himself a standard that will be hard to top.

But Bryant, who has watched a few players in his 30 years of coaching, said: "I've never seen a tailback as big, strong and fast."

Mizzou takes over 5th in AP poll

The Missouri Tigers, unheralded in the preseason rankings, have climbed into fifth place in this week's Associated Press college football poll thanks to Monday night's nationally televised 20-7 upset of Alabama.

The stunning setback dropped the Crimson Tide, runnerup in the first 1975 poll, all the way to 13th.

Oklahoma's defending national champions held onto first place, although they don't open their season until Saturday. The Sooners received 51 firstplace votes and 1,108 points from a panel of 56 sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

Alabama's defeat allowed Michigan, Ohio State and Southern California to move up one spot each to second, third and fourth, respectively. Michigan received one first-place ballot and 918 points, Ohio State got three No. 1 votes and 787 points while Southern Cal earned 746 points. None of the three has played a game yet.

The remaining first-place vote went to Missouri and the Tigers' total of 579 points shot them all the way up to fifth place ahead of Nebraska, Auburn, Notre Dame, Texas A&M and Penn State, who round out the Top Ten. Missouri and Penn State are the only members of the first regular-season Top Ten to have seen action.

Penn state fell from sixth to 10th after barely edging Temple 26-25 and the drop allowed Nebraska, Auburn, Texas A&M and Notre Dame to move up one place each.

The Second Ten consists of Michigan State, Texas, Alabama, Maryland, North Carolina State, UCLA, Arizona, Pitt, Florida and Tennessee. Last week, it was Texas, Michigan State, N.C. State, UCLA, Florida, Arizona, Maryland, Tennessee, Arkansas and Stanford.

Maryland climbed three places by blanking Villanova 41-0, N.C. State trimmed East Carolina 26-3 and Pitt cracked the Top Twenty with a 19-9 victory over Georgia. By making the Top Twenty, Missouri and Pitt pushed Arkansas and Stanford out.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points bases on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

College grid picks

NEW YORK (AP) — Can what happened to Alabama happen to Oklahoma?

Has Missouri's impressive 20-7 thump ng of Alabama, in which the Tigers completely shut down the Crimson Tide's heralded Wishbone running attack, given new hope to harassed opponents of the ground-gobbling offense?

"After watching Missouri play, we might reevaluate our Wishbone thinking," said Coach Carl Selmer of Miami of Florida. "Missouri put eight people up there and generally destroyed Alabama's blocking scheme. Your offensive linemen have to be generally sound in blocking technique because the eight-man defensive lne, by odd spacing, disrupts blocking assignments."

Oklahoma, whose Wishbone is more explosive than anyone else's, begins defense of its national championship Saturday against Oregon, a team trying to bounce back from a 2-9 season. The Ducks will bounce back, all right, and they'll keep bouncing...back and back and back. Oklahoma 49-14.

The opening week of the campaign produced a 17-5 forecasting record with one tie for a percentage of .773.

Sixteen members of The Associated Press Top Twenty will be in action this weekend, all except fifth-ranked Missouri, No. 13 Alabama, No. 17 Arizona and No. 18 Pitt.

Michigan at Wisconsin: The Wolverines barely edged Wisconsin 24-20 last year...and they'll barely edge them again. Michigan 17-14.

Ohio State at Michigan State: Ohio State didn't edge Michigan State last year. In fact, the Buckeyes bowed to the Spartans 16-13 for their only regular-season blemish. Woody Hayes wouldn't want revenge, would he? Ohio State 20-10.

Duke at Southern California: John McKay says the Trojans are a year away from greatness. That's great for Duke. Southern Cal 30-12.

Louisiana State at Nebraska: The only other time these teams met was in the 1971 Orange Bowl. Nebraska won 17-12 and nailed down the first of two straight national championships. Nebraska 28-14.

Memphis State at Auburn: The Tigers want to make Shug Jordan's last season one to remember. War Eagle! Auburn 24-0.

Mississippi at Texas A&M: Last weekend, Ole Miss traveled to Waco, Tex., and lost to Baylor. This time, the Rebels travel to College Station, Tex., to lose to...Texas A&M 35-7.

Notre Dame at Boston College: These teams have never met before, although the late Frank Leahy coached at both schools. The Era of Ara is over at Notre Dame and it remains to be seen how fine is Dan Devine. Upset Special of the Week...Boston College 14-13.

Stanford at Penn State: The Nittany Lions squeaked past Temple last week 26-25. Joe Paterno's teams tend to get better. Penn State 21-7.

Colorado State at Texas: Darrell Royal wanted to go listen to guitar-pickers but the football season got in the way. Texas 35-21.

Maryland at Tennessee: A rematch of last year's Liberty Bowl, which Tennessee won 7-3. A new year and a new deal...Maryland 17-16.

The Citizens Committee for Conservation, the organization responsible for the ongoing initiative petition campaign seeking an expansion of Missouri's conservation programs, are collecting signatures at the Southeast Missouri District Fair this week in Cape Girardeau.

According to Ed Stegner of Jefferson City, Secretary of the coalition, the group has already gathered over 40,000 of the needed 150,000 signatures in the statewide effort. The campaign began August 1.

If successful, a constitutional amendment seeking a very small sales tax, one eighth of one percent or one penny on each eight dollar purchase, with the revenue earmarked for conservation programs. This amendment would be added to the General Election ballot to be voted on by the people in November 1976 if enough signatures are secured. The estimated average cost per individual is three to four dollars which would total about $18 million per year for conservation. The money could be used for no other purpose. The Department of Conservation's expansion plan, called a design for Conservation, was set forth in the August issue of the Missouri Conservationist magazine. Among other things it proposes considerable acquisition ofconservation lands and an expansion of conservation services.

According to Stegner, the CCC hopes the Southeast Missouri fair will draw attention to their petition effort in this area of the state.

"We've got some great petition drive leaders in Southeast Missouri," said Stegner, "and I have no doubt that the 10th Congressional District will be one of the first to reach their quota."

Richard Steimle of Chaffee is the drive chairman for Scott County. Jim Ponder heads the drive in Mississippi county while Hal E. Hunter Jr., directs the New Madrid drive and Joe Vinson of Dexter is the Stoddard county drive chairman. Other area drive chairmen are: Leigh H. Frederickson in Bollinger county; Carl Heiser, Butler County; Paul Heye, Cape Girardeau county; Jeanette Hunter, Dunklin County; and T.W. Bill Collins Jr., Pemiscot County.

NFL cuts

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was the Stock Exchange at midday. It was rush hour in midtown.

It was cutdown day in the National Football League.

Players retired, went on waivers, or were otherwise discarded with the rapidity of machine gun fire Tuesday as coaches frantically pared their rosters to the 46-man limit.

And some big names fell victim to old age, poor health, or the simple inability to cut the mustard.

Tight end Marv Fleming, the only player to appear in five Super Bowls, was cut by the Washington Redskins. Center Bill Curry of the Green Bay Packers retired, as did defensive back Green of the Dallas Cowboys. And veteran linebacker Bobby Bell was placed on waivers by the Kansas City Chiefs. Coaches get to do it all again next Tuesday, when the final trim to 43 players is due.

Fleming, a 13-year veteran, had played in two Super Bowls with the Packers and three more with the Miami Dolphins.

Curry, an 11-year man, had played with Fleming on the Packer team that beat the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 in Super Bowl I eight years ago.

Green ended a 13-season career that included his becoming an all-pro at strong safety and cornerback, intercepting 34 passes and once playing 182 consecutive games. He'll become a Dallas scout.

Bell asked to be placed on waivers.

There were enough bodies shifted Tuesday to stock a lot of teams for a long time. Running backs and draft choices changed hands like bargains at a bazaar.

The Chiefs acquired defensive lineman Randy Beisler and a draft choice from San Francisco in exchange for defensive back Nate Allen. The 49ers also sent cornerback Frank Oliver to the Buffalo Bills for a draft pick.

Penn state fell from sixth to 10th after barely edging Temple 26-25 and the drop allowed Nebraska, Auburn, Texas A&M and Notre Dame to move up one place each.

The Second Ten consists of Michigan State, Texas, Alabama, Maryland, North Carolina State, UCLA, Arizona, Pitt, Florida and Tennessee. Last week, it was Texas, Michigan State, N.C. State, UCLA, Florida, Arizona, Maryland, Tennessee, Arkansas and Stanford.

Maryland climbed three places by blanking Villanova 41-0, N.C. State trimmed East Carolina 26-3 and Pitt cracked the Top Twenty with a 19-9 victory over Georgia. By making the Top Twenty, Missouri and Pitt pushed Arkansas and Stanford out.

NEW YORK (AP) — Can what happened to Alabama happen to Oklahoma?

Has Missouri's impressive 20-7 thump ng of Alabama, in which the Tigers completely shut down the Crimson Tide's heralded Wishbone running attack, given new hope to harassed opponents of the ground-gobbling offense?

"After watching Missouri play, we might reevaluate our Wishbone thinking," said Coach Carl Selmer of Miami of Florida. "Missouri put eight people up there and generally destroyed Alabama's blocking scheme. Your offensive linemen have to be generally sound in blocking technique because the eight-man defensive lne, by odd spacing, disrupts blocking assignments."

Oklahoma, whose Wishbone is more explosive than anyone else's, begins defense of its national championship Saturday against Oregon, a team trying to bounce back from a 2-9 season. The Ducks will bounce back, all right, and they'll keep bouncing...back and back and back. Oklahoma 49-14.

The opening week of the campaign produced a 17-5 forecasting record with one tie for a percentage of .773.

Sixteen members of The Associated Press Top Twenty will be in action this weekend, all except fifth-ranked Missouri, No. 13 Alabama, No. 17 Arizona and No. 18 Pitt.

Michigan at Wisconsin: The Wolverines barely edged Wisconsin 24-20 last year...and they'll barely edge them again. Michigan 17-14.

Ohio State at Michigan State: Ohio State didn't edge Michigan State last year. In fact, the Buckeyes bowed to the Spartans 16-13 for their only regular-season blemish. Woody Hayes wouldn't want revenge, would he? Ohio State 20-10.

Duke at Southern California: John McKay says the Trojans are a year away from greatness. That's great for Duke. Southern Cal 30-12.

Louisiana State at Nebraska: The only other time these teams met was in the 1971 Orange Bowl. Nebraska won 17-12 and nailed down the first of two straight national championships. Nebraska 28-14.

Memphis State at Auburn: The Tigers want to make Shug Jordan's last season one to remember. War Eagle! Auburn 24-0.

Mississippi at Texas A&M: Last weekend, Ole Miss traveled to Waco, Tex., and lost to Baylor. This time, the Rebels travel to College Station, Tex., to lose to...Texas A&M 35-7.

Notre Dame at Boston College: These teams have never met before, although the late Frank Leahy coached at both schools. The Era of Ara is over at Notre Dame and it remains to be seen how fine is Dan Devine. Upset Special of the Week...Boston College 14-13.

Stanford at Penn State: The Nittany Lions squeaked past Temple last week 26-25. Joe Paterno's teams tend to get better. Penn State 21-7.

Colorado State at Texas: Darrell Royal wanted to go listen to guitar-pickers but the football season got in the way. Texas 35-21.

Maryland at Tennessee: A rematch of last year's Liberty Bowl, which Tennessee won 7-3. A new year and a new deal...Maryland 17-16.

The Citizens Committee for Conservation, the organization responsible for the ongoing initiative petition campaign seeking an expansion of Missouri's conservation programs, are collecting signatures at the Southeast Missouri District Fair this week in Cape Girardeau.

According to Ed Stegner of Jefferson City, Secretary of the coalition, the group has already gathered over 40,000 of the needed 150,000 signatures in the statewide effort. The campaign began August 1.

If successful, a constitutional amendment seeking a very small sales tax, one eighth of one percent or one penny on each eight dollar purchase, with the revenue earmarked for conservation programs. This amendment would be added to the General Election ballot to be voted on by the people in November 1976 if enough signatures are secured. The estimated average cost per individual is three to four dollars which would total about $18 million per year for conservation. The money could be used for no other purpose. The Department of Conservation's expansion plan, called a design for Conservation, was set forth in the August issue of the Missouri Conservationist magazine. Among other things it proposes considerable acquisition ofconservation lands and an expansion of conservation services.

According to Stegner, the CCC hopes the Southeast Missouri fair will draw attention to their petition effort in this area of the state.

"We've got some great petition drive leaders in Southeast Missouri," said Stegner, "and I have no doubt that the 10th Congressional District will be one of the first to reach their quota."

Richard Steimle of Chaffee is the drive chairman for Scott County. Jim Ponder heads the drive in Mississippi county while Hal E. Hunter Jr., directs the New Madrid drive and Joe Vinson of Dexter is the Stoddard county drive chairman. Other area drive chairmen are: Leigh H. Frederickson in Bollinger county; Carl Heiser, Butler County; Paul Heye, Cape Girardeau county; Jeanette Hunter, Dunklin County; and T.W. Bill Collins Jr., Pemiscot County.

NFL cuts

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was the Stock Exchange at midday. It was rush hour in midtown.

It was cutdown day in the National Football League.

Players retired, went on waivers, or were otherwise discarded with the rapidity of machine gun fire Tuesday as coaches frantically pared their rosters to the 46-man limit.

And some big names fell victim to old age, poor health, or the simple inability to cut the mustard.

Tight end Marv Fleming, the only player to appear in five Super Bowls, was cut by the Washington Redskins. Center Bill Curry of the Green Bay Packers retired, as did defensive back Green of the Dallas Cowboys. And veteran linebacker Bobby Bell was placed on waivers by the Kansas City Chiefs. Coaches get to do it all again next Tuesday, when the final trim to 43 players is due.

Fleming, a 13-year veteran, had played in two Super Bowls with the Packers and three more with the Miami Dolphins.

Curry, an 11-year man, had played with Fleming on the Packer team that beat the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 in Super Bowl I eight years ago.

Green ended a 13-season career that included his becoming an all-pro at strong safety and cornerback, intercepting 34 passes and once playing 182 consecutive games. He'll become a Dallas scout.

Bell asked to be placed on waivers.

There were enough bodies shifted Tuesday to stock a lot of teams for a long time. Running backs and draft choices changed hands like bargains at a bazaar.

The Chiefs acquired defensive lineman Randy Beisler and a draft choice from San Francisco in exchange for defensive back Nate Allen. The 49ers also sent cornerback Frank Oliver to the Buffalo Bills for a draft pick.

Charleston's Charlie Babb is making the most of his chance with the Miami Dolphins this season.

Babb, in his fourth season with the two time Super Bowl champs, was a hero of sorts for the Dolphins against the Bears when he intercepted a pass and returned it 54 yards to spark Miami against Chicago and is finally getting his starting role wish.

"I've been frustrated I guess ever since I've been here," Babb explained. "But considering the success we've had it's been kind of a rewarding frustration."

Yes, a pocketful of playoff checks and a couple of world championship rings have made life tolerable for the leather-tough Babb. But a guy doesn't really feel like a football player unless he plays.

"Here's the way it's worked ever since I've been here," explained Babb, a 6-foot, 190-pounder from Memphis State. "I've backed up Dick Anderson at strong safety and Jake Scott at weak safety."

Simply translated, those remarks mean he didn't play except for specialty-team duty. Anderson and Scott are richly-paid all-pro types.

"I never really asked to be traded," Babb said. "However, (Coach Don) Shula had said that he'd think about trading me after last season. But we never got around to talking about it."

They never got to the talking stage because Anderson and Scott sustained knee injuries late last season.

"There was no way he was going to trade me until he found out if they would be healthy," Babb continued.

So Babb remained close to Miami, spending the off season playing on the Dolphins' basketball team. "We did a lot of running and gunning," Babb said. "And I was the runner and the gunner." Fun, in other words.

Then 10 days ago Anderson went down with another knee injury.

"I knew this was going to be a crucial year for me," Babb said. "But it wasn't the way I wanted to get the job. I didn't want Dick to get hurt. Actually, I was the starter in th game (Minnesota) he got hurt in. We'd been having real good competition for the job all preseason. I migh have been a little ahead at the time."

Now he is the starter at strong safety and the backup at weak safety. He intercepted one pass against Minnesota, then made the big grab Saturday against Chicago.

"The flanker was running a curl pattern and we were in a safety inside zone," Babb said, continuing the telephone interview. "I guess he didn't see me. I came from the middle of the field, cut in front of it (the ball), intercepted it, got a few good blocks, headed down the sidelines and it was six (points). It's still a superb feeling when you do something like that."

Babb now is feeling much more secure about his future with the Dolphins even though he hasn't signed his contract for this season yet.

"The thing that's probably meant the most to me in the pros is my aggressiveness," he said. "That's kept me here. That's what I was taught at Memphis State. Everybody who's ever played defense there gets a good dose of that. That's what they instill in you."

So now the aggressive Babb is right where he wants to be.

"I've been ready for a long time," he sighed. "Now all I've got to do is make the best of it."

Most likely he will. He's a player who only needs a chance to play.

Carlton halts Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Carlton has endured a season of pain. It affected his pitching and his personality. Now the pain is gone. Once again he's pitching and talking like Steve Carlton.

The 30-year-old Carlton pitched so poorly most of this season that one writer described the pitcher who won the Cy Young award three years ago as a mediocre lefthander.

Carlton talked freely about his problems for the first time after beating St. Louis 6-2 Tuesday on a six hitter with seven strikeouts.

"I've been pain free for the last three or four games," said Carlton. "I've been raring back and throwing the ball. I don't have to finese, and it makes a difference."

Carlton's problem started at the end of last season and continued in spring training. He became irritable, telling some writers who wanted to interview him. "I'm not talking this week." It wasn't like Carlton, usually a gracious man. But he was concerned about his career.

Carlton explained that an operation had been considered, but the doctors said there was only a 50 percent chance of full recovery. So the decision was to try therapy.

The Phils needed Carlton, so he continued to pitch. He tried to change his style from power pitcher to finese pitcher.

"That makes a lot of difference," Carlton said, "when you have to resort to another style of pitching that is foreign to you. And even finesing I still had pain. It's been a most frustrating year for me.

Carlton has been taking electric impulse treatments from trainer Don Seger. He's also been lifting weights. He stands in the outfield and tosses a 20 to 30 pound ball back and fourth.

"I'm throwing as good as ever," Carlton said Tuesday after earning his 12th victory against 13 losses. It's a far cry from the 20 plus games the Phillies figured he'd win in their bid for the National League Eastern division championship.

Carlton explained that he has been upset for himself personally and for the team that counted on him.

"We're a better ball club than Pittsburgh and we deserve to be a lot closer, even in first place," Carlton said. "I hope we can salvage something right now."

The win, coupled with a Chicago victory over Pittsburgh, moved the Phils into second place in the NL East, six games behind the Pirates.

The 6-foot-5 Carlton said it's good to be able to be out there and challenge the hitters again.

"It's been aggravating," he said. "I just couldn't throw (normally). I know I hadn't lost anything.'

Carlton said he's been off the electric impulse machine for about three weeks, and hasn't had to soak the elbow in ice over the same period.

The Phillies wrapped up this game in a four-run fifth, and it was Carlton who provided the big hit.

Dave Cash bounced out, but Larry Bowa ripped a single off losing pitcher John Denny's (9-5) bare hand into center, scoring Carlton. Bowa sped home on a double by Garry Maddox.

Carlton said of his big hit, "it looked like Brock started in and than had to go back. It was a fast ball up high and I hit it good."

Carlton was given a couple of insurance runs in the eighth when Schmidt and Ollie Brown hit consecutive home runs over the left field fence. Schmidt's boosted his league leading total to 33, while it was No. 6 for Brown.

Carlton's victory was the first complete game for the Phillies' staff since rookie Tom Underwood lost to Montreal on a three-run ninth inning homer Aug. 2.

St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst was grim after losing the two game series to the Phillies, but commented, "we've got as good a chance as anybody."

KEGLER'S KORNER
By NORA SPRINGS

The bowling season is underway and it seems a few of us are ready--myself not included of course--as we have already in the first week had some real good scores. I must still be thinking softball! I hope everyone is looking forward to having a successful season this year. Not everyone can be a winner but in terms of enjoyment, exercise, and just plain laughs, you just can't beat bowling. Now for the scores:

DELTA IMPERIALETTE'S

Sandy Buchanan set the lanes on fire Tuesday night as she had a big 579 series with a high game of 221. Her husband decided to bowl on a team this year so I guess she wanted to hurry and get the jump on him. Dock's construction had the high team series with a 2944 and Barkett's had the high team game with a 1027. Team scores were: Dye's Seed 4-0, Eagles 4-0, Dock's 3-1, Barkett's 3-1, Frances Beauty Shop 3-1, Quandrant Homes 3-1, Imperial Rest. 1-3, Prudential Ins. 1-3, Hart's Bread 1-3, People's Bank 1-3, Marks Food Mart 0-4, and Sambo's 0-4. Splits: Charlotte McMikle 5-7-9, Joan Killebrew 4-5, Mary Meyer 3-10, Kathie Arnold 5-7, and Deveda Hambra 6-10.

ROYAL KEGLER

We had an unusual thing happen Wednesday night. The whole Ziegenhorn Ins. team had at least a 500 series. That is what you call "bowling". Pat Crabb had a 214-568, Lil Acord had a 520, (way to go Lil) Pearl Moore had a 517, Sandy Buchanan had a 212-540, and last but certainly not least, Jean Lee had a 200 with the high series of the night, a 577. Other 500 series and 200 games were Linda Gipson 547, Mickey Holyfield 536, and Geniece Chaney 561. Team scores: Ryan 0-Ziegenhorn Ins. 4, Scott Huff 1-Holyfield 3, Busch 1-Red Kirby's 3, Brewer O-D&S 4, Penneys 4-Bank of Sikeston 0, Bud Collins Const. 3-First National Bank 1, and CWA 1-Chas. Todd Uniforms 3. Splits: Sally Ahlvin 5-7, Helen Marsh 5-10, Geniece Chaney 5-6, Lynn McPhail 2-7, Sharon Collins 2-7, 3-10, and Judy Sullivan 5-8-10. High team series and high team game went to Ziegenhorn with a 3184 and 1045-1069, and 1070. WOW!

FRIDAY BOWLETTES

Deveda Hamra seems to be picking up where she left off last year as she had the high series Friday with a 536. Lillian Rennier had the other 500 series with a 510. Salon of Beauty had the high team series with a 2889 and high team game with a 1057. Team scores were: Mercers-1-Scotties S&C 3, Bill's Small Engines 3-Alcorn Real Estate 1, National Lock No. 1 3-Sloan's 1, Sikeston IGA 0-National Lock No. 2 4, Caproco 1-Salon of Beauty 3, and Alfred Werber 4-Bank of Sikeston 0.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — VIC Edwards, fired as coach of the World Team Tennis champion Pittsburgh Triangles, has denied a personality clash existed between him and his players.

Owner Frank Fuhrer dismissed Edwards on Tuesday, saying it was "impossible to bring him back and retain harmony on the team."

Edwards, meanwhile, said he was somewhat surprised by the move since he had discussed a contract with Fuhrer the day before.

Fuhr mentioned "certain difficulties," Edwards said in a telephone interview. "But naturally I'm wondering why I'd be put off after having won the WTT championship."

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wayne Croft, seventh-round draft pick from Clemson University, a 6-foot-9, 220-pound forward, has been signed by the Kansas City Kings.

The signing on Tuesday brings the roster to 15 players.

Croft averaged eight points a game in his senior year at Clemson. A native of Bamberg, S.C., he averaged 7.5 rebounds.

Babb gets starting call

Charleston's Charlie Babb is making the most of his chance with the Miami Dolphins this season.

Babb, in his fourth season with the two time Super Bowl champs, was a hero of sorts for the Dolphins against the Bears when he intercepted a pass and returned it 54 yards to spark Miami against Chicago and is finally getting his starting role wish.

"I've been frustrated I guess ever since I've been here," Babb explained. "But considering the success we've had it's been kind of a rewarding frustration."

Yes, a pocketful of playoff checks and a couple of world championship rings have made life tolerable for the leather-tough Babb. But a guy doesn't really feel like a football player unless he plays.

"Here's the way it's worked ever since I've been here," explained Babb, a 6-foot, 190-pounder from Memphis State. "I've backed up Dick Anderson at strong safety and Jake Scott at weak safety."

Simply translated, those remarks mean he didn't play except for specialty-team duty. Anderson and Scott are richly-paid all-pro types.

"I never really asked to be traded," Babb said. "However, (Coach Don) Shula had said that he'd think about trading me after last season. But we never got around to talking about it."

They never got to the talking stage because Anderson and Scott sustained knee injuries late last season.

"There was no way he was going to trade me until he found out if they would be healthy," Babb continued.

So Babb remained close to Miami, spending the off season playing on the Dolphins' basketball team. "We did a lot of running and gunning," Babb said. "And I was the runner and the gunner." Fun, in other words.

Then 10 days ago Anderson went down with another knee injury.

"I knew this was going to be a crucial year for me," Babb said. "But it wasn't the way I wanted to get the job. I didn't want Dick to get hurt. Actually, I was the starter in th game (Minnesota) he got hurt in. We'd been having real good competition for the job all preseason. I migh have been a little ahead at the time."

Now he is the starter at strong safety and the backup at weak safety. He intercepted one pass against Minnesota, then made the big grab Saturday against Chicago.

"The flanker was running a curl pattern and we were in a safety inside zone," Babb said, continuing the telephone interview. "I guess he didn't see me. I came from the middle of the field, cut in front of it (the ball), intercepted it, got a few good blocks, headed down the sidelines and it was six (points). It's still a superb feeling when you do something like that."

Babb now is feeling much more secure about his future with the Dolphins even though he hasn't signed his contract for this season yet.

"The thing that's probably meant the most to me in the pros is my aggressiveness," he said. "That's kept me here. That's what I was taught at Memphis State. Everybody who's ever played defense there gets a good dose of that. That's what they instill in you."

So now the aggressive Babb is right where he wants to be.

"I've been ready for a long time," he sighed. "Now all I've got to do is make the best of it."

Most likely he will. He's a player who only needs a chance to play.

Carlton halts Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Carlton has endured a season of pain. It affected his pitching and his personality. Now the pain is gone. Once again he's pitching and talking like Steve Carlton.

The 30-year-old Carlton pitched so poorly most of this season that one writer described the pitcher who won the Cy Young award three years ago as a mediocre lefthander.

Carlton talked freely about his problems for the first time after beating St. Louis 6-2 Tuesday on a six hitter with seven strikeouts.

"I've been pain free for the last three or four games," said Carlton. "I've been raring back and throwing the ball. I don't have to finese, and it makes a difference."

Carlton's problem started at the end of last season and continued in spring training. He became irritable, telling some writers who wanted to interview him, "I'm not talking this week." It wasn't like Carlton, usually a gracious man. But he was concerned about his career.

Carlton explained that an operation had been considered, but the doctors said there was only a 50 percent chance of full recovery. So the decision was to try therapy.

The Phils needed Carlton, so he continued to pitch. He tried to change his style from power pitcher to finese pitcher.

"That makes a lot of difference," Carlton said, "when you have to resort to another style of pitching that is foreign to you. And even finesing I still had pain. It's been a most frustrating year for me.

Carlton has been taking electric impulse treatments from trainer Don Seger. He's also been lifting weights. He stands in the outfield and tosses a 20 to 30 pound ball back and fourth.

"I'm throwing as good as ever," Carlton said Tuesday after earning his 12th victory against 13 losses. It's a far cry from the 20 plus games the Phillies figured he'd win in their bid for the National League Eastern division championship.

Carlton explained that he has been upset for himself personally and for the team that counted on him.

"We're a better ball club than Pittsburgh and we deserve to be a lot closer, even in first place," Carlton said. "I hope we can salvage something right now."

The win, coupled with a Chicago victory over Pittsburgh, moved the Phils into second place in the NL East, six games behind the Pirates.

The 6-foot-5 Carlton said it's good to be able to be out there and challenge the hitters again.

"It's been aggravating," he said. "I just couldn't throw (normally). I know I hadn't lost anything.'

Carlton said he's been off the electric impulse machine for about three weeks, and hasn't had to soak the elbow in ice over the same period.

The Phillies wrapped up this game in a four-run fifth, and it was Carlton who provided the big hit.

Dave Cash bounced out, but Larry Bowa ripped a single off losing pitcher John Denny's (9-5) bare hand into center, scoring Carlton. Bowa sped home on a double by Garry Maddox.

Carlton said of his big hit, "it looked like Brock started in and than had to go back. It was a fast ball up high and I hit it good."

Carlton was given a couple of insurance runs in the eighth when Schmidt and Ollie Brown hit consecutive home runs over the left field fence. Schmidt's boosted his league leading total to 33, while it was No. 6 for Brown.

Carlton's victory was the first complete game for the Phillies' staff since rookie Tom Underwood lost to Montreal on a three-run ninth inning homer Aug. 2.

St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst was grim after losing the two game series to the Phillies, but commented, "we've got as good a chance as anybody."

Her husband decided to bowl on a team this year so I guess she wanted to hurry and get the jump on him. Dock's construction had the high team series with a 2944 and Barkett's had the high team game with a 1027. Team scores were: Dye's Seed 4-0, Eagles 4-0, Dock's 3-1, Barkett's 3-1, Frances Beauty Shop 3-1, Quandrant Homes 3-1, Imperial Rest. 1-3, Prudential Ins. 1-3, Hart's Bread 1-3, People's Bank 1-3, Marks Food Mart 0-4, and Sambo's 0-4. Splits: Charlotte McMikle 5-7-9, Joan Killebrew 4-5, Mary Meyer 3-10, Kathie Arnold 5-7, and Deveda Hambra 6-10.

ROYAL KEGLER

We had an unusual thing happen Wednesday night. The whole Ziegenhorn Ins. team had at least a 500 series. That is what you call "bowling". Pat Crabb had a 214-568, Lil Acord had a 520, (way to go Lil) Pearl Moore had a 517, Sandy Buchanan had a 212-540, and last but certainly not least, Jean Lee had a 200 with the high series of the night, a 577. Other 500 series and 200 games were Linda Gipson 547, Mickey Holyfield 536, and Geniece Chaney 561. Team scores: Ryan 0-Ziegenhorn Ins. 4, Scott Huff 1-Holyfield 3, Busch 1-Red Kirby's 3, Brewer O-D&S 4, Penneys 4-Bank of Sikeston 0, Bud Collins Const. 3-First National Bank 1, and CWA 1-Chas. Todd Uniforms 3. Splits: Sally Ahlvin 5-7, Helen Marsh 5-10, Geniece Chaney 5-6, Lynn McPhail 2-7, Sharon Collins 2-7, 3-10, and Judy Sullivan 5-8-10. High team series and high team game went to Ziegenhorn with a 3184 and 1045-1069, and 1070. WOW!

FRIDAY BOWLETTES

Deveda Hamra seems to be picking up where she left off last year as she had the high series Friday with a 536. Lillian Rennier had the other 500 series with a 510. Salon of Beauty had the high team series with a 2889 and high team game with a 1057. Team scores were: Mercers 1-Scotties S&C 3, Bill's Small Engines 3-Alcorn Real Estate 1, National Lock No. 1 3-Sloan's 1, Sikeston IGA 0-National Lock No. 2 4, Caproco 1-Salon of Beauty 3, and Alfred Werber 4-Bank of Sikeston 0.

SPORTS

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH (AP) — VIC Edwards, fired as coach of the World Team Tennis champion Pittsburgh Triangles, has denied a personality clash existed between him and his players.

Owner Frank Fuhrer dismissed Edwards on Tuesday, saying it was "impossible to bring him back and retain harmony on the team."

Edwards, meanwhile, said he was somewhat surprised by the move since he had discussed a contract with Fuhrer the day before.

Fuhr mentioned "certain difficulties," Edwards said in a telephone interview. "But naturally I'm wondering why I'd be put off after having won the WTT championship."

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wayne Croft, seventh-round draft pick from Clemson University, a 6-foot-9, 220-pound forward, has been signed by the Kansas City Kings.

The signing on Tuesday brings the roster to 15 players.

SELECTIONS FOR FAMILY-PLEASING MEALS

SAFEWAY

Sometimes it takes real skill to match up family tastes in food with the wherewithal of a limited budget. That's when the large selection of money-saving foods at Safeway can be especially welcome.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1975. There are 112 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1813, an American naval force under Oliver Perry defeated the British in the battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

On this date:

In 1775, 5,000 Acadians were banished from Nova Scotia.

In 1898, Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist in Geneva.

In 1907, the British colony of New Zealand became a dominion.

In 1939, Canada declared war against Germany.

Ten years ago: United Nations Secretary General U Thant held conferences with the disputing sides in the India-Pakistan war.

Five years ago: Vice President Spiro T Agnew denounced the Democratic Congress as reactionary, derelict and dominated by cave-dwelling leftists.

Thought for today: Show me a hero and I will write you a tragedy. — novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1975. There are 112 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1813, an American naval force under Oliver Perry defeated the British in the battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

On this date:

In 1775, 5,000 Acadians were banished from Nova Scotia.

In 1898, Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist in Geneva.

In 1907, the British colony of New Zealand became a dominion.

In 1939, Canada declared war against Germany.

Ten years ago: United Nations Secretary General U Thant held conferences with the disputing sides in the India-Pakistan war.

Five years ago: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew denounced the Democratic Congress as reactionary, derelict and dominated by cave-dwelling leftists.

Thought for today: Show me a hero and I will write you a tragedy. — novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Summer vacations closer to home

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans refused to let inflation cancel summer vacations this year, but they stayed closer to home, spent time in one place rather than traveling around and searched for bargains at hotels and restaurants.

An Associated Press survey of major tourist areas showed the number of visitors in every area was higher than it was in 1974 when the gasoline shortage cut sharply into summer motoring.

There was plenty of gasoline this year. The only problem was figuring out how to pay for the fuel, the lodgings, the food and the sightseeing that make up a vacation.

Michael Frucci, executive secretary of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce said 1975 "was a very good year." He said he expected statistics on over-all resort business to be up 12 per cent from 1974, making this year the best ever.

At the same time, some restaurants reported business was off.

"People are economy minded and are looking for less expensive places to eat or are bringing their own food," said one operator of a hotel with a restaurant. "Even at breakfast time, we found people eating less."

Florida officials said tourism business was up about 10 per cent from 1974. But they said that while the northern part of the state was doing well, the southern part, including Miami, was suffering.

"Tourists have tended to pull in their horns," said Hal Cohen of the Miami Tourist Development Authority. "They're not traveling much more than 300 miles from their homes. This has worked to our disadvantage. North and Central Florida can still draw on tourists from other states."

The Automobile Club of Michigan said a comparison of 1974 and 1975 figures showed routing requests by state residents for Michigan only were up 11.5 per cent for the Upper Peninsula and 44.6 per cent for the Lower Peninsula, indicating people stayed in the state rather than take a long trip elsewhere.

The club said private campgrounds reported people were staying twice as long as they did last year and added that revenues were up for state parks, although no specifics were available.

Bob Uguccioni, a spokesman for the Pocono Mountains Tourist Bureau in Pennsylvania, said the area had 17 per cent more visitors this year than it did in 1974. People waited until the last minute, however, to make their reservations.

"It played havoc on hotel and motel operators who plan with advance reservations," Uguccioni said.

Tourists also spent less.

"Where the big expensive hotels are usually the first to fill up, this year the tourists took the less expensive hotel rooms," Uguccioni said. "Nice, but not the luxury ones."

CAL HAS WOMEN ROWING

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The University of California had its first eight-woman rowing crew this year — a winning one at that.

It defeated crews from UCLA, Santa Clara and Long Beach.

Carol Brandt of San Rafael, Calif., says, "Everyone is proud of this team; no one can believe that in seven or eight months we could be this good."

Calling crew "the toughest sport there is except football," Miss Brandt said 60 women responded to the original call for a woman's crew last October. Twenty survived the rigorous training.

Daig O'Connell, former California varsity crewman, coaches the women. Some of the training included rowing three times a week for two hours, running two miles twice a week and other tough training sessions three times a week.

Expense monitor proposed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A two-step system to monitor expense accounts by members of the Missouri House of Representatives was proposed Tuesday by House Minority Floor Leader Robert O. Snyder.

The Kirkwood Republican said the House Accounts Committee should establish precise and strict guidelines as to the type of expenditures that are allowable, and that two members of the committee, one Republican and one Democrat, should be assigned to examine each monthly expense account for unauthorized expenditurees.

Snyder made his suggestions in a letter to Speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis.

"Questionable items would be referred to the speaker's office for a final determination as to whether or not they should be allowed," Snyder said.

Summer vacations closer to home

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans refused to let inflation cancel summer vacations this year, but they stayed closer to home, spent time in one place rather than traveling around and searched for bargains at hotels and restaurants.

An Associated Press survey of major tourist areas showed the number of visitors in every area was higher than it was in 1974 when the gasoline shortage cut sharply into summer motoring.

There was plenty of gasoline this year. The only problem was figuring out how to pay for the fuel, the lodgings, the food and the sightseeing that make up a vacation.

Michael Frucci, executive secretary of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce said 1975 "was a very good year." He said he expected statistics on over-all resort business to be up 12 per cent from 1974, making this year the best ever.

At the same time, some restaurants reported business was off.

"People are economy minded and are looking for less expensive places to eat or are bringing their own food," said one operator of a hotel with a restaurant. "Even at breakfast time, we found people eating less."

Florida officials said tourism business was up about 10 per cent from 1974. But they said that while the northern part of the state was doing well, the southern part, including Miami, was suffering.

"Tourists have tended to pull in their horns," said Hal Cohen of the Miami Tourist Development Authority. "They're not traveling much more than 300 miles from their homes. This has worked to our disadvantage. North and Central Florida can still draw on tourists from other states."

The Automobile Club of Michigan said a comparison of 1974 and 1975 figures showed routing requests by state residents for Michigan only were up 11.5 per cent for the Upper Peninsula and 44.6 per cent for the Lower Peninsula, indicating people stayed in the state rather than take a long trip elsewhere.

The club said private campgrounds reported people were staying twice as long as they did last year and added that revenues were up for state parks, although no specifics were available.

Bob Uguccioni, a spokesman for the Pocono Mountains Tourist Bureau in Pennsylvania, said the area had 17 per cent more visitors this year than it did in 1974. People waited until the last minute, however, to make their reservations.

"It played havoc on hotel and motel operators who plan with advance reservations," Uguccioni said.

Tourists also spent less.

"Where the big expensive hotels are usually the first to fill up, this year the tourists took the less expensive hotel rooms," Uguccioni said. "Nice, but not the luxury ones."

CAL HAS WOMEN ROWING

It defeated crews from UCLA, Santa Clara and Long Beach.

Carol Brandt of San Rafael, Calif., says, "Everyone is proud of this team; no one can believe that in seven or eight months we could be this good."

Calling crew "the toughest sport there is except football," Miss Brandt said 60 women responded to the original call for a woman's crew last October. Twenty survived the rigorous training.

Daig O'Connell, former California varsity crewman, coaches the women. Some of the training included rowing three times a week for two hours, running two miles twice a week and other tough training sessions three times a week.

The case of the undomesticated wife

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

While his wife Ruby could dish it out, Alvin insisted that she refused to cook it. In fact, he insisted that she not only refused to cook, but she refused to keep their house in order or even sleep with him.

Taking a dim view of wife's undomesticated attitude, Alvin finally sued to end their marriage on the groundsof cruel and inhuman treatment.

"There's nothing more exasperating," he complained to thejudge, "than a wife who can cook and won't, except a wife who can't cook and will. And, as for Ruby, she was a great cook. What's more, she was a marvelous housekeeper. Now, it looks like the Battle of Gettysburg took place in ourliving room."

"If he wanted a combination chef and housekeeper," was wife Ruby's answer, "he should have married one. As for me, I've had it with household work."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE would you grant Alvin a divorce because his wife has become undomesticated?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that where a wife, without legal justification, refuses to cook meals, keep the marital home order and refuses to cohabit with her husband, such conduct may entitle her husband to divorce. In this case, concluded the judge, the evidence indicated that Ruby's conduct was unjustified.

Miss Jean Crouthers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Crouthers, who has been employed at Memphis, Tenn., will leave Sunday for Oxford, Miss., where she will enroll as a sophomore at the University of Mississippi.

Richard (Dick) Vaughn, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughn, left the first part of the week to enroll as a freshman at the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla.

The State Farm Insurance companies take pleasure in announcing the appointment of C. B. "Cliff" Morris, representative in Sikeston.

Apple a Day?

National spending on health care leaped from $80 to $395 per person over the last two decades. It is projected to reach $755 by 1980. Spurring the rise: Major medical advances requiring new, expensive facilities, increased in-hospital care and price jumps which outstripped the rising costs of consumer items. The annual rate of increase for health products and services was 3.9 per cent in the early 1950s; by the early 1970s, it had reached 6.5 per cent, the Conference Board reports.

Maid of Cotton search begins

MEMPHIS — The search for the 1976 Maid of Cotton has officially begun, the National Cotton Council announced today.

Winner of the 1976 competition, scheduled here Dec. 29-30, will succeed Kathryn Tenkhoff of Sikeston, Mo., as ambassadress for the American cotton industry.

Now in its 38th year, the selection is open to young women between 19 and 23 who were born in a cotton-producing state or who have maintained legal residence in the Cotton Belt since age 7 or earlier. Applicants also must be at least 5 feet 5 inches tall an never have been married.

The new Maid will emphasize cotton's role in the nation's development druing a Bicentennial domestic tour and will participate in cotton promotions in Canada and the Far East. The Bicentennial theme also will be emphasized during her appearances at Rotary Clubs in major metropolitan cities throughout the United States.

Following completion of her international tour next summer, the 1976 Maid will return here to receive a new automobile as a gift from dealers in the five-state Memphis Ford District.

Application forms for entering the selection may be obtained from the National Cotton Council, 1918 N. Parkway, Memphis, Tenn. 38112. The deadline for submitting completed applications and required photographs is Nov. 30.

Our "Foreign" Policy

By ROBERT M. BARTELL

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Liberty Lobby News Service)—As more and more global real estate is commandeered by the communists, more and more attention is being given to our foreign policy.

A recent editorial in the Santa Ana, Calif. Register examined our foreign policy in this light: "If one deliberately set out to formulate a policy calculated to bankrupt and destroy the economy of a nation, one would be hard put to surpass the policy of foreign intervention followed by our government beginning with Franklin D. Roosevelt. As a result, we have been involved in one war after another, never seeming to be able to completely disengage, militarily or economically, after hostilities have ended.

"We intervened in other people's squabbles in both Europe and the Far East during World War II and to this very day we still have troops in both Europe and Asia, as well as countless other far-flung outposts around the world. Korea, with its so-called police action, was a repeat of the same old story. The war ended, but troops remain there to this day, along with the economic drain of maintaining them there.

"Then came Vietnam, which started with a few military advisors and escalated to a full scale and bloody war. Sick unto death of politically generated wars, disgusted and appalled at the drain of human life and resources, the American people finally rebelled. Crossing party lines and ideological persuasions, they demanded that the U.S. government end the carnage, disengage, bring the troops home and abolish the draft. And, for a while, it appeared the government was listening.

"But, while our government was disengaging in Viet nam, steps were being taken to insure that we will always have another war in reserve, just in case peace might be approaching too near. Never was the hypocrisy of politicans made more evident than by the fact that the very same doves, who demanded withdrawal from Vietnam are becoming more hawkish with every passing day in their enthusiasm for intervention in the Mideast.

"If the peoples of Israel and the Arab states are so foolish as to permit their governments to involve them in bloody conflicts, let them. We know of no policy better calculated to finish wrecking the economy of the Soviets and to complete the job of bringing world communism to its knees, just as our own government's policy of intervention has almost succeeded in wrecking our nation."

Reader's Digest sweepstakes must abide by state lottery law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Reader's Digest Association, Inc., must abide by state law prohibiting lotteries when conducting postal sweepstakes contests in Missouri. the state Supreme Court said Monday.

In a unanimous decision overturning a Jackson County Circuit Court ruling, the high court said Reader's Digest must do more than just comply with federal postal laws regarding lotteries when conducting sweepstakes mailings in the state.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth had sought to prevent the mailed sweepstakes activities of Reader's Digest Association, Inc., which conducted its "Ninth Annual $400,000 Sweepstakes" in late 1970 and early 1971. Danforth had asked that the firm be fined and ousted from transacting business in the state.

But Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Lewis W. Clymer dismissed Danforth's suit and held that the state's laws prohibiting lotteries conflict with the portion of the U.S. Constitution which delegates certain powers to the U.S. Postal Service. Judge Clymer decided that Reader's Digest was subject only to the Federal Lottery Statutes and regulations of the Postal Service. Danforth appealed.

In overtuning the lower court decision, the Supreme Court cited a nearly identical case in the state of Washington, in which Reader's Digest was prvented from conducting mailed lotteries because they violated that state's consumer protection laws.

The court said Reader's Digest should strike the names of Missourians from the firm's mailing list and added that "such a task would not be difficult in this age of computers."

The court did not attempt to decide whether the company's sweepstakes was a lottery, but only that Reader's Digest must abide by the state's anti-lottery laws.

The court said that ordering the firm to refrain from mailings in Missouri would not affect the U.S. Postal Service's operations since "there would

Bicentennial play

Dark corner of history

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — There's a dark corner of Wallingford history that some townspeople don't like to talk about, much less celebrate in an official bicentennial musical comedy.

But it appears the show will go on, despite criticisms that a 19th Century free-love commune is not a fitting subject for a Bicentennial play.

"From what I've heard, it sounds kind of neat," said the Rev. Michael Jackson, associate pastor of the First Congregational Church, which 200 years ago excommunicated a respected member for embracing the commune.

The play, written by 19-year-old college student James Beloff of Meriden, portrays the church's opposition to the Wallingford Community, a branch of the Oneida, N.Y. commune. What so shocked the church and the town was the commune's rejection of the conventional husband-wife relationship. Instead, members were part of a "complex" marriage in which members couldmake love to others in the group. They also believed in breeding the "best" males with the "best" females.

Sexual conduct of this sort is still light years ahead of Wallingford's population in 1975, but most residents appear ready at least to see a play that goes beyond George Washington and the Stars and Stripes. The play, "Two Sides of Heaven," will be presented Sept. 12-14.

At its peak, the commune had 80 members in 1876 and sustained itself through a printing business and light manufacturing. It was considered industrious but none-the-less heretical.

The commune died out in the 1880s, partly from economics and partly because of a malaria attack.

Bicentennial Commission chairman Robert Billings, himself a Congregationalist, says the Oneidas deserve recognition as one of the few high points in Wallingford's past.

"To my mind, it was one of the few interesting things to ever happen in Wallingford. This is an ordinary town, let's face it," Billings said.

So far the majority of the commission supports the play, for which it paid Beloff $1,500 to produce.

The church's tie-in to the play has irked some citizens, who take exception to a congregation singing: "We've got a week's worth of sinnin' to wash out of the linen."

St. Francis Hospital accredited

CAPE GIRARDEAU - St. Francis Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) according to John Keusenkothen, associate administrator.

This accreditation, which covers from September 1975-September 1977, is the result of an on site survey made by field representatives of the joint commissions's hospital accreditation program. Accreditation indicates that this facility has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has, in the main, met these standards.

The standards, published as the Accreditation Manual for Hospitals, set forth optimal achievable goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Joint Commission's survey.

St. Francis Hospital is one of approximately 5,300 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7,400 hospitals in the U.S. The joint commission's accreditation surveys are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a hosptial to be accreditied, but health care facilities have sought accreditation because it represents a benchmark of quality that is higher than governmental licensure along.

The chief aim of the hospital accreditation program, one of four such programs under the JCAH umbrella, is to help hospitals in their pursuit of excellence and thereby provide a higher quality of care to patients. The program also seeks to recognize and to identify for the public those facilities which meet its standards.

The joint commission began in 1918 under the auspices of the American College of Surgeons. It was incorporated in 1951 with the support of its present member organizations: the American College of Surgeons, American College of Physicians, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association.

JCAH is a Chicago based, non-governmental, not- for- profit organization. In additon to hospitals, it has programs for the accreditation of long-term care facilities, psychiartic facilities and facilities for the mentally retarded.

Officials to decide on cyclamates ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials plan to decide in January whether to lift the controversial ban on the use of cyclamates as an artificial sweetener.

Th decision will be an effort to end arguments spanning the last six years on whether there is a link between cyclamates and cancer in rats.

If scientists fail to establish a link, Food and Drug Administration officials say cyclamates could be used commercially in diet soft drinks and food next year.

It would take at least four months after the FDA decision to meet requirements for public comment and publication, so cyclamates would not likely appear on grocery shelves before the middle of next year.

Meanwhile, as scientists weigh new cyclamate research along with that which generated the ban in 1969, they are studying similar research which suggests a link between cancer in rats and the other major artificial sweetener, saccharine.

The FDA decision on whether to ban saccharine, the principal replacement for cyclamates in diet products, is not expected by FDA officials before 1977.

The FDA's decisions on the artificial sweeteners depend on research with animals fed extremely high doses of the chemicals — the equivalent of more than 1,000 diet soft drinks a day for a human being. These studies are being examined under rigorous standards by scientists inside and outside the FDA.

FDA officials now say high-level Nixon administration officials rushed through the cyclamate ban in 1969 without allowing normal scrutiny of supporting research.

The debate over FDA standards and procedures concerns not only bureaucrats and scientists: production of low-calorie foods and diet soft drinks is a billion-dollar-a-year industry.

An estimated 12 million Americans drink diet sodas each day, and millions of others eat diet foods sweetened with saccharine.

Saccharine, which is 300 times sweeter than sugar, has been in use since 1879, and cyclamates — 30 times sweeter than sugar — have been used since 1944. Both have been subjecs of research for years.

The cyclamates decision awaits findings of a scientific panel working under auspices of the National Cancer Institute and reviewing all research on cyclamates and cancer in animals.

FDA officials say privately the panel's decision, due in January, will be adopted by FDA.

If the panel fails to reach a conclusion, the FDA still will make a decision, FDA sources say.

St. Francis Hospital accredited

CAPE GIRARDEAU - St. Francis Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) according to John Keusenkothen, associate administrator.

This accreditation, which covers from September 1975-September 1977, is the result of an on site survey made by field representatives of the joint commissions's hospital accreditation program. Accreditation indicates that this facility has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has, in the main, met these standards.

The standards, published as the Accreditation Manual for Hospitals, set forth optimal achievable goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Joint Commission's survey.

St. Francis Hospital is one of approximately 5,300 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7,400 hospitals in the U. S. The joint commission's accreditation surveys are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a hosptial to be accreditied, but health care facilities have sought accreditation because it represents a benchmark of quality that is higher than governmental licensure along.

The chief aim of the hospital accreditation program, one of four such programs under the JCAH umbrella, is to help hospitals in their pursuit of excellence and thereby provide a higher quality of care to patients. The program also seeks to recognize and to identify for the public those facilities which meet its standards.

The joint commission began in 1918 under the auspices of the American College of Surgeons. It was incorporated in 1951 with the support of its present member organizations: the American College of Surgeons, American College of Physicians, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association.

JCAH is a Chicago based, non-governmental, not- for- profit organization. In additon to hospitals, it has programs for the accreditation of long-term care facilities, psychiartic facilities and facilities for the mentally retarded.

Officials to decide on cyclamates ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials plan to decide in January whether to lift the controversial ban on the use of cyclamates as an artificial sweetener.

Th decision will be an effort to end arguments spanning the last six years on whether there is a link between cyclamates and cancer in rats.

If scientists fail to establish a link, Food and Drug Administration officials say cyclamates could be used commercially in diet soft drinks and food next year.

It would take at least four months after the FDA decision to meet requirements for public comment and publication, so cyclamates would not likely appear on grocery shelves before the middle of next year.

Meanwhile, as scientists weigh new cyclamate research along with that which generated the ban in 1969, they are studying similar research which suggests a link between cancer in rats and the other major artificial sweetener, saccharine.

The FDA decision on whether to ban saccharine, the principal replacement for cyclamates in diet products, is not expected by FDA officials before 1977.

The FDA's decisions on the artificial sweeteners depend on research with animals fed extremely high doses of the chemicals — the equivalent of more than 1,000 diet soft drinks a day for a human being. These studies are being examined under rigorous standards by scientists inside and outside the FDA.

FDA officials now say high-level Nixon administration officials rushed through the cyclamate ban in 1969 without allowing normal scrutiny of supporting research.

The debate over FDA standards and procedures concerns not only bureaucrats and scientists: production of low-calorie foods and diet soft drinks is a billion-dollar-a-year industry.

An estimated 12 million Americans drink diet sodas each day, and millions of others eat diet foods sweetened with saccharine.

Saccharine, which is 300 times sweeter than sugar, has been in use since 1879, and cyclamates — 30 times sweeter than sugar — have been used since 1944. Both have been subjecs of research for years.

The cyclamates decision awaits findings of a scientific panel working under auspices of the National Cancer Institute and reviewing all research on cyclamates and cancer in animals.

FDA officials say privately the panel's decision, due in January, will be adopted by FDA.

If the panel fails to reach a conclusion, the FDA still will make a decision, FDA sources say.

Freight rate increase okayed

JEFFERSON CITY — An increase in general freight rates for truck shipments within Missouri has been approved by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The increase, which went go into effect Aug. 20, is equal to recent adjustments in rates for interstate shipments approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. There are about 140 general commodities carriers that are authorized to make intrastate hauls in Missouri.

The Public Service Commission approved an increase of 6.5 per cent in rates for shipments of less than 5,000 pounds and the same increase for service charges. An increase of 4.5 per cent was authorized for shipments weighing more than 5,000 pounds.

The carriers had submitted evidence showing that the composite operating ratio (expenses compared to revenues) for 13 representative companies was 99.6 per cent during the first quarter of 1975, compared to 94.5 per cent for the same period last year. The commission staff, using a composite of 29 carriers.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Karl R. Von Kessel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Von Kessel of 414 Davidson, Chaffee, Mo., is among the more than 1,300 cadets who have entered their freshman year at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Cadet Von Kessel was accepted into the cadet wing after completing six weeks of intensive field training, physical conditioning and survival instruction.

He now begins four years of academic study and military training that will lead to a bachelor of science degree and a commission as a second lieutenant.

Cadet Von Kessel is a 1975 graduate of Chaffee High School.

Calvin Irions

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Calvin Irions, son of Mrs. Corine Irions of Lilbourn, Mo., has been selected for technical training in the U.S. Air Force munitions and weapons maintenance field at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Colo.

The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, is a 1975 graduate of Lilbourn High School.

Richard Nixon

"In my view, this principle of confidentiality, which I realize is not in vogue these days in many quarters, is indispensable for making great decisions. There would have been no opening to China without total, absolute secrecy and confidentiality . . . because any leak would have destroyed the fragile framework that we had built up."

——Former President Richard Nixon in a deposition before the U.S. District Court.

"You say you're Jewish but essentially, your faith is put into education, culture, the League of Women Voters, mental health. It was the educated, enlightened, American way. A minority of the Jewish community now suddenly says to itself, "If American culture is becoming substantially amoral, I've got to distance myself slightly. Values come from religion, not culture."

——Rabbi Eugene B. Borowitz, editor of Sh'ma magazine on why Judaism may be evaporating in America.

"Among the many queer things about the American economy is this. A writer can get more money for bungling a speech at a bankrupt college than he can for a short story masterpiece."

——Author Kurt Vonnegut Jr. at a writers' conference in Missoula, Mont.

"Mrs. Gandhi's got courage, I'll sav that for her. But it's a gambler's courage, not the cool and informed courage of someone who reasons and makes a choice in full awareness of the risk involved.

She has strength, too, but is it arrogance rather than true strength?"

——Moraji Desai, 80-year old ex-deputy prime minister to Mahatma Gandhi on India's current ruler.

Kitchens different in colonial days

Much of the activity in colonial homes evolved around the kitchen, where the housekeeper did not know or have available the many conveniences of the 1970s.

Family members had to spend many hours in preparation of the food, which required use of a fireplace. The same fireplace that was used to cook the food, was usually also used to heat the house.

In colonial days, few cookbooks were available for handy reference and the housewife or housekeeper had to learn the skills and art of cooking from relatives. Recipes from colonial days may have sounded funny because of German spellings or because quantities related to the size of walnuts or eggs instead of to tablespoons and measuring cups.

The village general store was the primary source of staples such as flour, sugar and spices. While sugar was a special luxury, molasses was popular, especially in the northern colonies. Barrels of fish -- salted, smoked or brined -- were popular in some areas. Meat was purchased from a butcher or obtained when the men of the household completed a successful hunting trip for venison, wild turkey, rabbits, squirrels or ducks.

For fruits and vegetables, the family either grew them or purchased them at a farmer's market. Hot houses provided some well-to-do families with fresh vegetabls throughout the year. Familiar vegetables were corn, potatoes, turnips, peas, beans, spinach, lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, parsleyand other greens. Apples, peaches, apricots, plums and strawberries were some of the familiar fruits.

Milk posed a special problem. It could be purchased by the pail or obtained from the family's cow. Milk bottles, pasteurization and refrigeration were yet to be introduced so spoilage was high.

Winter months were especially difficult times. Ice boxes were not in use and canning was not yet invented. Fresh foods were usually prepared as they were needed. Salting, smoking, pickling and drying were the chief means of preservation, although some homes had cold cellars to store perishable foods.

Colonial women not only had to worry about preparing the food over a blazing fire or hot coals, they also had to find some method to preserve enough to last them through the winter months.

Economical recipes will be featured

With today's rising costs, women, men and youth are being forced back into the kitchen as an economy step.

Susan Huett and Clara Fowler of Progressive Farmer's Southern Kitchens Cooking Schools are making a living demonstrating to homemakers how to make the best of the situation.

The two home economists will bring their special time saving and money-saving tips to Sikeston when they present their two-hour cooking demonstration at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Sikeston High School Field House.

The girl's duties with the program are quite varied. They have the responsibility of going into designated towns throughout the South finding co-sponsors for the Cooking school. The Sikeston program is being co-sponsored by The Daily Standard.

In presentations of these shows, Miss Huett and Mrs. Fowler have specific titles. As home economist, Clara conducts the actual cooking demonstration. On the day of the school she is busy preparing the recipes to be demonstrated. Clara has attended classes in all types of cooking and therefore has some great ideas and tempting recipes to share.

While Clara is in the kitchen, Susan, who is program director, is setting up a model kitchen for the cooking school. Since the foods are actually prepared and cooked on stage, Susan's job involves seeing that the appliances are set up correctly, setting up the public address system and putting together backdrops and mirrors to give a warm effect. During the demonstration, Susan is backstage working with assistants to make sure the program is running smoothly.

Area residents will have an opportunity to meet and talk with both these women Thursday night at the cooking school.

Area merchants have been helping with arrangements for the cooking demonstration by providing us of their appliances. donation food and dairy products and door prizes. All food for the school is being donated by Barkett's Big Star. Appliances are bieng donated by P.J. Supply Co., range unit with convertible microwave-regular oven; Lewis and Kingsway Furniture, microwave oven; Coffey Appliance, microwave oven; and Otasco, refrigerator. Turner Dairy will be providing the dairy products to be used that evening.

Each person attending will be eligible for a free door prize and will receive a free bag of pamphlets and good recipe ideas, including a free small recipe book of recipes used in the Southern Kitchen's Cooking School.

An example of recipes included in the cookbook are swiss fondue, holiday dip, apple goblets, Italian dessert coffee, party-perfect punch, quick sticky buns, crumb coffee cake, frosted salad bowl, apple harvest salad, vichyssoise, barbecued ribs, stuffed chicken breasts, three-foot hero, beef bourguignon, pecan dressing, barbecue marinade, applesauce, tangy apples, sugarless lace wafers, chewy fingers, brandy fruit balls, and many others.

Ninth-century Arabian manuscripts contain the oldest known reference to coffee. Over the next thousand years, coffee enjoyment spread to every corner of the globe.

With the introduction in 1938 of Nescafe - first of the modern instant coffees - coffee-making entered the 20th century. This quick and simple preparation of one of man's favorite drinks has now been enhanced by a more advanced instant coffee. A unique new process forms rich, granular particles to make Natural Flavor Nescafe. It resembles fresh ground coffee and – for the first time – permits coffee lovers to brew a savory instant as strong as desired without bitterness.

Come one! Come all!

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Have fun learning new recipes and quick-economical ways of spending that necessary time in the kitchen by attending the Southern Kitchen's Cooking School Thursday night. The two-hour fun-filled demonstration will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Sikeston High School Field House. We at The Daily Standard are proud to be able to bring to Sikeston such a program.

This special tabloid edition was prepared to present some information about the school and at the same time provide homemakers with some scrumptous recipes and cooking hints.

The Daily Standard issues a special thanks to all those helping with the school by providing appliances, food and door prizes, or by advertising in this section.

Make fresh fruit handy all year

There's hardly anyone who doesn't like some kind of fresh fruit. And how nice that is too, since it's one of the healthiest foods around. Serving fresh fruit is a great way to make sure you finicky eaters get their vitamins!

So, right now, when fresh fruit is most plentiful and least expensive, homemakers might want to give some thought to preserving those apples, pears and peaches for the winter months ahead.

There's nothing complicated about canning or freezing fruit and the rewards are well worth it. Just think of serving a luscious fruit salad in midwinter and not having to pat a fortune for it. And, besides basic fruit salad, preserved fruit can be turned into any number of tempting dishes.

:In addition to some fruit and a few hours time, there's just one more basic item needed for preserving. It's a product called Fruit Fresh.

Fruit Fresh has a special ingredient that locks in freshness and flavor and prevents fruit from turning brown and mushy.

Here's one mouth-watering dessert made with apricots which have been preserved with Fruit Fresh. It's fancy enough for company but easy enough to make often.

APRICOT MOUSSE

1 tsp unflavored gelatin
¼ cup water
12 preserved apricots
Juice of 1 lemon
½ cup sugar
2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream whipped

Soak gelatin in water for five minutes. Put over low heat and stir until dissolved.

Combine gelatin, apricots, lemon juice and sugar in a blender. Whirl until smooth Freeze until mushy.

Heavy fashion? You bet! But heavy bottoms? Never! Footworks' big bottom shoes have a happy way of feeling light on your feet . . . so you can stomp in them all day and still swing all night!

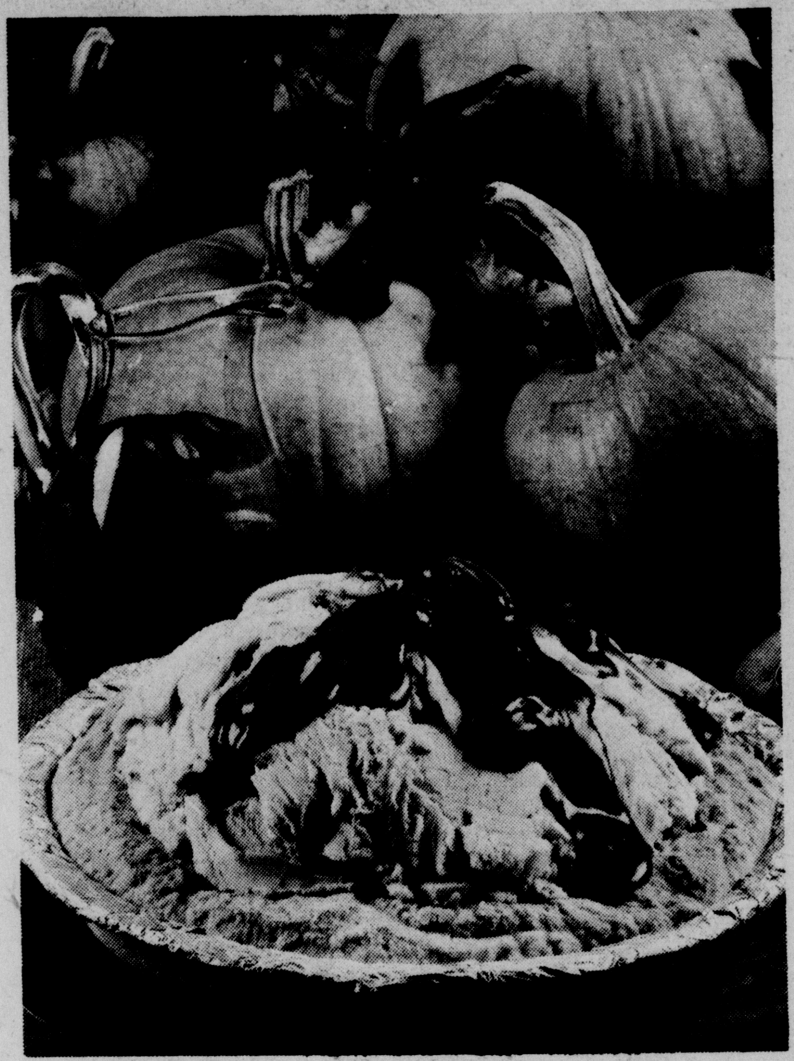
Nutty pumpkin pie is great freeze-ahead dessert



Nutty pumpkin pie

A masterpiece for dessert can always be counted on to give a grand finale to the holiday meal. Tuck away this kind of entertaining insurance in the freezer for the holiday season.

Pumpkin pie is a must when putting together several types of freezer do-aheads. Nutty Pumpkin Pie is a special offering with a fresh approach to having the traditional flavor but in a different form. The pumpkin becomes a kind of "crust." A favorite ice cream -- butter pecan -- makes the filling.

Store this delicious assembly of good flavors away in heavy duty Reynolds Wrap for that unexpected but very important compny. The pie needs only five minutes to thaw for serving, a very speedy freezer-to-table dessert. At serving time, the rich creamy nut topping can add the final touch.

NUTTY PUMPKIN PIE

1 can (16oz.) pumpkin
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ tea salt
¼ tea cinnamon
½ tea. nutmeg
¼ tea ginger
1 Carton (4½ oz.) non-dairy whipped topping
1 quart butter pecan ice cream

TOPPING

1 cup evaporated milk
2 tbs butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 tbs light corn syrup
½ cup pecan halves

Line a nine-inch pie plate with a 32-inch length of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap, centering foil in pie plate. Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Add non-dairy whipped topping and stir until well mixed. Spoon pumpkin mixture into lined pie plate, shaping as a pie crust. Bring foil up and close carefully over "crust." Place pie in freezer 2 hours or until frozen.

TOPPING

Combine evaporated milk, butter, sugar and corn syrup in heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add pecan halves. Let sauce cool to room temperature. Serve over frozen pumpkin pie.

Start the day with a nourishing breakfast

It's back to school days. . . work days. . . days that should begin with a nourishing breakfast. The first meal of the day should provide about 25 per cent of the daily food intake, enough to carry you through to noontime.

A fitting breakfast food is eggs: little compact containers of high-quality protein, vitamins and minerals. And, an "eggs-cellent" way to serve them is Western-Style Campbelled Eggs. Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup turns eggs into a tempting recipe no sleepyhead can resist. Whole kernel corn and green pepper strips are eye-opening additions. A sunny sprinkling of Cheddar cheese is the crowning glory.

Western-Style Campelled Eggs is the "Better Breakfast Booster" (and not a bad booster for brunch or lunch, either!).

WESTERN-STYLE CAMPBELLED EGGS

½ cup green pepper strips
2 tbs butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
8 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup cooked whole kernel corn
⅛ tsp hot pepper sauce
Shredded chedddr cheese

In 10-inch skillet, cook green pepper in butter until tender. In bowl, stir soup until smooth; gradually blend in eggs, corn, and hot pepper sauce. Pour into skillet. Cook over low heat; do not stir.

As mixture begins to set around edges, gently lift cooked portions with spatula so that thin, uncooked portion can flow to the bottom. Continue gently lifting cooked portions until eggs are completely set, but still moist (about 8 minutes). Garnish with cheese.

Makes 4 servings.

Nutty pumpkin pie is great freeze-ahead dessert

A masterpiece for dessert can always be counted on to give a grand finale to the holiday meal. Tuck away this kind of entertaining insurance in the freezer for the holiday season.

Pumpkin pie is a must when putting together several types of freezer do-aheads. Nutty Pumpkin Pie is a special offering with a fresh approach to having the traditional flavor but in a different form. The pumpkin becomes a kind of "crust." A favorite ice cream -- butter pecan -- makes the filling.

Store this delicious assembly of good flavors away in heavy duty Reynolds Wrap for that unexpected but very important compny. The pie needs only five minutes to thaw for serving, a very speedy freezer-to-table dessert. At serving time, the rich creamy nut topping can add the final touch.

NUTTY PUMPKIN PIE

1 can (16oz.) pumpkin
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ tea salt
¼ tea cinnamon
½ tea. nutmeg
¼ tea ginger
1 Carton (4½ oz.) non-dairy whipped topping
1 quart butter pecan ice cream

TOPPING

1 cup evaporated milk
2 tbs butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 tbs light corn syrup
½ cup pecan halves

Line a nine-inch pie plate with a 32-inch length of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap, centering foil in pie plate. Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Add non-dairy whipped topping and stir until well mixed. Spoon pumpkin mixture into lined pie plate, shaping as a pie crust. Bring foil up and close carefully over "crust." Place pie in freezer 2 hours or until frozen.

TOPPING

Combine evaporated milk, butter, sugar and corn syrup in heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add pecan halves. Let sauce cool to room temperature. Serve over frozen pumpkin pie.

Start the day with a nourishing breakfast

It's back to school days. . . work days. . . days that should begin with a nourishing breakfast. The first meal of the day should provide about 25 per cent of the daily food intake, enough to carry you through to noontime.

A fitting breakfast food is eggs: little compact containers of high-quality protein, vitamins and minerals. And, an "eggs-cellent" way to serve them is Western-Style Campbelled Eggs. Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup turns eggs into a tempting recipe no sleepyhead can resist. Whole kernel corn and green pepper strips are eye-opening additions. A sunny sprinkling of Cheddar cheese is the crowning glory.

WESTERN-STYLE CAMPBELLED EGGS

½ cup green pepper strips
2 tbs butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
8 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup cooked whole kernel corn
⅛ tsp hot pepper sauce
Shredded chedddr cheese

In 10-inch skillet, cook green pepper in butter until tender. In bowl, stir soup until smooth; gradually blend in eggs, corn, and hot pepper sauce. Pour into skillet. Cook over low heat; do not stir.

As mixture begins to set around edges, gently lift cooked portions with spatula so that thin, uncooked portion can flow to the bottom. Continue gently lifting cooked portions until eggs are completely set, but still moist (about 8 minutes). Garnish with cheese.

Relaxed hosts a necessity

As home entertaining continues to become more and more popular, the American home has rapidly become a real social center for both formal and informal get-togethers. Essential to any successful social gathering is a comfortable, relaxed host or hostess who feels free to mingle and enjoy the festivities just as much as the guests do.

The first consideration should be the type of party desired, such as a quiet evening of good conversation, or a dining and dancing gala. Whatever party theme is chosen remember that a warm, relaxed atmosphere is always important.

Decorations can help establish the theme, whether the celebration is for a birthday, team victory, holiday, or whatever. Imagination and ingenuity in decorating will keep cost to a minimum.

Once a party theme is selected, give careful attention to the guest list. After all, guests are a very important ingredient. If the party's purpose is a neighborhood get-together, for example, make sure people who are good mixers, good conversationalists and equally as important, some good listeners are invited.

Choose a menu that requires a minimum of "kitchen" time. For dinner parties, consider casseroles and Italian main dishes that are delicious, yet can be prepared a few days in advance and frozen. Then all the hostess needs to do the evening of the party is reheat and toss a crisp salad at the last minute.

Beef, seafood and cheese fondues are delightful main-dish alternatives and also easy to prepare. Just assemble the raw materials and let the guests do the rest!

Selecting a domestic white and a domestic red wine, will keep expenses down while, at the same time, providing a delicious beverage for guests. If champagne is served for that very special occasion, it should be chilled to between 40 and 50 degrees. Red wines should be served at "room temperature" while rose and white wines should be served between 50 and 55 degrees.

A tasty fruit punch is another tasty alternative. Remember to have a plentiful supply of ice--either made in advance and stored in the freezer in plastic bags, or purchased in party quantities.

If there are gaps in the glassware, why not get an assortment of the silver-finish plastic glasses available in many stores. They are inexpensive, reusable and disposable. And if someone drops one, they generally won't shatter on the floor like glass.

While still on the subject of beverages, the traffic pattern of a party is a vital consideration. To prevent bottlenecks, keep the bar separated from the food preparation and service area. And the bartender will certainly appreciate a roll of paper towels near the bar for drying hands as well as for quick wipe-ups.

If candles are chosen as a table decoration and some wax spills on the tablecloth, don't repair. Carefully scrape the wax with a dull knife. Then, place the stained area between several layers of white facila tissues (like Scotties) or white paper towels, and press with a warm iron. Launder the tablecloth in the usual way.

But, most important when giving a party, allow enough time to indulge yourself. Take care of shopping and housecleaning chores before the day of the party. Spend the morning on finishing touches, ahead-of-time food preparation, and last-minute decorating.

If time permits, a short nap will restore energy for the evening. And relax. After all, it's your party--and you've got the right to enjoy every minute of it.

Viva napkins can add a touch of color, variety and convenience throughout the evening. Lively decorated Viva napkins are great for hors d'oeuvres and beverages and the rich solid color Viva napkins make pretty mates for dinner and dessert.

Yams and pork are natural go togethers

When the pork and cooked yams are basted with a tasty sauce and baked together, or when the yams are turned into butterscotch sweets or yam casserole, roast loin of pork and yams are a delicious team.

LOIN OF PORK WITH YAMS

1 (3 to 5-pound) center cut pork loin
1 cup Karo dark corn syrup
2 tbs grated orange rind
1½ cup orange juice
1 tsp soy sauce
4 to 6 cooked pared yams, cut in serving pieces

Place roast in large shallow roasting pan. Roast in 325 degree F. oven until internal temperature reaches 185 degrees F., between 1½ to 3 hours or until pork is done. (Allow about 40 minutes per pound.)

Makes 6 to 10 servings.

BUTTERSCOTCH SWEETS

6 medium sweet potatoes or yams, cooked, pared and halved
3 tbs margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
¾ tsp salt
One third cup Karo dark corn syrup
¼ cup light cream or undiluted evaporated milk

Meanwhile, mix together margarine, sugar, salt, corn syrup and light cream in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to full boil. Pour over sweet potatoes.

Heat in 450 F. (very hot(oven 5 minutes, basting once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

YAM CASSEROLE

2 cups cooked, mashed yams (about 1½ pounds)
¼ cup margarine, melted
¼ cup Karo light or dark corn syrup
¼ cup orange juice
2 tbs milk
¼ tsp salt
¼ tsp nutmeg
Marshmallows (optional)

Mix together yams, margarine, corn syrup, orange juice, milk, salt and nutmeg; mix well. Spoon into a greased one-quart casserole. Arrange marshmallows on top, if desired.

Bake in 375 F. (moderate) oven 25 to 30 minutes or until bubbly and the marshmallows, if used, are lightly browned. Makes about 6 servings.

Cut food costs by preserving fruit

What with food prices on the rise, every housewife is on the lookout for some money saving suggestions.

Canning or freezing favorite fruits is not difficult. In fact, it takes just a few hours to preserve and store enough fruit for a wide variety of taste-pleasing salads and desserts.

The trick, of course, is to stock up on fruit now when it's least expensive, so that when winter rolls around you'll be able to serve fresh fruit dishes at just a fraction of the off-season prices.

Whether you choose the canning or freezing method, you'll want to be sure that your fruit stays as fresh and delicious as possible. For this, just add a handy little product called Fruit Fresh to your canning syrup or dry sugar pack. Fruit Fresh has a special ingredient that locks in freshness and flavor and keeps fruit from turning brown and mush.

Fruit Fresh is easy to use. For instance, as the fruit is sliced and peeled, put it directly into a Fruit Fresh solution (3 tbs. to 2 qts. of water). This will prevent browning or discoloring that occurs when fruit is exposed to air. Since the fresh, natural flavor of fruit is lost when it browns, Fruit Fresh actually helps preserve flavor by preventing browning.

But here's a dessert you might want to try later on with peaches that you have preserved with Fruit Fresh:

SUNBURST TARTS

2 cups soft custard, chilled
1 tbsp. sugar
2 cups sliced preserved peaches

Prepare piecrust according to directions on package. Roll out 1/8 inch thick on a lightly floured board. Cut and fit into tart pans and prick. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees about 10 minutes. Cool. Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

Burger dish economical and quick

In these days of a difficult economy, every cook demands more of each recipe than ever before.Each must call for a relatively inexpensive list of foods. The recipe must cook quickly since everyone is busy and must be simply delicious.

Ground beef is usually a good buy and the wise shopper watches the sales so she can buy it in quantity at her supermarket. Then she freezes it in recipe-size portions so that she can fill a family request quickly and easily.

Usually, it takes about two pounds of ground beef to make five or six servings for a hungry family. If the cook uses a recipe calling for 3-Minute Brand Oats, the amount of ground beef can be cut to about a pound and one-half. Oats make a flavor and texture addition while "extending" beef in the recipe.

As far as speed is concerned, the very name of this beef recipe, Speedy Burger Skillet, tells the story. In about half an hour, this main dish is ready to be served with a simple salad. The cook can start the recipe in late afternoon, then set the table and toss the salad while the beef is simmering.

SPEEDY BURGER SKILLET

1½ lbs. ground beef
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup 3-Minute Brand Oats
2 tsp salt
¼ tsp pepper
8-oz. can spaghetti sauce with mushrooms
8-oz. can kidney beans, undrained
French Bread

Soak onion in milk for five minutes. Add beef, egg, oats, salt and pepper and mix well. Mound this mixture in a 10-inch skillet. Combine spaghetti sauce and kidney beans and spread over the meat mixture. Simmer, uncovered for 20 to 25 minutes or until meat is completely cooked. Cut in wedges and serve on slices of French bread which have been buttered and toasted. Spoon excess sauce over top. Yield: 5 or 6 servings.

Flowers

Flowers can say "I love you" ... "I'm thinking of you" ... "Congratulations" ... "Best Wishes" ... "Good Luck" ... "Bon Voyage" ... "Happy Birthday" ... "Happy Anniversary" ... "Wish you were here" ... "Get well quick" ... "Thank you for a Wonderful Weekend" ... "It was a lovely dinner"... "Best Wishes to Mother and Baby" ... "Good Luck on your Promotion" ... "You were the best in the play" ..."Cheer Up" ... "My Deepest Sympathy" ... "Happy Easter" ... "Happy Mother's Day" ... "Happy Sweetest Day" ... "Happy Thanksgiving" ... "Merry Christmas" ... and of course, "To Wear on Our Date Tonight."

Labels can help homemakers

When consumers consider the fact that of the 8,000 or more items in a large food store today, half or more are packaged foods, labels become even more important.

Industry and government therfore have cooperated to provide for the listing of nutrient content on packaged foods. Today, more and more food manufacturers are listing nutritional information on their product's labels.

First look at the front panel. When vitamins are added to a food product, it will usually say so on the front of the package with key words like fortified, enriched or vitamins added.

The nutritional information section which is generally found on the side panel is the really important part of the label. It shows the amount of calories, protein, carbnohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals per serving and lists each ingredient in order of its predominance in the product.

Nutrition listings must be provided if a nutrient is added to a product, even to replace nutrients lost in processing, or if a nutrition claim is made for the food either on the label or in an advertisement.

Nutrition information must include serving size, number of servings per container, calorie content per serving, protein content per serving (in grams), carbohydrate content per serving (in grams), fat content per serving (in grams) and percentage of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA) per serving for the following: protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron.

The nutritional information on food labels is designed to help consumers select nutritious foods by providing extensive nutrition information, improve their knowledge about nutrition and improve the nutritional quality of a diet.

Although a item included on many labels is the open or freshness date. This date assures peak flavor and freshness at the time of purchase and for a reasonable period of time when kept under accepted home storage conditions.

Another new item appearing on packages is the universal product code (UPC). This is a nationally coordinated system of product identification designed to benefit the consumer through more efficient marketing, wholesaling and retailing methods.

A 10-digit number is assigned to every grocery product sold through retail grocery channels in the United States. The first five numbers designate the manufacturer. The second five numbers represent a specific product. The linear bar symbol corresponds to the numbers.

Eventually all products will bear the assigned number and linear symbol. At the check-out counter, an electronic scanner will read the symbol and automatically transmit the information to the computer that controls the cash register.

The benefits of this system will be to speed up checkouts through instant tabulation, reduce cost of price-marking each item, provide instant inventory information, cut warehouse costs, decrease out-of-stock problems and increase accuracy by reducing human error.

Labels can help homemakers

There is a lot to learn about a product from the package and its label.

When consumers consider the fact that of the 8,000 or more items in a large food store today, half or more are packaged foods, labels become even more important.

Industry and government therfore have cooperated to provide for the listing of nutrient content on packaged foods. Today, more and more food manufacturers are listing nutritional information on their product's labels.

First look at the front panel. When vitamins are added to a food product, it will usually say so on the front of the package with key words like fortified, enriched or vitamins added.

The nutritional information section which is generally found on the side panel is the really important part of the label. It shows the amount of calories, protein, carbnohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals per serving and lists each ingredient in order of its predominance in the product.

Although the listing of nutrition information on the label is voluntary, if nutrition is given the manufacturer must provide the information in a specific manner.

Nutrition listings must be provided if a nutrient is added to a product, even to replace nutrients lost in processing, or if a nutrition claim is made for the food either on the label or in an advertisement.

Nutrition information must include serving size, number of servings per container, calorie content per serving, protein content per serving (in grams), carbohydrate content per serving (in grams), fat content per serving (in grams) and percentage of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA) per serving for the following: protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron.

The nutritional information on food labels is designed to help consumers select nutritious foods by providing extensive nutrition information, improve their knowledge about nutrition and improve the nutritional quality of a diet.

'As American as apple pie'

The early American woman rarely used sugar for baking since the refining process was not the streamlined process it is today; however, her pies literally "went down in history" as delicious affairs.

The Pennsylvania Dutch and other ethnic American cooks still use sweeteners besides sugar or combine other sweeteners with sugar when they are baking.

Sugar was found on the sideboards of early American kitchens in the form of rock sugar crystals. Well-behaved children were rewarded with a pieces of rock sugar instead of candy. If sugar was used in baking, the early American cook would break off a piece from the pyramid of rock sugar or buy a string of rock sugar crystals and melt them down for cooking. Pioneer women made dozens of pies without sugar during harvest season, and the pies, made with fruits of the season or dried fruits, were a welcome treat after a day in the fields.

Pies are an all-American favorite, especially apple pie, and, for pies as delicious as the ones from the good old days, try the following sugarless pie recipes. Corn syrup is the sweetener and the recipes include one for apple pie, date delight pie and pumpkin pie.

Never-Boil-Over Apple Pie (sugarless

1 recipe pastry for 9-inch double-crust pie
6 medium apples, cored, pared, sliced
3 tbs margarine
1 tbs corn starch
1 tsp ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp salt
Two-third cup Karo light or dark corn syrup

Divide pastry dough almost in half. Flatten larger portion slightly and roll out about 12 inches in diameter on lightly floured surface. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Arrange apples in pan.

Roll out top crust; cut circle from center large enough to insert end of funnel; cut slits for decoration and to allow steam to escape. Place pastry over apples; seal and flute edge.

About 15 minutes before pie has finished baking prepare cinnamon syrup. In small saucepan melt margarine. Stir in corn starch, cinnamon and salt. Then stir in corn syrup. Stirring constantly, bring to boil and boil 5 minutes.

Pour boiling hot cinnamon syrup into pie, about one-third at a time, tilting plate after each addition to allow syrup to spread evenly. Cool pie on rack. Makes one (9-inch) pie.

DATE DELIGHT PIE

1 package (8 oz.) dates, finely chopped
3/4 cup water
1/2 cup dark Karo corn syrup
2 tbs margarine
2 tsp vanilla
1/4 cup chopped nuts
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup light Karo corn syrup
1 egg, beaten
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
Whipped cream or whipped topping

In saucepan stir together dates, water and dark corn syrup. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil over medium heat and cook 8 to 10 minutes or until thickened. Remove from heat.

Stir in margarine, 1 teaspoon of the vanilla and nuts. Cool.

Bake in 375 F. oven 35 to 40 minutes or until edge of filling is set and crust lightly browned. Chill.

Pumpkin Pie

1 cup dark Karo corn syrup
1 cup evaporated milk
2 cups canned pumpkin
1 tsp salt
1/2 tsp ginger
1/2 tsp ground cinnamon
1/4 tsp ground nutmeg
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell with high fluted edge

In large bowl beat eggs slightly. Add corn syrup and evaporated milk; beat until smooth. Add pumpkin, salt, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg; beat until blended. Pour into unbaked pastry shell.

Bake in 450 F. oven 10 minutes; reduce heat to 325 F and continue baking about one hour or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Dessert designed for grill

The grill menu can be the usual hot dog or hamburger type, but grilled Hot Fudge Cake can make the whole meal seem fit for a king's feast. Using remaining heat in the dying coals is energy-saving, and heavy duty Reynolds Wrap keeps all foods safely heating and holds them for hot serving. It wraps up plain fudge cake layers sandwiched with marshmallows.

When the grilled entree and vegetables are served, set the individual foil bundles and a small pot of Hot Fudge Almond Sauce over the low heat coals. When heated through, fold back the wrap into a bowl shape, pour on the sauce and eat right from the foil.

HOT FUDGE CAKE FROM THE GRILL

Chocolate sauce

Place one slice of cake or cupcake half on a square of heavy duty aluminum foil large enough to wrap up filled cake. Top cake with marshmallow pieces; add another cake slice or cupcake half to form sandwich.

Bring opposite sides of foil together in a double fold; double-fold ends. Repeat for each serving.

Place on grill over low heat coals. Turn packets of cake once. To serve, fold back foil into bowl shape. Add sauce and eat from the foil. Makes six servings.

HOT FUDGE ALMOND SAUCE

¼ cup cutter or margarine

½ cup silvered almonds

2 bars (4½ oz. each) milk chocolate candy

¼ cup milk or water

Melt butter or margarine in container on grill. (This can be a small pan suitable for grill or 14'' square heavy duty Reynolds Wrap with edges turned up to form a small pan.) Add almonds and let toast, stirring occasionally.

Break candy bars into pieces, add to nuts and butter and let melt. Stir gently with wooden spoon and gradually add milk or water. Heat all together, stirring until smooth. Makes 1¾ cups sauce

Custom made TV dinners nutritious, uncomplicated

Homemade TV dinners

The TV dinner habit is undoubtedly here to stay. But, if you often question the combination of foods in them or the cost in view of this problem, consider custom-making your own dinners at home.

Assembling the family's favorite meat, vegetables and accompaniments in one package ready for the oven is so easy with heavy duty Reynolds Wrap. You stash away several good foil-wrapped menus on a special day which youset aside to do this one thing. All the cleanup is done at one time for several meals. How glad you'llbe when that busy-busy time arrives and kitchen duty simply is not possible!

Take your choice of the three dinners suggested here. Each gives the exact but uncomplicated step-by-step directions. Frozen dinners stand nicely in the oven if you have to be away several hours just before dinner and set your automatic oven timer. Try these dinners on your grill, too.

HOME PACKAGED CHICKEN DINNER

Onion and celery, finely chopped
Butter or margarine
Mushrooms, fresh or canned
Corn on cob, fresh or frozen
Salt and pepper
Chopped parsley

Brown chicken lightly in butter or margarine, and cook onion and celery until tender but not browned. For each dinner serving, place in center of a large square of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap two pieces of chicken, one tablespoon each onion and celery, several whole or canned mushrooms, half an ear of corn, a bit of chopped parsley and seasonings. Close each serving by bringing two sides of foil up over food; double-fold tightly on top of package, and double-fold each end. Refrigerate or freeze.

To cook, place on cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven 375 degrees F. Bake one hour if chilled, 1½ hours if frozen. To cook on outdoor grill, cook one hour, turning once or twice. Serve entire package on plate, each person opening his own and eating right from the foil, if desired.

HOME PACKAGED BEEF DINNER

Chopped onion
Butter or margarine
Tender beef chunks
Potatoes, cut into chunks
Fresh or frozen green beans
Fresh tomatoes
Salt and pepper

For each dinner serving, place on a large square of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap, a serving of beef chunks, about 1 tablespoon onion, ½ cup potatoes, ½ cup green bean pieces, ½ cup tomato. Season each serving well with salt, pepper and other favorite seasonings.

Bring two sides of oil up over food, double sealing edges tightly on top of package. Double-fold each end of package. Refrigerate or freeze.

To cook, place on a cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F). Bake 1 hour if only chilled; 1½ hours if frozen. Cook same length of time on outdoor grill. Do not turn. To serve, place on dinner plate and let each person open his own package. Food may be eaten right from foil covering.

HOME PACKAGED PORK CHOP DINNER

Pork chops
Acorn squash
Pineapple slices, drained
Brown sugar
Salt and pepper

Brown pork chops in a skillet. Split small squashes or slice large ones in thick rings, removing seeds.

For each dinner serving, place on a large square of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap 1 pork chop, a slice of pineapple, a serving portion of the squash. Sprinkle brown sugar over the pineapple and squash. Season all with salt and pepper.

Bring two sides of foil up over food and double-fold edges tightly on top of package. Double-fold both ends. Store in refrigerator or freezer.

To cook, place on a cookie sheet in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F). Bake in oven or cook on outdoor grill 1 hour for ½ inch chops; 1¼ to 1½ hours for thicker chops. Do not turn.

A lemon usually yields about 2 teaspoons grated rind and 2 to 3 tablespoons juice. A medium orange yields from 2 to 3 tablespoons rind and 6 to 8 tablespoons juice.

Turkey economical, delicious

From Thanksgiving to Christmas and through the New Year's celebration, turkey is the most popular piece de resistance for large family dinners and party buffets.

It's economical and delicious, too, a wonderful way of providing a handsome main course for many people. It can be relatively easy to perpare, if you bear in mind these suggestions.

1. Buy turkey several days ahead of the cooking day. This will permit defrosting in the refrigerator which keeps juice loss to a minumum. Leave in original wrap. Allow three days for a 10 to 14 pound bird, four days for a 15 to 20 pound bird. After defrosting, remove original wrap, cover loosely with Reynolds Wrap until ready to prepare. Make broth to use in stuffing and gravy from giblets.

2. Use time-saving packaged stuffing croutettes, available nationally, or locally distributed stuffing mixes. These are made from perfectly dried fine quality bread with all the best of seasonings added. Prepare according to package directions and add your own touch of favorite ingredients, as follows:

To one seven to eight ounce package stuffing croutettes, or mix, add any of the following:

Fruit and Nut Stuffing: 1 cup diced tart apple sauteed in 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup light raisins and ½ cup finely chopped walnuts.

3. Prepare turkey for roasting this easy way. Rinse bird quickly and pat dry. Rub skin and cavities with a little salt. Fill neck with a small amount of stuffing and fasten skin to back with a skewer. Fill body cavity lightly, leaving open so heat will penetrate.

Twist wing tips onto the back. Cross drumsticks and tie to tail with soft string. This keeps stuffing in place. Bake extra stuffing in a foil-lined casserole.

4. Roast without basting. Line a shallow roasting pan with foil to avoid messy clean-up. Place trussed bird on a rack in the foil-lined pan. Brush all over with soft shortening.

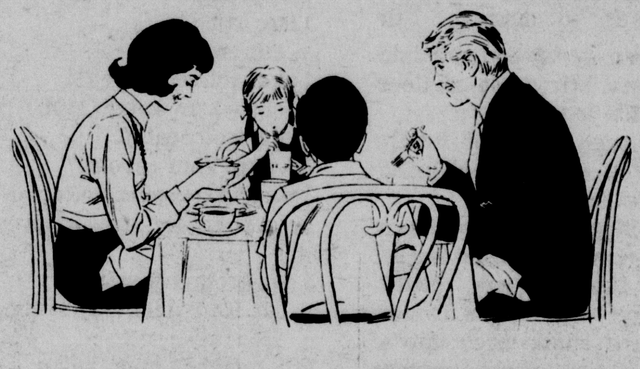
Roast in a 325 degrees F. oven, according to the following time table. When turkey is lightly brown, cover with a loose "tent" of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. This prevents over browning and keeps turkey moist, without basting.

To make "tent," tear off a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap 5 to 10 inches longer than turkey. Crease lengthwise through center. Place over the bird and press the foil gently at drumsticks to anchor it.

5. Test the turkey about 10 minutes before finish or roasting time.Differences in the tenderness of birds may make it necessary to increase the cooking time. A meat thermometer inserted in the thickest part of the thigh should read 185 degrees F. The breast meat should feel soft when pressed with the fingers. Drumsticks and thigh join should move easily.

6. Now Make Wonderful Gravy. Lift turkey onto a warm platter -- it should stand about 30 minutes so juices stop running and for easy carving.

Pour drippings into pint or quart measuring cup. Skim off fat. Add broth made from giblets to make needed amount of gravy, pour into saucepan. If browned-on juices stick to foil pan liner, pour some of the broth into pan, return to oven a few minutes to dissolve, then pour into saucepan. For each cup of broth, allow one tablespoon flour. Mix with a small amount of cook broth, then add to broth in saucepan. Stir and cook until consistency of heavy cream, unwhipped.



GETTING THE MEALS ON THE TABLE AND KEEPING COSTS DOWN IS A CHALLENGE TO US ALL.

Saving energy along the way is one more important step. Here are some tips which can easily become habit-forming and save you both energy and money.

1. Fit your pots and pans to your heating unit or flame size.
2. Make sure your pans have flat bottoms and straight sides.
3. Heavy pans take longer to heat up.
4. Don't play peek a boo with your oven. you lose 25 degrees of heat everytime you open the door.
5. Plan all oven meals.
6. Use pan covers.
7. Never use your range or oven to heat the kitchen.
8.Thaw frozen foods throughly before cooking.
9. Keep range and oven clean.
10. Use left over heat to warm up desserts, rolls and breads or freshen crackers, croutons and cookies or warm your plates.

An electric range top element will retain heat for 3 to 5 minutes. An oven, gas or electrit, if unopened, retians heat from 15 to 30 minutes.

Homemade bread comes out on top no matter how slcied

Hearty oatmeal bread

No matter how you slice it, homemade bread comes out on top. Whether you are just discovering the enjoyment of making bread for the first tim or are already skilled in the art, you probably know by now that the traditional white bread is just one of many types of bread that families everywhere enjoy.

Next time you are making bread, try something new. Hearty oatmeal loaf incorporates an unusual mixing technique and eliminates one kneading. Quick brown bread, served with beans and pork, will add a delicious taste to dinner, while sticky buns are perfect for after-school snacks.

HEARTY OATMEAL BREAD

1 cup quick or old fashioned oats
2 tbsp. margarine
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110F)
½ cup Karo dark corn syrup
2 teaspoons salt
5 to 6 cups unsifted flour

Pour boiling water over oats and margarine in large bowl. Stir until margarine is melted. Cool about 10 minutes stirring occasionally.

Sprinkle yeast over warm water, stir to dissolve. Stir yeast, corn syrup and salt into oat mixture. Stir in enough flour to form stiff dough.

Place in greased bowl; turn over to grease top. Cover and let rise until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch dough down. Divide in half and shape each into a smooth oval. Place loaves in 2 greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pans; cover, let rise until double, about 1 hour.

Bake in 350F oven 50 minutes or until loaves sound hollow when tapped on bottom. Turn out and cool on racks. Makes 2 loaves.

STICKY BUNS

2 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup corn oil
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (110F)
1 egg, well beaten
3½ cups flour (about)
3 tbsp. margarine, softened
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tsp. ground cinnamon
½ cup Karo dark corn syrup

Mix together milk, sugar, salt and corn oil. Cool to lukewarm. Stir yeast into water until dissolved. Mix in milk mixture and egg. Stir in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic.

Place in greased bowl smooth side down. Tun ball. Cover. Let rise in warm place about 1½ hours or until double in bulk. Punch down.

Place dough on lightly floured surface. Roll dough into 12x11-inch rectangle, about ¼-inch thick. Spread with 3 tablespoons margarine, ¼ cup brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll up as for jelly roll beginning with 12-inch side.

Cut roll into 12 (1-inch) slices and place cut side down in prepared pan. Pour corn syrup over rolls. Cover and let rise again until doubled in bulk, 35 to 40 minutes.

Bake in 425F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately turn out onto large plate. Makes 12 rolls.

QUICK BROWN BREAD

2 tbsp. margarine
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup Karo dark corn syrup
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
1 cup unsifted flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. ground ginger
½ tsp. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. grated orange rind
½ cup raisins

Grease 8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Mix together margarine and sugar in large bowl. Beat in egg. Stir in corn syrup, buttermilk and then whole wheat flour. Stir together flour. baking soda, salt, ginger and cinnamon. Add flour mixture and grated orange rind to corn syrup mixture. Beat on medium speed of electric mixer abut 2 minutes or until smooth and well blended. Stir in raisins. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in 350 F oven 60 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool about 10 minutes, then turn out of pan. Cool thoroughly to cut into thin slices. Makes 1 loaf.

Note: To sour milk, use 1 tbsp. lemon juice or vinegar and add enough milk to make 1 cup.

A DAILY FOOD GUIDE

The daily food guide below presents foods in four groups on the basis of their similarity in nutrient content. The four groups are: the meat group; the vegetable-fruit group; the milk group; the bread-cereal group.

MEAT GROUP

FOODS INCLUDED: Beef; veal; lamb; pork; variety meats, such as liver, heart, kidney. Poultry and eggs. Fish and shellfish.

AMOUNTS RECOMMENDED: Choose two or more servings every day. Count as a serving: 2 to 3 ounces of lean cooked meat, poultry or fish — all without bone.

One egg, ½ cup cooked dry beans, dry peas, or lentils, or 2 tablespoons peanut butter may replace one-half serving of meat.

VEGETABLE-FRUIT GROUP

FOODS INCLUDED: All vegetables and fruits. This guide emphasizes those that are valuable as sources of vitamin C and vitamin A.

Sources of Vitamin C:

Good sources — Grapefruit or grapefruit juice; orange or orange juice; cantaloupe; guava; mango; papaya; fresh strawberries; broccoli; brussels sprouts; green pepper; sweet red pepper.

Fair sources — honeydew melon; lemon; tangerine or tangerine juice; watermelon; asparagus tips; raw cabbage; collards; garden cress; kale; kohlrabi; mustard greens; potatoes and sweet potatoes cooked in the jacket; spinach; tomatoes or tomato juice; turnip greens.

Sources of Vitamin A:

Dark green and deep yellow vegetables and a few fruits: apricots, broccoli cantaloupe, carrots, chard, collards, cress, kale, mango, persimmon, pumpkin, spinach, sweet potatoes, turnip greens and other dark green leafy vegetables, winte squash.

AMOUNTS RECOMMENDED:

Choose four or more servings every day, including:

One serving, at least every other day, of a good source of vitamin A. If the food chosen for vitamin C is also a good source of vitamin A, the additional serving of a vitamin A food may be omitted.

The remaining one to three or more servings may be of any vegetable or fruit, including those that are valuable for vitamin C and for vitamin A.

Count as one serving: ½ cup of vegetable or fruit; or a portion as ordinarily served, such as 1 medium orange or potato, half a medium grapefruit or cantaloupe, or the juice of one lemon.

MILK GROUP

FOODS INCLUDED: Milk — fluid whole, evaporated, skim, dry, buttermilk.

Cheese — cottage; cream; Cheddar-type, natural or processed. Ice cream. Yogurt.

AMOUNTS RECOMMENDED: Some milk every day for everyone.

Recommended amounts are given below in terms of 8-ounce cups of whole fluid milk: Children under 9- 2 to 3

Children 9 to 12 - 3 or more

Teenagers - 4 or more

Adults - 2 or more

Pregnant women - 3 or more

Nursing mothers - 4 or more

Part or all of the milk may be fluid skim milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk or dry milk.

Other milk products, such as cheese, ice cream or yogurt, may replace part of the milk. The amount it will take to replace a given amount of milk is figured on the basis of calcium content. Common portions of cheese, yogurt and ice cream and their milk equivalents in calcium are:

1-inch cube Cheddar-type cheese equals ½ cup milk

½ cup cottage cheese equals 1-third cup milk

2 tablespoons cream cheese equals 1 tablespoon milk

½ cup ice cream or ice milk equals 1-third cup milk

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP

FOODS INCLUDED: All breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or resoted; check labels to be sure.

Specifically, this group includes: breads; cooked cereals; ready to eat cereals; cornmeal; crackers; flour; grits; macaroni and spaghetti; noodles; rice; rolled oats; and quick breads and other baked goods if made with whole-grain or enriched flour.

Bulgur and par-boiled rice and wheat also may be included in this group.

AMOUNTS RECOMMENDED: Choose four servings or more daily. Or, if no cereals are chosen, have an extra serving of breads or baked goods, which will make at least five servings from this group daily.

Count as one serving: 1 slice of bread; 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal; ½ to ¾ cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice, or spaghetti.

OTHER FOODS:

To round out meals and meet energy needs, almost everyone will use some foods not specified in the four food groups. Such foods include: unenriched, refined breads, cereals, flours; sugars; butter, margarine, other fats. These often are ingredients in a recipe or added to other foods during preparation or at the table.

Milk provides protein, riboflavin, vitamin A, and many other nutrients. Cheese and ice cream also supply thes nutrients, but in different proportions. When fortified with vitamin D, milk is the major surce of this vitamin in the diet.

Meat, poultry, fish and eggs from the meat group are valuable sources of protein, iron and the B vitamins — thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. Dry beans, dry peas and nuts are almost as useful and are usually listed in the meat grups.

The vegetable-fruit group supplies most of he vitamin C and vitamin A in the diet. Concentrate on the dark green and deep yellow fruits and vegetables for their vitamin A value and on citrus fruit and a few othes for vitamin C.

A short list cannot do justice to all of the useful sources. Cantaloupe, strawberries and mangoes are also good sources of vitamin C. Nor does a food have to be among the best sources of vitamin C. It is just that it may take more to fill the need.

The bread-cereal group with its whole grains, enriched bread and other cereal products, provides protein, iron, and several vitamins One ounce of ready-to-eat cereal does about as much as ½ to ¾ cup of cooked ceral product, cornmeal, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

Fats, oils, sugars and sweets are not usually shown on food guides. They are common to every diet, however, and are enrgy sources. They also make the diet more attractive and acceptable to some people. Some of the fats and oils provide vitamin A and E; some furnish essential fatty acids. Since these foods are apt to be high in calories, they should be used in moderation.

Foods from each group can be part of every meal, but they do not have to be.

Also, some foods fall into several groups, pizza for example. It is desirable, however, to have the proper number of servings from each of the groups in the course of the day.

The same food guide can work for everyone. The difference is only in the quantity; more of everything for the ravenous teenager, and choices with fewer calories for the dieting adult; more of certain foods for the pregnant woman, and less of these foods for her husband.

Don't neglect breakfast. Many people skip breakfast but scientistts have found much evidence that a good breakfast can make a person more alert and productive throughout the morning. And a good breakfast can provide a good start to meeting the daily nutrient needs.

Meat, poultry, fish and eggs from the meat group are valuable sources of protein, iron and the B vitamins — thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. Dry beans, dry peas and nuts are almost as useful and are usually listed in the meat grups.

The vegetable-fruit group supplies most of he vitamin C and vitamin A in the diet. Concentrate on the dark green and deep yellow fruits and vegetables for their vitamin A value and on citrus fruit and a few othes for vitamin C.

A short list cannot do justice to all of the useful sources. Cantaloupe, strawberries and mangoes are also good sources of vitamin C. Nor does a food have to be among the best sources of vitamin C. It is just that it may take more to fill the need.

The bread-cereal group with its whole grains, enriched bread and other cereal products, provides protein, iron, and several vitamins One ounce of ready-to-eat cereal does about as much as ½ to ¾ cup of cooked ceral product, cornmeal, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

Two slices of bread will do the job of one ounce of cereal.

Fats, oils, sugars and sweets are not usually shown on food guides. They are common to every diet, however, and are enrgy sources. They also make the diet more attractive and acceptable to some people. Some of the fats and oils provide vitamin A and E; some furnish essential fatty acids. Since these foods are apt to be high in calories, they should be used in moderation.

Foods from each group can be part of every meal, but they do not have to be.

Also, some foods fall into several groups, pizza for example. It is desirable, however, to have the proper number of servings from each of the groups in the course of the day.

The same food guide can work for everyone. The difference is only in the quantity; more of everything for the ravenous teenager, and choices with fewer calories for the dieting adult; more of certain foods for the pregnant woman, and less of these foods for her husband.

Don't neglect breakfast. Many people skip breakfast but scientistts have found much evidence that a good breakfast can make a person more alert and productive throughout the morning. And a good breakfast can provide a good start to meeting the daily nutrient needs.
